GREAT BATTLE IN PROGRESS IN POLAND

WILSON TURNS TO FOES TO WIN HIM SHIP BILL

Aids Filibuster While He Parleys; Scandal Rumors Rampant.

OFFERS TO BACK DOWN

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—In a desperate effort to save some fragment of President Wilson's ship purchase bill the administration Democrats today continued their filibuster in the senate against the move of the triumphant opposition to sidetrack the measure.

The general opinion in and about the senate at the close of the day was that the bill is "dead." Even if it can be saved by the making of wholesale concessions to its opponents, the measure will be only the ghost of the ship purchase plan offered by the administration.

Glimpse of Scandal Rumors.

A glimpse of the rumors of scandal that have filled the legislative atmosphere was given in the afternoon by the introduction of a resolution by Senator Borah calling upon Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo for information about alleged negotiations for ships and asking whether "any officer of the government has made any overtures or addressed any inquiries to the owners of ships under the flags of belligerent nations" looking to their purchase.

The resolution suggested that certain persons, in or out of official life, had secured options on interned ships and might profit by the passage of the bill.

Another resolution by Mr. Burton called on Secretary of State Bryan to state the attitude of foreign governments toward the proposal to purchase belligerent ships.

Democrats Keep Up Filibuster.

To the great amusement of the Republicans, who for ten days were deluged with Democratic censure for conducting a filibuster, the administration leaders brought forward the pension bills, evinced an inclination to discuss any legislation save the purchase of ships, and finally adjourned the senate at 2:30 p. m.

In the breathing spell thus gained President Wilson and the majority leaders of the senate put forth mighty efforts to reduce the extent of the Democratic defection which developed yesterday and to offset the effect of the insurgency by the winning of votes for the bill from the Republican side of the chamber.

Offer Sweeping Concessions.

Both the president and his senate lieutenants offered during the day the most sweeping concessions in the provisions of the bill, concessions designed to tempt back some, if not all, of the seven bolting Democrats and attract the support of progressive Republicans who have disclosed an inclination to vote for the measure if modified.

Tonight the administration Democrats gathered in a caucus and endeavored to frame concessions which will save them from the humiliation of defeat or the acceptance of a Republican substitute for their measure.

Wilson Turns to Foes.

Discouraged by evidence that the seven Democratic insurgents intend to stand pat on their opposition to the bill, the president early today began to concen-

134,747 Names Added to List of Chicago Voters

NO BIG PARTY GAIN

Chicago put the names of 134,747 voters on its poll books at yesterday's registration, bringing the total unrevised figure up to 690,720. Women voters fell short by less than 1,200 of the 60,000 estimate made by the election officials, while the men exceeded the estimate for them by more than 25,000.

Politically, so far as any one can extract political significance from the figures, the percentage of increase in men's registration ran about the same throughout all the wards, and it does not appear any party can claim an advantage. Generally the increase was about 16 per cent on the revised total of last October, with 33 1-3 per cent increase in the Second ward, considered Republican; the same in the Nineteenth, which is Democratic, and 40 per cent in the Eighteenth, also Democratic.

Unrevised Figures by Wards.

Following are the revised registration figures by wards, with the total for the day and the grand total for the city, which includes the revised registration of October:

Increases of Women.

On percentage of increase the Democratic wards seem to have far the better of the women's registration. The largest increases were in the Sixteenth, with 40 per cent; Eighteenth, with 68; Nineteenth, with 90; Twenty-second, with 55; Twenty-fourth, more than doubled; Twenty-ninth, with 50; Thirtieth, with 45; and the Thirty-fifth, with 50, the percentages being approximate.

Strong Republican wards like the Sixth, Seventh, Thirty-first, Thirty-second, Twenty-fifth, and Twenty-sixth, probably had a larger proportion of the women registered last fall, leaving them smaller opportunity to show an increase yesterday.

In the Twenty-third ward, the home of Mayor Harrison and William Hale Thompson, the registration averaged only with that in the majority of the wards. The Twenty-fifth ward is the home of Judge Olson. There, also, the champions of Mr. Thompson were especially active in getting the voters out to register.

WHEAT, $1.65; U. S. TRAILING SPECULATORS

BREAD PRICE IS UP.

The war-spurred wheat market took a new high jump yesterday. The greatest advance in prices in a single day since the war began was marked up in the pit, with May wheat at $1.65—which is 8¾ cents higher than on Monday night.

In the sensational days of the Letter deal May wheat touched the high mark of $1.65.

The Italian government bought 1,000,000 bushels of wheat and additional export sales brought the total close to 1,200,000.

U. S. on Trail.

Coincident with the unprecedented activity of the market, the government's investigation of wheat and flour prices took on renewed activity. District Attorney Charles F. Clyne ordered subpœnas issued to bring in the books and records of a number of big grain firms, among them the Armour Grain company, J. Rosenbaum Grain company, and Bartlett, Frazier & Co. The district attorney is investigating their connection with elevator rates in the west and northwest.

The government hopes to find out how much grain the companies have handled in the last six months and how much is now in Chicago.

Complaints have been made to the government that speculators, under the guise of shipping for export, have shipped grain to seaboard elevators for speculative purposes.

Price of Bread Starts Up.

Incidentally the price of bread started up when numerous small bakers and dealers advanced the rate to 6 cents a loaf.

Some large baking firms notified the retailers that the wholesale price today would be 5 cents, instead of 4—thus forcing the retail price up to 6 cents.

It has developed that the big bakers are not expecting to put on the rise simultaneously. They desire to avoid the appearance of agreement and price fixing.

Hence it is to be expected the 6 cent level will spread across the city as fast as the bakers deem it expedient to enforce the raise.

Complaints on the size of loaves led Ald. Willis O. Nance to announce he would introduce a council resolution asking for investigation of weights and prices. It is possible the inquiry may lead to the fixing of a minimum weight of three-quarters of a pound a loaf. The present ordinance requires only that the weight be indicated on the label.

History in Pit.

The situation in the wheat market finds new pit history being made every hour. The new high levels in May wheat make the previous high marks look low by comparison. Last night's close at $1.65 shows an advance of 16¾ cents compared to the close on Friday.

Indicating the wild character of the market, the "offers" after the close, formerly known as "calls," sold at $1.64 to $1.82.

There were several millions of bushels traded on the board—despite the interesting fact that there probably are only about 265,000 bushels of wheat in Chicago deliverable on contract.

The cause of death is presumed to have been heart failure. Mrs. Woldt was 57 years of age. She was one of the last applicants of the day for registration and had given her birthplace as Germany, little realizing that she was dictating her own obituary.

U. S. Plans to Collect on $20,000,000 Stock Distribution.

ROSENWALD AIMED AT

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Secretary McAdoo will issue orders shortly to Collector of Internal Revenue Smietanka at Chicago to take steps to insure the collection of income tax on the $20,000,000 "melon" cut by Sears, Roebuck & Co. last Saturday.

The treasury department has not been advised yet whether the stockholders of Sears, Roebuck & Co. will fight the tax. It is prepared for opposition, however, and already has the law department of the income tax division at work on the case.

It is estimated that the collection of tax on this "melon" will net the government about $800,000, over and above the taxes collected from the stockholders of the company last year.

Rosenwald Chief Tax Payer.

Julius Rosenwald, head of the great mail order house, will pay the largest tax of all the stockholders. From the "melon cutting" Mr. Rosenwald received 75,850 shares of stock, which at a par value of $100 would add the sum of $7,585,000 to his income for the year. As the value of the stock is about $140 per share, however, this stock at the time it is distributed in March probably will be worth in the neighborhood of $10,500,000.

On this amount Mr. Rosenwald will be called to pay 4 per cent, which is just 1 per cent less than the average Sears, Roebuck & Co. annual dividend on the common stock. Thus, Mr. Rosenwald's tax on his increased income for this year will be in the neighborhood of $630,000. The Chicago millionaire for one year in his life undoubtedly will be one of the three or four greatest taxpayers in the country.

Ruling on Stock Dividends.

An official of the treasury today, in discussing the Chicago case, explained the treasury's position.

"Before the dividend was passed," he said, "the surplus, or the dividend fund, was the property of the corporation and not of the individuals who own stock in that corporation as individuals. There was no way by which the individual could get his hands on the money, which probably was withheld as working capital.

"However, when the stock was ordered issued, it provided a way for the individual to realize at the market value of the stock. Hence, the department holds and is prepared to defend its position in the court, that stock dividends must be reported as income."

I. C. AWARDS $1,500,000 LOCOMOTIVE CONTRACT.

Order for Engines Goes to New Concern—Other Railroads Plan Large Purchases.

Concrete evidence of increased prosperity came yesterday in the form of an order for $1,500,000 worth of locomotives for the Illinois Central railroad. The order was let to the Lima Locomotive corporation, a comparatively new competitor in the manufacture of locomotives. The order calls for fifty locomotives of the mikado type. The engines will be delivered as fast as they can be turned out.

In addition to the order let by the Illinois Central came other reports of large purchases by the railroads. A director of a railroad said that numerous contracts had been let by the railroads during the month of January and many others will be made during this month.

WOMEN OPPOSE MEN AT SEX TALK

Mrs. George Bass Now Refuses to Introduce Mrs. Ellis as Planned.

The proposal to admit men to the lecture for "women only" has aroused considerable protest. Women who had planned, unaccompanied by escorts, to hear Mrs. Havelock Ellis discuss "Sex and Eugenics" on Feb. 4 at Orchestra hall are much disappointed at the failure of their plans.

Several of the 100 women who are to sit on the platform as a moral support to Mrs. Ellis during the lecture say they had promised to do so with the understanding that men would not be present.

Mrs. George Bass, whose name appears on the program for the "Address of Welcome" has declined to speak. Miss Harriet Vittum of the Woman's City club will deliver the welcoming address.

Why She Backed Out

"Mrs. Bass said she would give an impression of protest at the meeting if she spoke," said Dr. Ellis L. Lobdell, chairman of the committee of arrangements. "That is why she said she preferred not to speak."

"The announcement that men will be admitted was a disappointment to her, she said. I have received many letters expressing objection to the admission of men. The women said they considered the charm of the evening lecture gone because of this action."

Mrs. Leonora Z. Meder, commissioner of public welfare for the city, will not be among those sitting on the platform.

"Such lectures are not for the good of the public welfare," she said. "I should not care to take my daughter with me to the lecture. These free love lectures and insinuations given out are not good for the young. I think they are only cheap advertising for the lecturers and give them a chance to make money. The lecturers don't believe in the stuff they preach, anyhow."

Mrs. Young Not to Go.

Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of schools, has another engagement for the evening, her secretary said. Members of the Medical Woman's club, however, said Mrs. Young is a member of the League of Medical Freedom, and the lecture is to be given by the Medical Women's club, they explained.

CALLS YANKEES WEAKLING SET

[By Cable to The Chicago Tribune.]

HAMBURG, by Courier and Cable to London, Jan. 31.—Dr. Tonio Riedemann, director general of the Deutsche-Amerikanische Petroleum Gesellschaft, or German-American Oil company [the Standard Oil's German branch], today received a correspondent and in the course of an interview denounced not only the American government but the American people as "a pitiful set of weaklings" because of what he called the truckling of the United States to Great Britain over the petroleum and other embargoes.

One of Germany's Richest Men.

Dr. Riedemann, who, next to Herr Ballin of the Hamburg-American line, is Hamburg's leading citizen and one of the wealthiest men in Germany, predicted that Great Britain's action in declaring petroleum contraband of war would free Germany of the monopoly of Standard Oil.

His opening remark was: "What's the matter with you Americans?" This he followed up with a dissertation delivered in heated tones.

"I thought I knew and liked the American people, but I have found myself badly mistaken. I know now that there is nothing to expect from your countrymen but the attitude of complaisance, no matter what England does to you. You will submit to everything, and any insults that the British navy may offer you you will swallow, as you have done so far in this war.

American Flag Insulted.

"Already they have gone so far as to pull down the American flag on an American ship and hoist the Union Jack, but the great United States just looks meekly on.

"Protest! Bah! Your protests are a pitiful shame. England will refuse to do what you ask. You will continue to bend your knee to Britain.

"It is not your government that is to to blame. The American government would obey the people. But at present the American people are pitiful weaklings."

RUSSIAN ARMY ON FRONTIER NEAR THORN

AUSTRIANS REPULSED.

BULLETIN.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 2.—Russian army headquarters today issued the following statement:

"German officers are deceiving their men when they affirm that the Russians are being defeated in Poland and Galicia. On the contrary, the Austrians are fleeing. The mountain passes are held by the Russians. Russian cavalry has penetrated the Hungarian plains and is now approaching Budapest. Marshal von Hindenburg is vainly endeavoring to advance."

BULLETIN.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 2.—Travelers from Turkey declare the Anglo-French fleet bombarding the Dardanelles has destroyed four of the principal forts. Turkish officials along the channel have fled to the Asiatic shore.

RUSSIANS CLAIM VICTORIES.

PETROGRAD, Feb. 2.—Important victories both in Poland and in the Carpathians are claimed in the official statement from the Russian war office today.

Fierce Fighting Before Warsaw.

The battling along the Bsura river west of Warsaw, has cost the Germans 6,000 in killed and many more wounded and taken prisoners, it was stated. Gen. von Mackensen hurled six regiments against the Russian position southwest of Bochaczew in repeated charges for four days.

Heavy artillery fire great gaps in the German lines. While the infantry was engaged a force of German sappers tunneled their way nearly 100 yards to the first line of Russian trenches. By chance a Russian officer discovered the mouth of the tunnel, and a little group of Germans was captured. Two machine guns were rushed to the mouth of the tunnel, and a company of Germans was slaughtered underground.

Trenches Lost, Then Regained.

By weight of numbers the Germans forced the Russians at this point to retire from their first line of trenches, and followed up this advantage by shelling the Russians out of their second line positions. Reinforcements were brought up and the Germans forced to evacuate the captured positions, with the exception of 100 yards of trenches on the Russian right.

In the Carpathians the Austro-German forces have been unsuccessful in attempting to force their way northward to relieve Przemysl. An Austrian army that penetrated the mountains south of Lutowiska is being rolled back toward the Hungarian frontier. In three days' fighting in the Carpathians the Russians have taken 4,162 prisoners.

Russian Official Statment.

The official communication issued early today follows:

"On the right bank of the lower Vistula on Jan. 31 our cavalry made a sudden and successful assault upon the German line along the front between Bromm and Lake Orzesisje, ten miles north of Sierpec, capturing many officers and soldiers. The attempt of the Germans on Jan. 30 to open an offensive movement in the direction of Lipno and Dobrzyn, supported by artillery fire, was checked.

Germans Make Desperate Attacks.

"In the course of the day of Jan. 31 the enemy, after having concentrated in the region of Sochaczew, Bolimovo, and south of Bolimove, a large force of artillery, developed active operations against our position with considerable forces. The German offensive was distinguished by great tenacity, advancing in close ranks strongly supported from the rear.

"After having concentrated a violent fire in the morning on that region, the fierceness of the German offensive compelled some of our units to retire to the second line of trenches.

"In the meanwhile a counter attack from another detachment of our forces drove the enemy from all the trenches occupied by him, inflicting on him enormous losses.

Germans Gain Some Ground.

"Simultaneously with this attack the Germans delivered a series of ferocious assaults against our front between the villages of Goumine, Bourgade, and Mogheiy. These attacks were supported by heavy artillery fire. Up to midday of Jan. 31 every one of these assaults was driven back by us, some by our rifle fire and some with the bayonet.

"But between midday and 2 p. m. of Jan. 31 the Germans were successful in occupying a part of our trenches. In this they were helped largely by an energetic and sustained artillery fire.

"A little after 2 o'clock we undertook a general counter attack. This was successful, and as a result of it the enemy, the evening of Jan. 31 retained but a little portion of our first line trenches, together with a certain chateau.

Report Successes in Carpathians.

"The fighting in the Carpathians continues. In spite of the reported participation of fresh Austrian troops, which up to the present time have not actually appeared on our front, we were successful in repelling every endeavor of the enemy to assume the offensive in the vicinity of Mount Beskid and Mount Wyszkow.

"We are continuing to advance with success along the front from Nijnia Polianka to Loudoviski. Between Jan. 28 and 29 on this front we captured seventy-eight officers, 4,065 soldiers, four pieces of artillery, and ten machine guns."

CHICAGO TO RAISE ANOTHER $100,000 FOR BELGIANS.

City Already Has Sent $120,000 to Suffering People — $20,000,000 from All America.

Chicago's leading business men have been so moved by reports of the suffering of women and children in Belgium that they have started to raise a fund of $100,000 in addition to what Chicago people have already given to keep the starving and freezing of this unhappy people alive until spring.

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Belgian food relief committee, at which Arthur T. Aldis presided and Cyrus H. McCormick, James A. Patten, H. J. Patten, W. J. Chalmers, and Martin A. Ryerson were present, it was unanimously decided that $100,000 more must be raised at once.

"Belgium has had a little less than $120,000 all told from Chicago," said Chairman Aldis, "which is less than 5 cents per capita from our population."

America has sent to Belgium about $20,000,000 in food and money, according to the committee for Belgian relief at New York, yet the situation there is so bad that "1,400,000 persons do not know where they are to get their next meal," says the committee's official report.

GERMAN LIVES WASTED BEFORE FIRE OF BRITISH

Balked in Attempt to Take Trenches Near La Bassee; Dead Litter the Field.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—That terrible loss of life was suffered by the German army in attempting to take British intrenchments is reported in the account of the British official eye-witness of two German attacks between the La Bassee canal and the Bethune road Jan. 29.

"In the center," the report says, "our men gave the Germans a warm reception, and the latter fell back, leaving fifty dead in front of this point alone.

"To the south of it they temporarily gained possession of a small portion of one of our trenches, but were immediately counter attacked with the bayonet and every man in the trench was killed.

German Dead Litter Field.

"After the fighting was over the enemy's dead, to the estimated number of 200, lay thick all along our line. Our casualties were slight.

"This attack, like those delivered at Givenchy and at Zonnebeke on the 25th, was a costly failure, resulting only in a great waste of life. It was made by some 300 men in the first line and 300 more in support occupying the trench vacated by the first line when it moved forward.

"Prisoners say that there were 100 dead lying in this trench before the Germans advanced, and that none of the troops making the assault had attacked before."

Report on Feb. 1 Fighting.

The French war office today gave out a report on operations yesterday as follows:

"In Belgium the German heavy artillery gave evidence of its greatest activity on the front of the Belgian troops in the region of the Yser. Around Ypres the cannonading was at some places exceedingly violent.

"Between the Lys and the Somme a German regiment attacked a British position near Cuinchy and at first drove the English soldiers back. After a series of counter attacks the British troops reoccupied the ground they had lost and then advanced into new territory.

French Win at La Bassee.

"The engagement reported in the announcement given out the night of Feb. 1, which took place along the roadway between Bethune and La Bassee, was particularly brilliant for our infantry. The Germans had at least one battalion in this engagement. The two first attacks were broken by our fire. The third was successful, but an immediate counter attack at the point of the bayonet resulted in our overcoming the enemy. Only a few Germans succeeded in regaining their trenches.

"Between the Somme and the Oise and along the front of the Aisne there is no important development to report. Our heavy artillery bombarded the railroad station at Noyon, where the Germans were reprovisioning their forces.

Keep Up Perthes Advance.

"Our methodical progress in the region of Perthes continues. We have occupied another small forest to the northwest of this village.

"In the Woevre district the enemy delivered an attack on the western side of the Bouchot forest [northeast of Troyon], which was at once driven back.

"There is nothing to report on the front in Lorraine and in the Vosges."

Call French Reports False.

BERLIN, Feb. 2, by wireless to Sayville, L. I.—The headquarters staff of the German army today gave out this statement:

"The French war reports during the last few days have contained grotesque distortions of the truth to the disadvantage of the Germans, as well as what is characterized as 'free inventions.' The staff declines to go into details in this regard, simply saying that the value of these French statements is apparent to any one who will examine them in the light of the German official reports."

Hundreds Dodge Front in France by Getting Selves Safe Billets

BY CAROLYN WILSON.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENT OF THE TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Jan. 20.—The papers continue to flay the embusqué and try to shame him into enthusiasm and loyalty. An embusqué is a combination of coward, quitter, and "teacher's pet." If a man's father is a senator, or if his mother, for example, possesses valuable manufactories which she will turn over to the state if her only son can find a position in them instead of going to the front; or if his brother-in-law is in the ministry and can get him transferred from his regiment to a nice, warm, comfortable paying job with the government—in any of these cases, the man is an embusqué.

At first the word meant all those people who were not actually in the fighting line and was applied indiscriminately to men who got jobs with the ration corps, as officers' chauffeurs, and so forth. But these positions soon came to be realized as hazardous, even if they were not as dangerous as a post in the trenches.

There are hundreds of men who have sought government jobs; others who have gone into the Red Cross work far from the front; others who have applied successfully to get transferred to regiments tranquilly guarding the French frontier from the horrors of Spanish invasion; others who through influence were formerly excused from military duty and now refuse to volunteer.

New and entertaining little bands of patriots are formed from time to time, giving each member the right to wear a uniform and an armband and often much silver lace and trappings, thus justifying him in the eyes of his friends and family and yet keeping him far away from the dangers of war.

One of these corps is the secret service, of which I spoke in one of my former letters, and recently another has been made up of painters who have been chosen by the government to follow in the wake of the army making interesting designs and paintings of the capture of prisoners, the destruction the Germans have wrought, the life in the trenches, and so forth. But it is safe to say that there will be few actual fighting scenes among the collections that are gathered first hand, unless there happens to be a high, distant hill handy.

Lest this criticism should seem to reflect upon the courage of the French nation as a whole, let me hasten to say that it is only the embusqués who deserve these imputations, for one sees again and again proofs of the amazing nerve and daring of the French soldier.

Things seem to be running with almost perfect smoothness now in the departments of health, of public charity, and of provisionment for the army. All the letters from the front say that the men have more than they can carry with them, owing to the gifts that come from the loving parents at home.

One young author, who was wounded recently in the north, was brought back to a Paris hospital, where two friends went to see him, taking warm clothes, special delicacies to eat, and tobacco.

"My dear fellows," he said to them, "I have everything I want here. But if you absolutely insist on bringing me something, bring me my monocle, please."

However, devoted friends and parents continue to knit and to sew and to send packages with all sorts of goodies in them.

There are so many sacrifices, too, implied in the sending. The other day I saw two little shop girls finishing their meager lunch. A slice of sausage and some bread constituted all, but, like all of this class, they had to have their black coffee. They went up to the counter, and to the man's question said, "Yes, one coffee only."

He looked a little surprised, but more so when he saw that they both intended drinking this little cupful of black coffee. In turn they sipped the bitter stuff, slowly in order to make it last longer. Then paying the man 2 cents for it, they laid down three more and said: "Three sous' worth of cigarets."

I thought to myself that it was for these that they had been economizing on the café. So it was, but not in just the manner I had thought. They carefully deposited them in the little box which is affixed in all the cafes of Paris labeled: "Tobacco for our soldiers."

I was talking the other day to a man who had three sons and two grandsons at the front, and in the course of the conversation we spoke about the huge part that barbed wire is playing in this war.

"It was one of your compatriots," he told me, "who is responsible for that. I used to know the inventor, Col. Isaac L. Ellwood, a veteran of the civil war. When I met him he was a hearty old man of 75 who had retired with his fortune made.

"We used to play poker together, and one day he told me how he arrived at his invention of barbed wire. He used to take his wife's hairpins to serve as models for his idea, and, if there was some one he wanted to show his scheme to, he didn't hesitate to rob her of a dozen or so on the spot. She used to get angry, but he said, 'Don't fuss; these pins may make our fortune.'

"They certainly did, for after some difficulties in the beginning, he put up enormous factories. After the formation of the steel trust they were bought with his patent rights for $10,000,000."

It largely is owing to the use of this barbed wire by both armies that the advance is so slow along the lines. Slow it certainly is.

The other day at Paillard's three French women were dining at the next table to an English colonel, who in spite of all their endeavors to attract his attention regarded his menu with interest and the plate with enthusiasm.

Finally one of the women spoke to him in English, thinking he didn't know French.

"Everything is going all right, isn't it, colonel? We advance always; we go forward every day, don't we?"

"Yes, madame, an inch," replied the officer, grimly.

PEACE PRAYER BY POPE SEIZED BY THE FRENCH.

Periodicals Publishing Plea Released After Explanation—Pontiff Asks for Report on Affair.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Periodicals containing the text of Pope Benedict's prayer for peace, which he had directed should be read in all Catholic churches Feb. 7, were seized Sunday by the police of the department of the Seine, according to the Figaro.

The incident was settled, however, after explanations had been made to the authorities by Cardinal Amette, archbishop of Paris, and the embargo was withdrawn.

Pope Orders Quis on Seizure.

ROME, Feb. 2.—Pope Benedict was informed today of the reported action of the French police in regard to the papal prayer. A telegraphic request for full information was sent to Paris.

It was said at the Vatican that the papal prayer contained no expressions which would warrant the French authorities in taking action. The pope's desire is for "a speedy, lasting peace"—not a peace which would be "humiliating for one side and triumphant for the other."

BERLIN JOURNAL DEFENDS SINKING OF MERCHANTMEN

AMSTERDAM, Feb. 2.—Discussing the torpedoing of British merchantmen by German submarines, the Kreuz Zeitung, a Berlin newspaper, says:

"England and France cannot claim from us in all circumstances and without exceptions the benevolent treatment which we hitherto have accorded merchant ships at sea. Certainly the life of no civilian will be sacrificed without necessity, but as no one refrains from bombarding a fortress or places on a battlefield because civilians may thereby be killed and as England has not hesitated to strew the North sea with mines whereby the lives of neutrals are sacrificed, so shall we not refrain from torpedoing English merchant ships simply because the lives of a few are thereby endangered."

Von Kluck's Son Killed.

BERLIN, via Amsterdam and London, Feb. 2.—The eldest son of Gen. von Kluck, who was a naval lieutenant, is reported to have fallen in an artillery battle near Middelkerke.

BRIDGE BLAST MAY CAUSE U. S. NEW TROUBLES

Canada Demands We Give Up German Who Tried to Blow Up International Span.

Vanceboro, Me., Feb. 2.—Another international problem incident to the war was thrust upon the United States today by the action of Werner Van Horn, who, operating on the Canadian side of the border, dynamited the railway bridge over the St. Croix river and then escaped into this state.

A few hours later, in a room at a hotel here, Van Horn quietly submitted to arrest, but immediately proclaimed himself an officer of the German army and set up the claim that he had committed an act of war and, having fled to a neutral country, could not be legally surrendered to an enemy of the fatherland.

He took his detention coolly, apparently indifferent regarding what charges may be preferred against him.

Canada to Ask Extradition.

The Canadian authorities took a different view of the matter, and at once instituted proceedings to obtain the extradition of the prisoner on a charge of destruction of railroad property. Pending the outcome of these efforts, Van Horn is held at the immigration office here in custody of Deputy Sheriff George W. Ross of Washington county.

The bridge which Van Horn sought to destroy was not greatly damaged and can be repaired in a day or two. The St. Croix river, which the bridge spans, for some distance forms the boundary between Maine and New Brunswick.

The bridge is owned jointly by the Maine Central and the Canadian Pacific railways and is on the direct route of the Canadian Pacific from western Canada to the maritime provinces. Over this road have been shipped large quantities of war materials for the allies, which were placed on board ships at St. John and Halifax.

According to the police, Van Horn, a man of middle age and of military bearing, told them he left Germany five years ago and for the last four years had been managing a coffee plantation in Mexico. Recently he made unsuccessful attempts to return to Germany.

Ask Van Horn to Surrender.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Application for the extradition of Van Horn reached the British embassy here late tonight, and probably will be presented to the state department by the ambassador tomorrow. Officials of both the embassy and the department declined to discuss the case.

WILL SEIZE ALL FOOD SENT FOES

Page Warns Washington Britain Will Confiscate Grain and Flour.

EXCEPTS WILHELMINA.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Ambassador Page at London cabled the state department today that the British fleet had been ordered to treat cargoes of grain and flour destined for Germany or Austria as conditional contraband, subject to seizure and confiscation.

This step, the ambassador explained, followed the announcement that the German government had decreed confiscation of all grain and flour to conserve the nation's food supply.

Since the publication of the German order the ambassador here, Count von Bernstorff, has personally assured the American government that no foodstuffs imported from the United States or other neutral countries would be subject to seizure, and press dispatches have announced the issuance of a modifying decree making such exemptions by the German government.

Wilhelmina Alone Excepted.

Ambassador Page said the British government had informed him that because the steamship Wilhelmina, now bound from New York for Bremen with grain and other food, had sailed before the issuance of the German decree, an exception would be made in its case. The vessel would be seized, it was said, but would be released and its cargo purchased at invoice price by the British government. Warning was given, however, that other shipments hereafter of like character when destined for Germany, directly or indirectly, would be seized, as well as the vessels carrying them, without compensation being paid.

This announcement put an entirely new complexion on the negotiations that have been in progress intermittently since the beginning of the war in regard to the right of neutral states to ship food supplies to belligerent countries.

The state department has not decided what shall be done in the matter and is carefully considering the whole subject.

GUARD BERLIN BAKE SHOPS.

PASTOR RUSSELL GATHERS MONEY IN THE VINEYARD

Toll Among Faithful Yields Houses, Lots, and Farms in Many States.

Second of a series of articles on "Pastor" Russell, who in various ways is just now being liberally exploited in Chicago.

Unlike most other men of the cloth, who are notoriously poor at finance, "Pastor" Russell—do not you street car riders feel you already know that dear old man?—has quite a grasp of mundane affairs.

Under the "pastor's" skilled direction the United States Investment company's rising material prosperity has kept pace with the spiritual growth of the International Bible Students' association (lately the Church of the Millennial Dawn) and the increasing business of the Watch Tower Bible and Tract society.

Thus the "pastor" has been able to congratulate himself of recent years that his labors in the vineyard of the Lord have not been altogether without the sort of temporal profit that makes the bank cashier rise and shoot his cuffs at one's approach.

Avoids Usual Pastors' Problems.

Nor has the "pastor" ever been worried by the problems continually arising in the lives of some other clergymen. He has never had to worry about the leak in the roof of the parsonage, the empty coal bin in midwinter, or that little matter of four months' back salary.

Out of the saving of his self-sacrificing career, thanks to his rare judgment and ripe experience in the world of barter and exchange, he holds an interest in the investment company and the tract society which gives him absolute control. At one time and another—and possibly they still are his—the thrifty "pastor" has owned a cemetery, many mining stocks, and considerable blocks of securities in other corporations, dealing variously in oil, real estate, coal, and asphalt.

Landlord in Many Climes.

Contributing to the dimensions of his nest egg when the assets of the tract society and the investment company were up for inspection a couple of years ago were twenty-eight houses and lots in Binghamton, N. Y., several lots in Tacoma, Wash., a farm near Rochester, a house and lot in Buffalo, a farm in Oklahoma, a house and lot near Pittsburgh, and 5,500 acres of Kentucky land.

Nearly every one of these properties, representing as they do the free will gifts of the faithful to whom the "pastor" has given warning of the nearing millennium, strikes some golden treasure of memory as he runs down the list.

Not only in matters of finance has the "pastor" demonstrated his native shrewdness in the busy world of affairs. For instance, while the title of his preference conveys the impression that he might have been ordained to the ministry in the conventional way, such is not the case. And then again, there might be ways to deprive him of the use of the conventional "Dr." or "Rev."

Odd Similarity of Names.

Also, by another similarity of name, the International Bible Students' association is mistaken with surprising frequency for the Intercollegiate Bible Students' association, which stands high in the estimation of religious teachers of the established orders.

The International Bible Students' association was thus confused with its almost namesake last summer, when the "pastor" assembled his flock in convention and decided there was nothing in the Bible to show the existence of a brimstone pit for sinners.

At the request of the convention the Associated Press sent out a request to ministers all over the country to remove the threat of fiery retribution from their sermons. Some clergymen, believing the request came from the American and Canadian college students of the Intercollegiate Bible Students' association, are said to have built and delivered sermons on the no-hell theme, and there was considerable indignation among them when it was learned whence came the anti-satanic pronunciamento.

Adopts Talmadge Name.

Peculiarly enough it was "The Brooklyn Tabernacle" on which the "pastor" struck when he cast about for a name for his new headquarters in Brooklyn six years ago. Doubtless the good "pastor" would be greatly distressed if he knew how many persons are under the impression that his tabernacle is the same Brooklyn tabernacle in which the Rev. T. De Witt Talmadge preached, and who believe that he, "Pastor" Russell, is the successor of that great pulpit orator.

But the "pastor's" tabernacle has none of the historic grandeur which its new name implies. It is a small chapel which used to belong to the Plymouth Congregational church. All these things, no less than his financial triumphs, go to stamp the pastor a remarkable man.

Haberdasher in Youth.

In his early years "Pastor" Russell was a haberdasher. That was before he had mastered his Bible, had put his ear to the ground, and had heard the approach of Gabriel.

The "pastor"—then plain Charles T. Russell—was at the height of his success in haberdashery when he saw the light and decided to go into another line. At that time five prosperous stores in Pittsburgh were yielding him rather more than a comfortable living. It was in the '70s.

In the face of the divine call Russell kept control of his business of selling bodily raiment, while he outfitted a few pioneer converts with soul armor which should see them through the terrestrial upheaval. When there were enough of the convert brethren to mean something in an economic way the five haberdashery shops went into the hands of a secular shirt seller. Then the Watch Tower Bible and Tract society was formed, and the "pastor" began to dash off tracts, Bible studies, and religious editorials.

Moves to Brooklyn.

The Watch Tower Bible and Tract society grew and grew until its very growth, coupled with other and more personal circumstances to be discussed at another time, made advantageous a removal from Pittsburgh to Brooklyn, which is called the "City of Churches."

There were other reasons, aside from its fame as a church center, that argued in Brooklyn's favor. For one thing, it was in another state. Early in 1909 the tract society was established in its new quarters and "Pastor" Russell's celestial publicity men were plastering the city with news of his arrival.

Space was contracted for in newspapers for the publication of the "pastor's" sermons, whole billboards were bought up, converts flocked to the protecting wing of him who was so familiar with the details of the Great Period of Change, and the treasure boxes of the tract society began to increase and multiply.

Then Brother Bohnet, one of the "pastor's" followers out west somewhere, began his soon to become famous and never to be forgotten experiments with Miracle wheat, the blessed grain of the elect.

[The story of "Pastor" Russell's Miracle wheat will be published tomorrow.]

Did the Groundhog See His Shadow? He Did Not!

LITTLE MISS MORTON OF 2150 LINCOLN PARK WEST

MOST Chicagoans had heard before nightfall yesterday that the groundhog hadn't got even a glimpse of his shadow at the moment of his once a year preeminence. But of all of them probably little Miss Morton was the only one who knew for sure, since the question of shadow or no shadow is usually decided by a casual glance from the windows of the newspaper offices.

Right across the street from little Miss Morton's home at 2150 Lincoln park, west, dwell quite a number of groundhogs. Citified and civilized they may be, but for prophetic purposes the town groundhogs are preferred by savants even over those of the forest primeval.

Little Miss Morton went into the park and waited for the four-legged forecaster to appear. Presently her patience was rewarded. Forth came a groundhog. He walked close to the small investigator, occasionally taking a quick glance over his shoulder. Not a sign of a shadow did he see—unless his eyes were sharper than little Miss Morton's. All of which meant that the spring of 1915 is going to be an early one.

There was a photographer handy to take little Miss Morton's picture and that of the expected groundhog, but no matter of fact reporter accompanied him. That's why little Miss Morton goes to press without a first name.

FRENCH DESTROY HOMBERG CASTLE

Airmen's Bombs Set Fire to German Headquarters in Alsace District.

BERNE, Feb. 2.—French airmen today dropped bombs on the famous Homberg castle in Alsace, where important German staff officers were residing.

The buildings was set on fire and burned to the ground. The fire spread to a number of farm buildings adjoining the castle and soon nothing was left but smoking ruins.

Homberg castle was the summer residence of the French countess Maupeau. It contained some celebrated ancient furniture. The damage is estimated at several million francs.

Air Raid Near Verdun.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—German aviators dropped bombs with deadly effect in the region southeast of Verdun, according to word received here today. One noncombatant was killed near Pont-a-Mousson; a little boy was maimed at Nancy, where an explosive missile dropped on a school yard, and a maternity hospital at Remiremont was slightly damaged.

The raid was executed from Metz. At least six German aviators, with observers, crossed the French lines near Pont-a-Mousson.

Sixty Bombs on Dunkirk.

News of this latest German air raid reached Paris on the heels of the announcement that German taubes again had successfully bombarded Dunkirk, raining sixty shells on the seacoast town.

It aroused the most bitter indignation here. Paris newspapers voiced the popular demand that the allies' aviators take the aggressive at once and shell German cities in retaliation.

ITALY CALLS ON TROOPS ABROAD

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The Italian reservists living in England have been warned to prepare to respond to a call to the colors.

Doubts Turkish Governor.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

ROME, Feb. 2.—The delay in the solution of the Hodeida incident is now discovered to be due to the fact that, according to the Turkish officials, Mr. Richardson, the British consul whose release was demanded by Italy, has been allowed to go to India across Persia. Hence the Turkish governor insists that the consul has already been released and Italy's demands complied with. The Italian foreign office, however, suspects foul play and does not accept the governor's excuse.

Italians May Seize Durazzo.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—A dispatch from Athens to the Balkan Agency says that an Italian expeditionary corps, composed of 20,000 men, destined to occupy the Albanian seaport of Durazzo and its vicinity, is being concentrated at Bari, an Italian city on the Adriatic near Brindisi.

GERMAN FLEET TO FIGHT SOON?

Dutch Travelers Tell of Preparations for British; Russ Submarine in Raid.

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

LONDON, Feb. 3, 5 a. m.—The Daily Mail's correspondent at Rotterdam telegraphs that an early move by Grand Admiral von Tirpitz, the German minister of marine, is eagerly expected at Hamburg.

Among Dutch travelers arriving there there is much talk of secret devices which are to be employed against the British fleet, particularly in the way of improved periscopes, enlarging the range of vision of submarines, and new automatic range finders.

A dispatch last evening to the Morning Post from Petrograd says that Russian submarines, besides seriously damaging the German cruiser Gazelle recently in the Baltic, also sank a German gunboat.

Hospital Ship Sunk?

[BY CABLE TO THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—An unsuccessful attempt of a German submarine to torpedo the British hospital ship Asturias Monday was announced by the minister of marine this afternoon.

The Asturias was fifteen miles northnortheast of the Havre lightship when the attack was made.

EXPECT 10,000 TO PARADE FOR PEACE SUNDAY

Predictions that Chicago next Sunday will see one of the greatest demonstrations in its history were made yesterday at the headquarters of the American Neutrality league, of which Horace L. Brand, publisher of the Illinois Staats-Zeitung, who sent out the call for the meeting, is secretary.

"It is estimated," read a statement issued by the organization, "that 10,000 marchers will parade to the Coliseum."

At the Coliseum will be held the mass-meeting called by the league "in favor of peace, of American neutrality in the European war, and the furtherance of the bills now before congress to prevent the sale and exportation of arms and munitions of war, except foodstuffs, to any of the warring countries."

In addition to the immense facilities of the Coliseum those of the Second Regiment armory will be available for the crowd if an overflow becomes necessary. Three thousand formal invitations have been sent out by the league to citizens whose presence is especially desired.

Nagel to Be a Speaker.

The Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones will act as chairman of the meeting. Among the speakers scheduled to appear are Charles Nagel, former secretary of commerce and labor, under President Taft, and Robert J. Thompson, until recently American consul at Aix-la-Chapelle. Several United States senators and members of congress have accepted invitations to be present.

In part the league's statement of its history and purposes follow:

"The league, whose national headquarters is now in Washington, D. C., is the direct outcome of the movement begun by the German-Irish Alliance of America in their big demonstration at North Side Turner hall and Bush Temple theater, Chicago, on Dec. 1, when organization was perfected and resolutions passed to further laws forbidding the sale and exportation of arms and munitions of war to the belligerent nations engaged in the present European conflict.

Move in Other Big Cities.

"Since that demonstration others of a similar nature have been held by the Germans and Irish in New York, Brooklyn, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis, Baltimore, Pittsburgh, St. Paul, Milwaukee, New Orleans, Omaha, Cincinnati, and many smaller places.

"Bills in accordance with the objects of these meetings have been introduced in congress and already have received the support and official sanction of the German-Irish Alliance of America, the German National Alliance of America, and kindred societies, the United Irish League of America, the Ancient Order of Hibernians, the United Irish Societies of Chicago, St. Louis, Milwaukee, and Cleveland."

THOMPSON LOST HIS NERVE ONCE

WOMAN LEFT IN FORT.

Donald C. Thompson, the "Kansas photographer" in the European war, now on the staff of THE TRIBUNE, amused members of the Chicago Automobile club yesterday with an account of his adventures as a war photographer. He was introduced by Charles N. Wheeler, one of THE TRIBUNE war correspondents, as "one of the most amazing products of the present war."

"Thompson has been through thirty-two battles," said Mr. Wheeler, "and was shot at Dixmude. At one time he stopped the Ninth imperial army corps of Germany. He knew and spoke nothing but native Kansas. He landed in Europe and asked where the war was. He was told, and he went and saw it and photographed it. He bluffed all the way through, and only once did he lose his nerve."

When He Lost Nerve.

Thompson told about the time he lost his nerve. It was after the Waelhem fort, in the outer defenses of Antwerp, had fallen.

"I wanted to see the fighting at the fort," said Thompson. "I went to a Boston girl, the wife of an English officer. I told her that hundreds of soldiers were dying in the ruins of the fort and they needed our help.

Woman Marooned in Fort.

"We made several trips. Shells were bursting all around us. She was the bravest woman I saw during the war. Finally the bridge over the river was blown up when she was on the other side. I was left with the soldiers in the village of Waelhem. Shells were coming into the village fifty a minute.

"I went into a house with a soldier who had been a waiter in the St. Regis hotel in New York. A shell blew the house down about us. I ran into the street, and a shell passed so close to me that the suction swept me off my feet and landed me on the back of my head on the pavement. I lost my head and my nerve, and ran down the street screaming. A Belgian officer took hold of me, and I came back to my senses."

WOMAN "BURGLAR" VICTIM CHARGED WITH THE THEFT.

Mrs. Anna Brady Walk, Who Told Weird Tale of Being Chloroformed, Accused by Roomer.

Mrs. Anna Brady Walk, who told the police Monday that burglars had chloroformed her and her 3 year old adopted daughter and ransacked their home at 6337 St. Lawrence avenue, was herself a prisoner in the Hyde Park station last night. With the assistance of a chemist detectives had assured themselves there had been no chloroform on the cloth which Mrs. Walk said was held over her face until she lost consciousness.

When Mrs. Walk is arraigned in the Hyde Park this morning Charles Teal, a roomer in her flat, will appear as complainant. A diamond pin belonging to Teal, which Mrs. Walk said had been taken by the "burglars," was found to have been pawned in her name.

Mrs. Walk's husband, Charley Walk, is a Chinese. He is said to have deserted her last September and gone to Detroit to open a wifeless chop suey restaurant.

FIRE RUINS BALLOT BOXES.

Four Hundred in Harder's Storage Warehouse Burned in $20,000 Blaze.

Four hundred ballot boxes to have been used in the primary election on Feb. 23 were destroyed last night in a fire on the fifth and sixth floors of Harder's storage warehouse at 6156 Wentworth avenue. The total damage was estimated at $20,000.

An unexplained explosion in the kitchen of A. S. Lindquist's third floor flat in the Unity apartments at 1433-35 East Sixty-fifth place drove six families to the street last night. Lindquist carried out his father-in-law, Thomas Kelly, 85 years old, and gave the alarm. A frozen fire plug and low pressure delayed operations. The loss was estimated at approximately $15,000.

Fire attacked the Mutual Brewing company's plant at 3824 Twenty-second street just before 1 o'clock this morning. A 2-11 alarm was sounded.

SAYS WAR WITH GERMANY IS WAR ON THE UNITED STATES.

Dr. Bernhard Dernburg Avers This Nation Will Lose $500,000,000 by British Rule of Sea.

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2.—Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, former colonial secretary of the German empire, in an address here tonight argued that the logical sequence in the interruption of trade between Germany and the United States, through Great Britain's command of the sea, both transportation and communication, is that "the war with Germany is a war against the United States."

"The stopping of German competition on the sea means a loss of $500,000,000 to the people of the United States," the speaker said.

He declared that by the reversal of the recognized doctrines relating to contraband England hoped to starve Germans at home.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT MEETS; MANY EMPTY COMMON SEATS

Premier Asquith Tells Inquisitor That the Fixing of Food Prices Is Now Under Consideration.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Parliament reassembled today after a recess for the house of commons since Nov. 27 and for the house of lords since Jan. 8.

The house of commons had an empty appearance. Some 200 of the 670 members are at the front.

Replying to a question put by George Nicoll Barnes, Labor member for Glasgow, whether the government was considering the matter of fixing food prices, Premier Asquith said the committee now having the matter in hand was receiving full information from the various departments of the government, but he could not say when the inquiry would be concluded. The house, he said, would have an opportunity of discussing the whole question.

HOLD FATE OF POLISH RELIEF

Germany and Austria Must Give Pledges Not to Take Food or No Aid Will Be Given.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—Herbert C. Hoover, chairman of the American Belgian relief committee, has arrived in Berlin to consider the establishment of a relief organization for Poland.

A condition to the undertaking is the pledge of the German and Austrian governments not to requisition from the inhabitants any foodstuffs whatsoever for the use of the German and Austrian armies in Poland.

There is good reason to believe that these pledges will be given, but if they are not the relief measures for Poland as planned will be abandoned.

ADVERTISE IN THE TRIBUNE.

HOUSE DEADLOCK PARLEYS FAIL; TURMOIL AHEAD

Agreement on Speaker as Far Away as Ever After Vain Conferences.

Turmoil, rustion, and bitterness figure as the three leading possibilities of the legislative week at Springfield, beginning this morning.

All tentative peace arrangements came to a sudden end last night with the break-up of conferences, some friendly and the majority otherwise, whereby the house speakership deadlock might be ended forthwith. No attempt will be made at Springfield to resolve the senate differences and the recount of the ballots in the Oak Park and Englewood districts will continue through the week.

The only thing that all factions seem to agree on is that a speaker will be elected this week. Who this may be is as unanswered a proposition as it was on Jan. 6, when the deadlock began.

Demand Deadlock End.

The Republicans return to the capital, driven back by a substantial demand from a unanimous Republican and Progressive sentiment, that the deadlock be terminated.

There is still a formidable element, probably a two-thirds majority of the eighty Republicans and Progressives, who would support, gladly, Medill McCormick, if he could command the required seventy-seven votes from within the joined ranks of the two parties. The necessary seventy-seven were not in sight last night, and probably will not be this morning.

Representative David E. Shanahan, chairman of the Republican conference, announced he will summon the sixty-three regular Republicans who have been participating in the regular caucus and conference, to meet at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

Will Hear Report on Parley.

This conference will consider a report upon the negotiations of the sixteen conferees who tried to get an adjustment of differences last week. What the conference will do is the problem. The formal withdrawal of Walter M. Provine leaves the Republican caucus without a candidate.

There doesn't seem to be a chance that there will be another caucus until it is assured that the original seventeen insurgents will sit in with their fellow Republicans. The impossibility of this is said to lie in the edict reported to have been issued by the "Men higher up" in the Chicago wet councils, that none but a known wet must be elected in view of all that has been said and done.

FIREMEN MOVE UP A PEG IN NEW BUDGET PROMOTIONS

Six Graduate to Battalion Chiefs, Leaving Vacancies All Way Down the Line.

Six new places in the rank of battalion chief in the fire department provided for in the 1915 municipal budget were filled yesterday by Fire Marshal O'Connor. The six captains to go up a step in rank were Daniel J. Carmody, John P. Stahl, John J. Costello, Anthony McDonald, Patrick Rogers, and William Dillon. Their advancement made way for six new captains and the lieutenants elevated to these places were Patrick F. Smith, Joseph A. Conway, Erick A. Erickson, Joseph B. Diechman, James J. Griffin, and James J. Scanlan. Their places in the lieutenants' list were filled by six pipemen, William R. Hind, Walter C. Wolff, James E. Haugh, Frank C. Hawley, Nathan E. Holly, and Frank Teboreck.

WILSON YANKS HAT FROM RING

Says McCombs Has Denied Announcing Him as 1916 Candidate.

SITS ON PARTY BANQUET

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—President Wilson withdrew his hat from the ring today during a public interview with the newspaper correspondents. The president "yanked" his hat out of the ring so fast that it almost took away the breath of his audience.

The president was asked about the proposed Democratic banquet on March 4 to celebrate the conclusion of the second year of his administration and he replied that there are no plans for such a celebration.

McCombs Denies Announcement.

Furthermore, he added that he had received a letter from Chairman McCombs of the Democratic national committee, who had practically announced on Saturday, after a conference with him, that President Wilson was a candidate for renomination, repudiating the published interviews.

The attention of the president was called to the fact that Mr. McCombs had been in Washington on Sunday when the interview was published and had made no effort to deny it or correct it.

Insists Repudiation Stands.

Mr. Wilson still insisted, however, that Mr. McComb's letter of repudiation stands and that those who had talked with him on Saturday and again on Sunday must have mistaken his meaning.

The president seemed to think that what the chairman of the Democratic national committee had announced as a plan—namely, the starting of the Wilson campaign for 1916 on the president's western tour and the holding of a banquet of celebration—was merely Mr. McComb's personal idea and not a plan at all.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR ASKS MAYOR TO CLOSE SALOONS.

Points Out Supreme Court Decision Making It His Duty to Enforce Sunday Law.

Resolutions were adopted last night by the Chicago Christian Endeavor union urging Mayor Harrison to enforce the Sunday closing law in Chicago "without dodging or quibbling."

In the resolutions, which were introduced by Charles F. Baumgart, chairman of the Christian Citizenship department, at a meeting in the Boulevard cafeteria, 19 West Jackson boulevard, the mayor's attention was called to the fact that the Illinois Supreme court has decided that it is his duty to close Chicago saloons on Sunday.

It is further pointed out that the Supreme court has decided that an alien violating the Sunday closing law, even though no attempt is made to enforce it, cannot be naturalized.

The league empowered the Christian citizenship department to ascertain the attitude of all mayoralty candidates on the Sunday closing proposition.

WILSON TURNS TO FOES TO WIN HIM SHIP BILL

He summoned to the White House Senators Kenyon of Iowa, Norris of Nebraska, and Clapp of Minnesota, progressive Republicans, and Senator Poindexter of Washington, Progressive. Senators Kenyon, Clapp, and Norris promptly responded, but Senator Poindexter pleaded a previous engagement elsewhere.

Senators Kenyon and Norris were willing to discuss the ship purchase bill with the president at length. Not so Senator Clapp. When he discovered, however, that Mr. Wilson wished to sound himon the proposition of voting for the ship purchase bill, if amended to meet his views, Senator Clapp abruptly terminated the interview.

Norris Makes Wilson Offer.

Senator Norris informed the president that he would vote for the bill if his two pending amendments were incorporated. One of these amendments provides that no ships shall be purchased from citizens or subjects of belligerent nations except with the consent of the opposing belligerents in order that the United States may not become involved in international complications and possibly in the war as the result of seizure of the purchased craft.

The other amendment provides a restriction of the power of the government to lease the purchased ships to private capital. As the bill stands it would be possible for the government to purchase the interned ships of the Hamburg-American line and after the conclusion of the war lease them back to the company for ninety-nine years. That would be equivalent to selling them back and would place the government in the attitude of helping the German company to evade the contingencies of war.

President Wilson said that he saw no reason why amendments of this character satisfactory to the senator should not be incorporated in the bill.

Senator Kenyon gave no promise to vote for the bill, even if amended. He favors the Norris amendments, but also complete government ownership and operation of the vessels, the elimination of cabinet officers from the shipping board, and a prohibition of the transportation by the government ships of munitions of war to belligerents.

Caucus Results Secret.

A plan which they guarded with the utmost secrecy was adopted by administration Democrats of the senate in caucus tonight to break down opposition to the government ship purchase bill.

The program includes parliamentary maneuvers which will be actuated tomorrow afternoon in the senate, and according to leaders of the party is calculated to bring support for the measure to offset the Democratic revolt last Monday.

After reaching an agreement the caucus adopted a resolution pledging every member to secrecy. Senator Kern, chairman of the caucus, announced that secrecy was necessary for the obvious reason that to make the plans public might mean their frustration.

It was reported later that included in the plan was an agreement to amend the bill to conform with some suggestions that have been made from various sources within the last few strenuous days.

While the regular Democratic caucus was under way an insurgent conference in Senator Hardwick's office was held, attended by most of the seven who got off the reservation yesterday. They were Clarke of Arkansas, Camden of Kentucky, O'Gorman of New York, Hitchcock of Nebraska, Hardwick of Georgia, Bankhead of Alabama and Vardaman of Mississippi.

The conciliation committee went at once into conference with the "recalcitrant" Democrats, but no results were obtained.

More Amendments to Bill.

In the senate substitutes and amendments were piled upon the unfortunate ship bill, adding to the tangled legislative situation in which the bill is now ensnared.

Senator Cummins offered a substitute to put the purchased ships under the control of the navy department, to be used as navy auxiliaries in time of war and as commerce carriers in time of peace. Senator Lodge proposed a substitute to the bill providing that the ships should be built in the United States and not purchased from abroad.

Senator Jones of Washington offered an amendment that no money should be applied to the purchase of ships that was raised by taxing "unenfranchised American women."

Senator Hitchcock saw that the "water was fine" and ventured in with his amendment to forbid the shipment of arms and munitions of war from the United States to nations at war.

Senator Smith of Michigan made a contribution to the memorials by presenting petitions from Lake Michigan ship yards asking that the ships be built at home and stating that the ship yards on the great lakes are idle at present.

In addition to other radical amendments, Senator Poindexter offered one today prohibiting the trading of the government ships with European ports.

JOLIET WOMEN WIN NEW RULE

WET FIGHT INVOLVED.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Women's votes today won the commission form of government for Joliet. Their majority of 582 in favor of the proposition offset the male majority of 175 cast against it. This carried the project by 407 ballots and ended a spirited campaign. Two years ago the commission form lost by 108 votes.

The vote today was as follows:

YES.

Men	2,948
Women	2,508

NO.

Men	3,123
Women	1,926
Total	5,049

Total women voting, 4,484.

Chief opposition to the commission form came from the United Societies and other anti-prohibition sources. Stories that kings were about to rule the city were reported scattered broadcast in the foreign born sections, it is said, and brought out a large negative vote.

Fewer Will Suit Halted.

Arguments on a motion to take the contest over the will of Michael Fewer, west side politician and saloonkeeper, out of the hands of the jury yesterday halted the proceedings in the suit brought by John J. and Patrick Fewer, brothers, against Mrs. Emma Fewer, the widow, and Mrs. John Collins, a sister.

EDUCATOR AT ANN ARBOR BRINGS WIDOW HERE TO WED

Bride Reported to Be Many Years His Senior, but He Refuses to Discuss That Feature of Romance.

Allen E. Dudley, an instructor of music in the University of Michigan, and Mrs. Ellen Babcock, a wealthy widow of Ann Arbor, were married yesterday at the Congress hotel. The bride is reputed to be some thirty years Mr. Dudley's senior, but this could not be definitely established last night, because the principals indicated the subject was not to be discussed.

Mr. Dudley received a reporter outside his apartments. He appeared to be at least 25 years old, and the suggestion of a bald spot on the back of his head might be taken as an indication of three or four years more.

Mrs. Dudley was glimpsed before the couple entered their apartments. She has gray hair.

A dispatch from Ann Arbor stated that Mrs. Dudley is a society woman and musician, whose first husband, James L. Babcock, died three years ago. The Dudleys will go from Chicago to California, where they intend to take a motor trip, after which they will return to Ann Arbor. Mr. Dudley went to Ann Arbor from Emporia, Kas., ten years ago, with visions of a musical career and a fortune.

Latest Pictures from Austrian Battle Front in Galicia.

ARCH DUKE KARL FRANZ JOSEF AT THE FRONT—The heir to the Austrian throne is taking an active part in the campaign against the Russians. The picture shows him in his winter uniform and was taken at his headquarters in the field near Cracow. Karl Franz Josef is the nephew of the emperor and became heir to the throne of the dual monarchy when Arch Duke Franz Ferdinand was assassinated at Sarajevo, June 28. He was married to Zita, princess of Bourbon de Parme, October 21, 1911. They have one son, Arch Duke Franz Joseph Otto, born Nov. 20, 1912, and a daughter, Arch Duchess Adelaide, born in December, 1913.

There have been many rumors of the retirement of the Austrian Emperor Franz Josef, who is now in his eighty-fifth year and broken in health. His reign, dating back since 1848, has been one of the longest in history. It has been marked by turbulence and bloodshed, the "Hapsburg Curse" seeming to follow the fortunes of his race relentlessly.

BARON STEPHEN BURIAN, AUSTRIAN FOREIGN MINISTER—This Hungarian nobleman a few weeks ago succeeded Count Berchtold, who dictated the ultimatum to Serbia that led to the great European war. Baron Burian recently undertook a mission to Berlin which resulted in Germany throwing a large force into Hungary for its defense against Russian invasion.

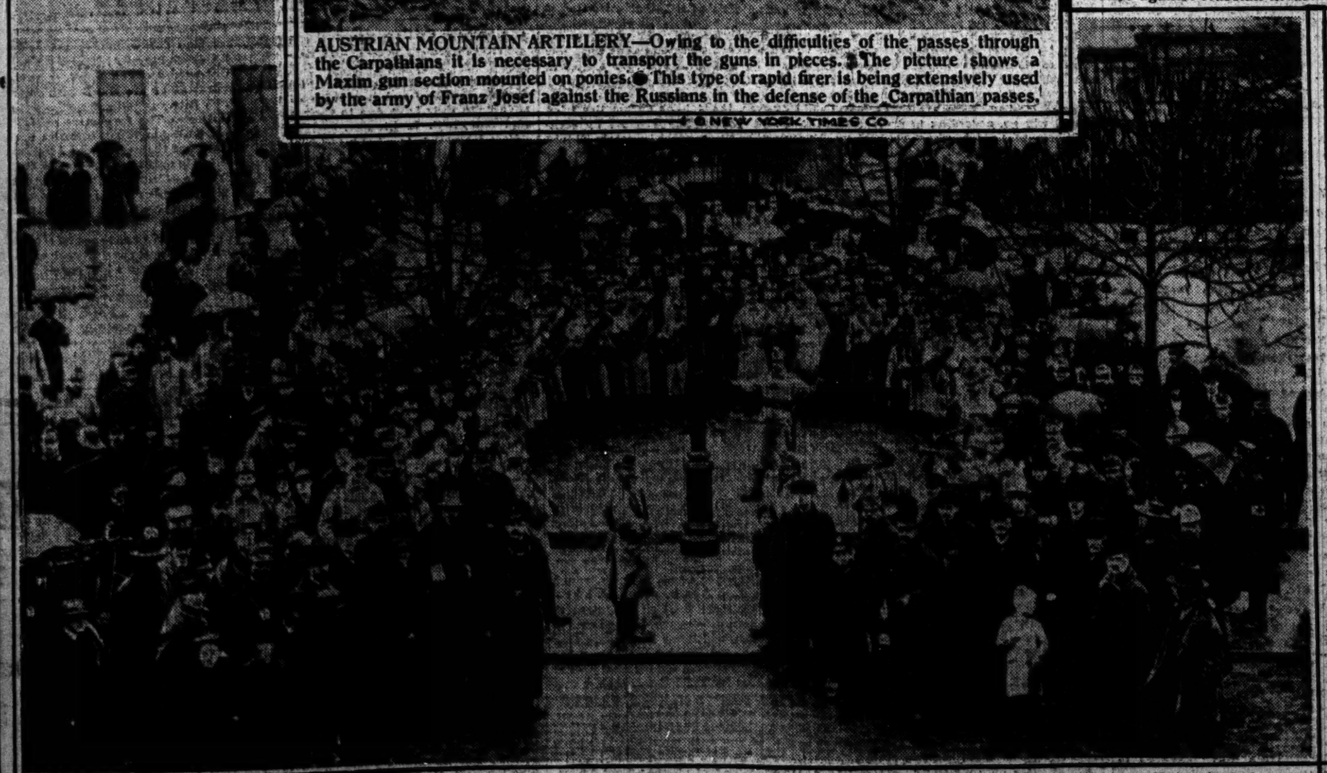

AUSTRIAN MOUNTAIN PATROL IN THE CARPATHIANS—This picture conveys an excellent idea of the difficulties encountered in the campaign along the northern frontier of Hungary. The Austrians, heavily reinforced by the Germans, are attempting to force the mountain passes from Dukla to Uzsok in a drive north from Hungary to relieve Przemysl, this counter offensive being undertaken to check the Russian invasion of Hungary.

AUSTRIAN MOUNTAIN ARTILLERY—Owing to the difficulties of the passes through the Carpathians it is necessary to transport the guns in pieces. The picture shows a Maxim gun section mounted on ponies. This type of rapid firer is being extensively used by the army of Franz Josef against the Russians in the defense of the Carpathian passes.

Here again is shown the traditional strategy of the Russians. To relieve the pressure on Warsaw, instead of hammering at the strong German forces along the Bzura and Rawka rivers they are satisfied to hold Gen. Von Hindenberg on this sphere, while they press their offensive against their opponents on the north of the Vistula toward the great fortress of Thorn in East Prussia. The barrier of the Vistula has aided the Russians greatly in this movement, as they have been able to keep the Germans from forcing a crossing.

The greatest concentration is along the line from Opocno to Sochaczew, where Von Hindenberg has been trying to break through to Warsaw.

The Russians since the first of the year have been increasing their offensive along the right bank of the Vistula, and yesterday's fighting has brought the advance within thirty miles of Thorn. North of Biegun the Russians are within ten miles of the East Prussian frontier.

AT LEAST TWO BATTLESHIPS.

It was a foolish and inconsiderate congress which broke the minimum program of naval construction and authorized but one battleship instead of two. It would be a congress run mad which would not preserve the two battleship minimum this year.

President Wilson has told Senator Tillman of the senate naval committee that he has no sympathy for the proposal, which is Mr. Tillman's, to hold back from building until the changes which the war is likely to make in naval construction be indicated.

Mr. Tillman does not put himself forward as an opponent of the minimum program, but has suggested that no battleships be authorized this year and that four be authorized as soon as the designers are confident that they understand the lessons of the war.

There was a possibility if not a danger that this suggestion would prevail, not because of its wisdom but because it offered an excuse for specious economy.

Changes in construction may be indicated or demanded by experience in the war. The question of considering speed more and armor less has been raised by the operations of the battle cruiser type, but it remains unquestioned that power consists of guns and speed, and that a ship inferior in both to the ship with which it engages is without a fighting chance. Thus far that is the chief demonstration.

To delay building to examine carefully everything which will be demonstrated by the war would be unwise. The proposal may have an aspect of economy, but it is not real. We cannot afford to take a chance. The minimum program must be sustained or the relative strength of our navy will continue to diminish.

It is fortunate for the country that President Wilson holds this opinion and will give it the support of his influence with congress.

ANTI-AMERICANS.

The following editorial under the above caption, published by THE TRIBUNE Jan. 6, has caused perhaps more comment by our readers than any editorial appearing in these columns in recent years:

"No one objects to American citizens being partisan to either the allies' or the Germans' cause in the present war. It is an American's right to take sides on any question, from an international conflagration to a cock fight. We are bred in controversy and thrive upon it.

"It becomes, however, a more serious question when the controversialists work for their chosen side to the detriment of this nation.

"Examples of overpartisanship are the American citizens of German or Irish extraction who have gone to congress to urge legislation to close down American factories and put American citizens out of work in order to benefit one of the contesting parties.

"Another illustration is of the Scotch gentleman who has made a fortune in the United States and is now spending almost his entire income in support of soldiers' families fighting on the other side of the controversy.

"These American citizens are not pro-German or pro-allies so much as they are anti-American.

"To them America is an oyster to be opened; American citizenship a privilege to be exploited.

"Reward from the various fatherlands may be expected after peace has come for anti-American services.

"It might be well for congress, in considering the immigration bill, to frame a clause forfeiting acquired citizenship for anti-American conduct."

In the Voice of the People is published a digest or group of selections from some of the letters received from which a good idea of the course of the debate may be had.

PENITENCE, MEX.

The agony of Gen. Santibanes comes conspicuously out of the ruck of revolution in Mexico. Gen. Santibanes, having become confused as to his true patriotic duty, ceased to follow the first chief, Gen. Carranza, and attached himself to Gen. Zapata. Later he saw his error and signified his willingness to repair the wrong as handsomely as he might by returning to the first chief, who obdurately refused to have any more of him.

Gen. Santibanes had in his possession Gen. Jesus Carranza, brother of the first chief, and his son, Abelardo. His affection for the first chief being ecstatic and his fervor for the right cause being masterful, he besought the first chief not to crowd an agony too far by closing his heart to a penitent patriot who must return or burst.

The first chief displayed the passions of a clam and revealed the soul of a scallop. He rebuffed the contrite Santibanes, who, looking about for a way to show his true repentance and make his love shine out brightly, bethought him to offer up Brother Carranza and his son Abelardo as tokens.

Thereupon they were placed against a wall and shot. With this convincing proof Gen. Santibanes again offers himself to the open arms of the first chief, confident that the desperate nature of such an affection will be understood.

Democracy, groping its way towards perfection in Mexico, has not offered any greater example of pure devotion to a cause.

THE ORCHESTRAL PENSION FUND.

Nothing in a long time has given Chicago music lovers more satisfaction than has the announcement of the very generous gift made to the Symphony orchestra by Mrs. Coolidge, daughter of the late Albert A. Sprague, in memoriam of her father's interest in and devotion to that great musical organization. The orchestral trustees realize that justice and loyalty require the establishment of a sick and superannuation pension system for the members of the orchestra: their resources have not, however, allowed them to set aside any sum for such a fund. They still have an uncomfortable mortgage of burden to carry, and their annual balance sheet leaves not a little to be desired. The ends just meet; a little assured surplus would be grateful, but it is not even in sight.

Mrs. Coolidge has done a handsome thing and a thing that will inspire emulation. But in its turn the orchestral association should recognize the fact in a larger and larger degree that the way to open hearts and purses of wealthy and art loving men and women is to endear it to additional thousands of enthusiastic followers. The popular concerts are a splendid new feature of its activities, but they are too few. The orchestra ought to give one popular concert a week and treat that function as one of equal importance with the "regular" performance. The orchestra should build for the future and educate new hosts. The trustees, we know, have had certain progressive plans under consideration, and this is the time to expedite their realization. Gifts and fresh support will come with evidence of fresh energy, vitality, and genuine democratic aspirations. What the Art institute is doing to bring beauty and joy to the greater public the orchestra should do with like persistence and method.

"THE MENACE."

An unfortunate issue has been raised in congress by bills to exclude from the mail certain publications the policy and practice of which is to attack the Roman Catholic church.

The issue is really freedom of the press versus a narrow and ferocious religious intolerance, an issue which all good Americans of whatever creed will most earnestly deplore and hope to avoid.

The Catholic sponsors of the bills are in every way justified in protesting against publications which they well describe as "scurrilous, libelous, and filthy." The text and spirit of such sheets as The Menace and The Yellow Jacket are an outrage not merely against Roman Catholics but upon all American intelligence and right feeling. They raise only disgust in an enlightened mind and they can make no serious headway toward affecting real public opinion.

But it is a mistake to strike at these publications in a manner which involves perhaps the most jealously guarded of all American constitutional liberties. It is evident that it is difficult or impossible to get at them through existing statutes; nevertheless the attempt to bar them from the mails by the necessary general law hardly can be accepted as within the bounds of public policy in our country.

The sponsors of the bills would do well to recall the action of Lincoln, who refused to use his great power under war conditions to close the Chicago Times at a most critical stage of the defense of the union, although the most unjust, abusive, and seditious assaults were being made upon him and his administration by that newspaper. It was a moment when discord in the north was perilous and serious division existent. Yet Lincoln so respected the right of free press that he refused to use his extraordinary powers to protect himself and his great cause at its temporary expense.

Publications like The Menace deserve no consideration. The right of free press deserves every consideration. The injection of religious intolerance into our public life is deplorable and those who are guilty of it are not true Americans. But the way to fight it is not by the perilous path indicated in these bills. Forcible suppression only aggravates a disease of that kind.

WOMEN AND THE MANN ACT.

The federal department of justice is said to regard the decision of the Supreme court in the Clara Holte case as an effective check upon the abuse of the Mann act for the purpose of blackmail. As the department reports more cases in which men are the victims of blackmailing conspiracies under this law than cases of real "white slavery," the need for some check is plain. That it comes through judicial interpretation rather than explicit amendment is to be regretted.

The Mann act is a bad law with a good purpose. It seeks, in fact, to reach one result while aimed at another. Passed under the pressure of public opinion, roused by the "white slavery" exposures and the resultant reform propaganda, it was drawn in such general terms as also to impose upon the federal government duties of moral discipline entirely within the powers of the states. To the zealous moralist and the unthinking this result was to be welcomed because federal agencies of prosecution are now supposed to be more vigorous and unsparing than local agencies. But simply shifting responsibility from one agency to another is to obtain temporary benefits at the expense of deteriorating both agencies in the long run.

Furthermore, this legislation was improper because it took advantage of public opinion aroused against one heinous offense—"white slavery"—to include within the severe penalties of a law ostensibly directed against that offense other offenses far less serious, however reprehensible from the point of view of private morality.

The Mann act is a specimen of a kind of legislation which is not based on general public opinion or a candid consideration of the problems involved. It is the product of the organized pressure of a comparatively few enthusiasts. Not a little of our legislation is of this order. It is not democratic, but, on the contrary, is a weakness of democratic legislation.

The Best Editorial of the Day.

THE COURTESY OF THE SENATE.

(From the St. Louis Globe Democrat.)

The courtesy of the senate appears to have been violated by E. N. Hurley of Chicago. It was during the debate on the ship purchase bill Friday that Senator Fletcher, in charge of the measure, had read into the record a long telegram favoring the purchase and signed by Mr. Hurley in his official capacity as president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association.

Senator Smith asked, "Is this the same E. N. Hurley to whom the president has tendered a place on the federal trade commission?" Senator Fletcher was unable to answer the question, but Senator Smith was able to answer it himself, and said that he was positive the Hurley so warmly indorsing one of the president's pet measures was the same Hurley to whom the president had tendered an important and lucrative post under the government.

The broad implication is that Mr. Hurley, in his capacity as president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association, would not have sent the telegram if he had not been tendered a place on the federal trade commission. We gather from Senator Smith's position that the Hurley telegram should have been signed by him not in his capacity as president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association but in his capacity as a prospective administration appointee to a fat office. We are not disposed to question that view, since we suspect there are quite a number of men in the Illinois Manufacturers' association whose opinions were not reflected in the Hurley telegram. But how can Senator Smith ask of a grateful man, whose gratitude is a lively sense of a favor to come, that he shall wear his heart upon his sleeve for daws to peck at? Where is the courtesy of the senate?

A LINE-O'-TYPE OR TWO.

Motto: Hew to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

DURING the previous administration the political foot and mouth disease claimed a distinguished victim in Mr. Taft. Apparently they forgot to fumigate the White House; the germs are still there. Mr. Wilson's cable to the kaiser seems not to have made a hit. Not content with wishing his War Lordship the conventional happy returns (the form for which any clerk in the state department could have supplied him with), he had to add the good wishes of the American people. In these days if a man really wishes to appear neutral he should stick to the kind of generality that is known as glittering, and he should speak only for himself.

A SUGGESTION.

Friend Carter, why don't you declare yourself perpetually mayor of this, our city? When other men get anxious to annex the job long held by you, it is a pity. For if we take a County Clerk away from his elected work, of waste it savors; and when some man (although a judge), attempts you from your job to budge, his judgment wavers! So why not cut the matter short? With civic problems of this sort why need we daily? Announce that you will do your share to help us fill the job of mayor perpetually. Then other men won't make the race, neglect their work and join the chase, to meet rejection; and since we must have you for mayor we may as well the trouble spare, of your election. You've held your sinecure so long I doubt if man, however strong, from you can grab it, because you've filled the voters' ears with campaign bunk so many years they've got the habit! They've heard your pre-election roar about your comprehensive bore (which they have sat on), and how you'd train our brave police so that the wave of crime would cease (which crooks grow fat on). They've heard your city traction dope which used to give straphangers hope (when first you said it), and how the magnates you would fool with Harrisonian home rule (gosh how they dread it!). And though the evils still remain, your dope enlivens each campaign; this much is due you. That's why the voters hasten, sir, to hand you eighteen thousand per; they listen to you.

An artium omnium conservatrix—
A mistress sweet, and yet, like many others,
She sometimes serves us rather scurvy tricks.

As when, in heading an obituary,
We write, "A Life-long Friend Has Passed Away,"
The printed scare-head makes us still more scary,
For "Friend" is changed to "Fiend" in bold display.

It's difficult to give an explanation
Of why the foreman should exchange a head;
As when "A Spark Becomes a Conflagration"
Appears transposed with "John G. Spark Is Dead."

Many by mystic "ETAOIN" are puzzled,
And signs and symbols, fired in one grand charge,
Cause some to think the printer should be muzzled
As one too dangerous to be at large.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN FEVER.

IN the Rocky mountain states there exists a disease known as the Rocky mountain spotted fever. Within recent years cases have been reported in Montana, Idaho, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah, and Colorado. The disease is not especially severe. The death rate is less than that of typhoid fever. When a man gets sick with typhoid fever, he expects to get well, and the chances are about fifteen to one that he will.

From the epidemic standpoint the disease is not very important. The public health service was able to get track of only 440 cases of it during 1914. Of these, twenty-nine died.

There are a few counties in Montana, Wyoming, and Idaho that do not settle up, because the people are afraid of tick fever. This last fact is one of the reasons why the government is actively working to eradicate Rocky mountain spotted fever.

What seems to be a more important reason is that it wants to make two demonstrations. First it wants to show the people how a centralized national agency for the conservation of human beings could—shall we say can?—operate to eradicate an endemic disease. What could be done with this disease could be done with any other endemic disease which had been repressed to the proper point for work for suppression.

Second, it wants to demonstrate the method of suppression applicable to this particular disease. This fever is spread by wood ticks. The ticks live on gophers, squirrels, coyotes, and every other species of wild animal. To suppress this fever it is necessary to get rid of the ticks.

To rid a region of ticks the government advises killing the wild hosts, dipping all domestic stock, cleaning out the undergrowth and sheep grazing.

Of these measures, the most effective is sheep grazing. When sheep graze over a piece of ground they gather up all the ticks.

Ticks will leave any animal for a sheep. When they get into a sheep's wool between 80 and 90 per cent of them die.

To get the other 10 to 20 per cent, the government recommends that the sheep be grazed high up the mountain side. A flock of sheep start grazing in the valley. The sheep graze up the mountain side. By the time the surviving female ticks are fully grown and gorged with blood the sheep are above the range of gophers, chipmunks, squirrels, and wild animals generally. The females drop off, lay their eggs, and die. The larvæ hatch out, and, finding no small animals to live on, die out.

It is common information that there is no tick fever on the east side of Bitter Root valley. Many years ago 40,000 sheep were put on this slope. The method of grazing was just that described. The "snoozers" cleaned that side of the valley of ticks without trying or having any idea of the good they were doing.

Apparently it is within the power of the sheepmen to redeem the country. This should improve the standing of the "snoozer." It might make O. Henry sit up in his coffin.

Rocky mountain spotted fever is an American disease. It is not found outside of the United States. If we annihilate it here, the world will be permanently rid of it. Our responsibility toward it is the same as that of the few countries in which yellow fever is left.

AMERICANS NOT WEAKER.

A. L. F. writes: "If the entire wheat bread be eaten with butter and two or three kinds of vegetables, would you consider this combination a perfectly balanced food and helpful as a staple food for young and old? Is it not a fact that bread made from the entire wheat contains all the elements of nutrition necessary as a food for man? What are the great elements of nutrition that wheat contains for man? What percentage of human nourishment does lean meat contain? Is it necessary for man to eat a large variety of foods, including fruit? Is it a fact that the Americans are growing physically weaker in every decade, largely owing to the class of the so-called food they are consuming, together with the neglect of not masticating this food more thoroughly?"

REPLY.

1. No.
2. No. Any one living on entire wheat alone for a considerable time would be troubled.
3. Entire wheat bread contains 12.3 per cent proteid, 1.9 per cent fat, 71.9 per cent starch, 1 per cent ash, and 1,660 calories per pound. White flour contains 11.4 per cent proteid, 1 per cent fat, 75.1 per cent starch, .5 per cent ash, and 1,635 calories per pound.
4. Sirloin steak contains 16.5 per cent proteid, 16.1 per cent fat, and .9 per cent ash.
5. Yes.
6. No.

SHOULD EAT LESS.

L. F. writes: "I am 19 years old, not so tall, and weigh 150 pounds. Would you diet? What kind of food is to be cut out? Is milk or water fattening if not taken with meals? Has sleep any influence on this case?"

REPLY.

1. Yes.
2. Do not eat enough at any meal. Eat a very light supper.
3. If one eats enough food and drinks milk in addition, he will probably get fat. Drinking water by aiding digestion disposes one to fat.
4. Good sleepers are much more prone to fatten than poor ones. You should lay out your daily routine of exercise and diet so as to make you fit and keep you so.

LA MARQUISE DE FONTENOY.

[Copyright: 1915: By the Brentwood Co.]

LORD MUNCASTER'S celebration of his eightieth birthday at Muncaster castle, his grand old place in Cumberland, serves to recall that Edmund Pennington, sometime president of the Minneapolis, St. Paul and Sault Ste. Marie railroad and director of a number of other lines of railroad and of Minnesota and Wisconsin banks, lays claim to be the heir to the honors and estates of the aged and childless peer.

So far as I have been able to ascertain, there is, however, little prospect of Edmund Pennington, who is a full fledged American citizen, ever becoming Lord Muncaster, though he may succeed in establishing his rights to the old peer's baronetcy.

The barony of Muncaster was created by George III. in 1783 in favor of Sir John Pennington, fifth baronet of his line, with remainder to his third brother, Lowther Pennington, since he had no male issue.

The second Lord Muncaster had an only son, who became the third baron. This peer had three sons: Augustus, who succeeded as fourth baron, and left no son; Jocelyn, the present and fifth Lord Muncaster, whose marriage has remained childless; and the late Capt. the Hon. Alan Pennington of the royal navy, who left no issue.

Therefore on the death of Lord Muncaster his peerage will become extinct, in default of male issue, and will not descend to Edmund Pennington or any one else, while the Muncaster castle estates in Cumberland, comprising some 20,000 acres of land and some valuable mineral rights, will go, according to present dispositions, to Lord Muncaster's nephew, Andrew Drummond, eldest son of his sister, the late Mrs. Edgar Atheling Drummond.

Andrew Drummond's younger brother, Maldwin Drummond, is the husband of the widowed Mrs. Marshall Field Jr. of Chicago, and should Andrew die without issue Maldwin Drummond and his American wife, daughter of Louis Huck of Chicago, will come eventually into possession of the Muncaster castle estates.

There is, however, a possibility that Edmund Pennington, the railroad magnate of Minneapolis, may be able to establish his rights to Lord Muncaster's baronetcy, created by Charles II. in favor of Sir William Pennington, lord lieutenant and vice admiral of Cumberland and Westmoreland in the seventeenth century.

I have mentioned before that the first Lord Muncaster's peerage was made with remainder to his third brother, Lowther. He had, however, a second brother of the name of Joseph, an officer of the royal navy, who disappeared in this country while serving on the North American station and was believed to be dead when the barony of Muncaster was created.

No proof was ever obtained of Capt. Joseph Pennington's death. If Edmund Pennington of Minneapolis can prove that he is the senior legitimate descendant of this missing Capt. Joseph Pennington, he will be entitled to Lord Muncaster's baronetcy, though not to his peerage nor to the estates.

Edmund Pennington in that event will be also undoubtedly entitled to the famous Pennington talisman, known as the Pennington luck. It is a curiously wrought glass cup, which was presented by the unfortunate King Henry VI. to his most trusted retainer, Sir John Pennington, with a prayer that the Pennington family might ever prosper and never want a male heir as long as it should remain the cup unbroken.

The goblet is still intact.

Lord Muncaster, who is no stranger to the United States, having paid several visits to America and Canada in pursuit of investigations regarding the Penningtons of the new world, has had the somewhat rare experience of having been captured by brigands.

Between forty and fifty years ago people in England were startled to learn that a party, comprising Lord and Lady Muncaster, the Hon. Edward Herbert, brother of the late Lord Carnarvon; Frederick Vyner, brother of the late Marchioness of Ripon, and several members of the foreign legations at Athens, had been captured by Greek brigands during an excursion to the plain of Marathon and had been hurried off to the mountains.

There were a number of women in the party, who were somewhat roughly used at first, but who were set at liberty along with the children after a captivity of twenty-four hours.

Four days later Lord Muncaster was released and dispatched to Athens for the purpose of securing the ransom and the promise of immunity demanded by the brigands.

They insisted upon $150,000 in money, a free pardon for themselves for present and past outrages, and the liberation of certain brigands then in custody.

The English and foreign envoys at Athens urged the Greek government to procure the release of the captives, even upon the terms of the bandits, and received a distinct promise that the affair should be settled at once, no matter at what cost.

However, the Athens authorities tried to avoid paying the ransom by compassing the arrest of the brigands. Thinking lightly of the threat to murder the captives if pursuit were attempted, the authorities dispatched a body of troops to capture or kill the outlaws. The brigands through their friends at Athens were at once apprised of the scheme.

Enraged thereby, the robbers then carried their unfortunate prisoners further into the interior, and, after subjecting them for several days to the most distressing anxiety as to what their fate might be, murdered them in cold blood.

The victims included Count Boyl, secretary of the Austrian legation at Athens; Frederick Vyner, the Hon. Edward Herbert, and a well known member of the English bar of the name of Edward Lloyd.

The affair created an immense sensation at the time, which was still further increased when several members of the parliamentary opposition of Greece, as well as an Englishman named Noel, domiciled at Negroponte, were arrested and placed on trial along with the brigands for complicity in the massacre. Most of the accused paid the penalty of the crime with their lives.

Lord Kitchener owns a large ranch in British East Africa, where, by his direction, goats are bred on an extensive scale. It is not, however, to take charge of this ranch, which is a paying one, that his brother, Col. Henry Kitchener, has just sailed from England for East Africa, accompanied by Lord Cranworth, a veteran of the Boer war, who also has considerable interests in East Africa.

It is understood that their trip to that portion of the dark continent is with a view to England's seizure of the kaiser's adjacent colony of German East Africa, in the course of which a good deal of resistance and hard fighting is expected.

Col. Kitchener, although five years older than his brother, the field marshal, is heir to the latter's earldom and other peerages. The second heir is the colonel's son, Capt. Henry Kitchener of the royal navy.

The Friend of the People.

LIGHTS ARE EXTINGUISHED ACCORDING TO SCHEDULE.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[To the Friend of the People.]—I wish to inform you that the gas lamps in Hamilton Park, that is, on Stewart, Harvard, and Princeton avenues, between Seventy-second and Seventy-ninth streets, are turned on about 4 p. m. and turned out at 5:30 a. m., thereby leaving this district in darkness for more than an hour. Kindly see what can be done with respect to this matter.

A. GROSSCUTH, 7510 Stewart avenue.

Gas lamps throughout the city are operated by contract and are lighted and extinguished in accordance with a schedule made a part of this contract. The schedule provides that at this time of the year the lights shall be extinguished at 6 o'clock a. m., but owing to the impossibility of extinguishing a great number of lamps simultaneously, thirty minutes is allowed before and after schedule time for this work. This schedule is in general use in the larger cities of the United States and is considered standard for this class of lighting. Appropriations for gas lighting made by the city council will not at the present time permit of any departure from the existing schedule. The time of extinguishing these lamps is carefully checked and the department would be pleased to receive specific instances of lights being extinguished earlier than thirty minutes before schedule time. Arrangements are being made to change the route of the lighter who cares for these lamps in order that better service may be had at the points complained of.

RAY PALMER,
Commissioner of Gas and Electricity.

LAMPS WILL BE PROPERLY OPERATED.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Kindly let me know why the lights on North Morgan street, between Grand and Milwaukee avenues, are out on an average of three nights a week.

EDWARD B. LARSEN,
823 North Morgan street.

Our records show that there has been some circuit trouble on the circuit which feeds the lamps on this street, but that the defects have been removed at the present time. Every effort will be made to keep these lamps operating properly.

RAY PALMER,
Commissioner of Electricity.

RAILROAD OWNS LAND.

Chicago, Jan. 26.—[To the Friend of the People.]—What right has the Grand Trunk railroad to occupy the west one-half of Central Park avenue from Forty-ninth street south to Evergreen Park?

O. L. RICKARD,
3617 West Sixty-fourth place.

I beg to inform you that what would otherwise be the west half of South Central Park avenue, from West Forty-seventh street to West Eighty-seventh street, appears of record as privately owned right of way of the Chicago and Grand Trunk Railway company, having been recorded in the office of the recorder of deeds of Cook county, Ill., Oct. 20, 1881. It does not appear of record ever to have been legally dedicated as a public street.

NICHOLAS MICHEL,
Assistant corporation counsel.

WILL LAY SIDEWALK NEXT FALL.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Your help in getting the sidewalk laid in front of the vacant property on the south side of Galt avenue, between Hazel and Clarendon avenues, will be appreciated by the tenants in the apartment building at 835 Galt avenue.

A. O. WALKER, 835 Galt avenue.

The frontage is included in a proceeding under way for cement sidewalks on the above street, but the city will not be in a position to do any work before late next fall.

N. E. MURRAY,
Superintendent of Sidewalks.

ASH COLLECTIONS TWICE A WEEK.

Chicago, Jan. 25.—[To the Friend of the People.]—Permit me to ask why the city has stopped hauling ashes from the alley running from Kildare avenue west to Kostner avenue between Van Buren and Congress streets. There has not been any ashes removed since the middle of December.

F. M. BUTTERS,
4243 Van Buren street.

When inspected the cans in the rear of above premises were empty. Ash collections are made twice a week in that section, and there should be no further cause for complaint.

A DEMOCRATIC INCONSISTENCY.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Editor of The Tribune.]—It is especially farcical that the immigration service, which has just inaugurated the new federal employment bureaus widely advertised as a "solution of the problem of unemployment" and as "bringing the jobless man to a job," should be dismissing its own employés.

No doubt the war has decreased immigration, but cannot the government find other places where the services of these old and faithful employés can be utilized until the war is over? Then they will be called on for overtime, nights, Sundays, and any other time that duty calls, without a cent extra pay—not even supper money.

I am an ex-employé of the government who got out before I was so old and useless and poverty stricken that there was nothing left except to die. I am contributing $350 a month to keep together my regular force, who are not bringing me in a cent's return, but who have been in the past and will be in the future faithful employés, and I feel at liberty to ask why the government does not do the same kind of thing, instead of disrupting its service.

AN EX-EMPLOYÉ OF UNCLE SAM.

LABOR SWINGS 'VOTE DRY' CLUB OVER LIQUOR MEN

The threat of a solid labor vote for prohibition unless the liquor interests of Chicago unionize their places of business was voiced last night at a meeting of delegates from eleven trades employed in the liquor traffic. The meeting was held in the offices of the Chicago Federation of Labor.

"There might be many of us who are wets," said Fred Ebeling, secretary of the cooks' union, "but all of us are unionists first. When a committee called upon John Vogelsang, president of the Restaurant Keepers' association, and asked him to employ union help, he told us: 'Between the two evils of trade unionism and prohibition, I choose the latter.'

Threat Held Out.

"We must go to the liquor dealers and tell them, 'Be decent to organized labor or organized labor will not be decent to you when the votes are counted on the wet and dry proposition.' Why should we workers fight the wets' battle unless they are with us?"

V. A. Olander, secretary of the Illinois Federation of Labor, cited the work of the union workers of Danville, Ill., who threatened to vote for prohibition unless the saloonkeepers signed petitions to handle union made goods and employ only union men.

Plan Tried Elsewhere.

Mr. Olander stated that a similar system is now being used in other parts of Illinois where the wet and dry question is an issue.

William Hale Thompson Tells Voters How He Would Clean Up the Town.

Less crime in the city and a more democratic public school system were subjects which William Hale Thompson discussed last night with the voters of the city at all of his meetings.

"Chicago will cease to be a safe harbor for thieves and criminals, nor will anybody connected with the police department be permitted to use his influence to protect that vicious element from punishment," said Mr. Thompson. "The plan of sending honest patrolmen to the 'cabbage patches' at the instance of some politician who derives his income by protecting criminals merely because they have performed their duty will not be permitted by me while I am mayor.

"The school is closer to the home than any of our institutions, and for that reason it will be my policy to give the mothers of Chicago a larger representation on the board of education than they have heretofore enjoyed."

ROCKFORD MAN AS GOVERNOR

Friends of Mayor W. W. Bennett Booming Him for "Dry" Republican Candidate.

Mayor W. W. Bennett of Rockford last night was entered in the race for the Republican nomination for governor of Illinois next year by his friends at a banquet in Rockford, at which the mayor was indorsed for the third term.

In reply to the proposal Mayor Bennett said that whether he would make an active campaign for the Republican nomination for governor would depend somewhat on the outcome of the mayoralty election.

It is understood, however, that the Bennett campaign will be launched throughout the state at once, and that he will take the stump himself.

The candidacy of Mayor Bennett brings to a direct issue the "wet" and "dry" fight in Illinois, and practically will amount to a referendum vote on this issue, according to his friends.

OLSON WORKERS BEGIN MAYORAL FIGHT IN EARNEST

Judge Accepts the Thompson Challenge to Make Lorimerism an Issue.

Judge Harry Olson's campaign for the Republican nomination for mayor came on with a rush yesterday. While the ward workers were out hustling the unregistered voters to the polls these things were happening downtown:

Names announced of the men who will direct the raising of a suitable campaign fund.

Judge Olson accepted the challenge of William Hale Thompson to make Lorimerism an issue in the primary campaign.

Arrangements made to have committeemen representing all wards meet at headquarters on Friday to complete a new city organization.

Roy O. West, Republican, and George Franklin Porter, Progressive, are to have charge of the collection of a fusion campaign fund. That was agreed on by the parties to the fusion movement, and Mr. West and Mr. Porter started at once on their task. B. A. Eckhart has consented to serve as treasurer. Already the committee has had promises of generous contributions.

New Committee to Be Formed.

Eighteen city members—a majority—of the Republican county committee and representatives from each of the wards where the regular committeeman has refused to come into the fusion movement will meet at headquarters Friday and perfect a new city organization.

This is considered an important development of the fusion campaign. It will place behind the fusion candidates a harmonious organization reaching into every ward of the city. Every member of it, it is said, will be an earnest supporter of Judge Olson and his associates.

Issue Pleases Olson.

Judge Olson chuckled when asked about William Hale Thompson's statement in which he admitted his relations with William Lorimer. He said the statement could not have come at a more opportune time if he had planned it.

"Mr. Thompson has raised the issue himself," said Judge Olson, "and I am prepared to meet it. I will answer all of his questions in due time and will have much more to say on the subject than Mr. Thompson has suggested."

Headquarters of the Republican Women's Olson association will be opened today at 850 Otis building. Mrs. William Severin, president of the Illinois Republican Women's league, will be in charge.

REGISTERS AT AGE OF 100.

Jacob Harris Walks to Polls to Get Name on Books So He Can Vote Republican Ticket.

The oldest man to register yesterday was Jacob Harris of 814 South Laflin street. He is 100 years old and in good health. Mr. Harris walked to the polling place at 1416 West Taylor street late in the afternoon unassisted. He said he will vote the Republican ticket, as he has done since the civil war, through which he served as a volunteer. He was sworn by Miss Julia A. Lewis of 804 South Bishop street. Mr. Harris is married and has four sons and seven daughters. They will all vote the Republican ticket, they said.

SWEITZER TOURS FOR VOTERS

Candidate Begins City-Wide Campaign Tonight on West Side.

Robert M. Sweitzer will begin his swing around the city tonight, speaking first in the Fourteenth and Fifteenth wards on the west side. This will be the start of a series of meetings reaching every ward, and the candidate will speak two or three times a night until the city has been covered.

In the meantime the ward organizations and the sectional clubs which have been put into fighting trim during the early stages of the campaign will begin enlisting the voters under the Sweitzer banner and keep at it until the polls are closed on the night of the city election, April 6.

Every Precinct Organized.

Managers of the campaign say every precinct in the city has been organized, and that clubs have been formed representing nearly every line of business and professional activity. They are authority for the statement that never before in a city campaign has it been so easy to enlist men and women on the side of a candidate as it has been to arouse their interest in Mr. Sweitzer's cause.

Deny Harrison Reports.

Reports emanating from the Harrison headquarters that the Dunne men in the Sixth ward were with Harrison were denied yesterday to Mr. Sweitzer's managers by J. H. Collins, secretary of the Dunne ward club. Mr. Collins said that thirty of the fifty-four Dunne precinct committeemen in the ward refused to join Grain Inspector John P. Gibbons in his indorsement of Mayor Harrison and that these precinct committeemen are now working with the Sixth ward Sweitzer organization.

ICKES SUES HEY FOR $25,000

Chairman of Moose State Committee Accuses Alderman of Libel.

Harold L. Ickes, chairman of the Progressive state committee, filed a suit in the Superior court yesterday for $25,000 libel against Ald. Jacob A. Hey, a Republican candidate for mayor, and until recently a Progressive candidate for the same office.

Ald. Hey's statement, which is the basis of the suit, was an insinuation that Mr. Ickes accepted $20,000 from Roger C. Sullivan last fall with which to finance the senatorial campaign of Raymond Robins, Progressive.

LIQUOR MUST BE SQUARED, SLOGAN OF DRINK TRADE

National Retailers' Association Convention Opens in Washington.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—These "prohibition hysterias" go and come every so often, Secretary Robert J. Halle of Chicago explained at the opening today of the twenty-second annual convention of the National Retail Liquor Dealers' association.

"History repeats itself," Mr. Halle said. "Take it back in the '80s now; the dry wave was a lot worse then than it is now.

"However, that all died down, and so will this."

Compensation Main Subject.

The convention, though, speedily ceased discussion of the "dry" wave and other generalities and settled down to the subject nearest this year's convention's heart—saloonkeepers' compensation. The convention proposes that, when the "dry" wave comes along and puts a saloon out of business, the owner of the saloon shall be reimbursed by the state for the business he has lost.

"All we are asking," Secretary Halle said, "is the same kind of a deal the state gives to a farmer when his stock is taken down with the foot and mouth disease. If his cattle are condemned and confiscated he is reimbursed.

"We ask only the same kind of a deal throughout the country that a number of California towns are now giving to saloons, when they are voted out. The towns buy in the licenses at a fair valuation.

"There is $600,000,000,000 locked up in the liquor trade."

For Single Liquor Trade.

The convention also will go on record with respect to the proposition to divorce the whisky from the beer business. It is opposed to the divorce. It also opposes the Works bill in the senate, which proposes to make the distillation of liquors illegal.

Among the Illinois delegates to the convention are Edward J. Kaindl, H. F. Maiwurm, Charles Tennes, J. S. Flanigan, Carl J. Mueller, and M. C. Ambros.

HARRISON DEFENDS WORK OF THE POLICE DEPARTMENT

Mayor Tells Twenty-seventh Ward German-Americans There Is Less Crime Now than for 15 Years.

Mayor Harrison addressed a meeting, composed largely of German-Americans, in the assembly hall of the Patrick Hall Henry school, Cullom and St. Louis avenues, in the Twenty-seventh ward, last night, and defended his administration of the police department. There were about 150 persons present, and the mayor addressed them as "fellow Germans."

"There is less crime in the city today than there has been for fifteen years," said the mayor. "I often wonder if the former police inspectors and captains who were dismissed from the force during the last few years and who are going about the city talking for Sweitzer have some understanding with Sweitzer that in the event of his election and they go before some friendly judge to ask reinstatement he will not interpose objections."

Talks on Criminal Insane.

That there is no more insanity among criminals in proportion to numbers than there is among law abiding citizens was the assertion of Dr. William O. Krohn, alienist, speaking before the Ohio Society of Chicago at its monthly luncheon in the Great Northern hotel yesterday.

Have You $100 Lying Idle?

The issuance of bonds in $100 denominations has brought tens of thousands of recruits to the great army of investors. Many have learned the advantages of safe investment for the first time through the purchase of $100 bonds.

We have on hand a considerable variety of 6% first mortgage bonds in $100 denominations, which we recommend as thoroughly safeguarded investments. The fact that no investor has ever suffered loss of either principal or interest on any security purchased of us should give weight to our recommendation of these securities.

They Wrote to "The Editor"

As you may know, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has a world-wide reputation for bringing big results to its advertisers.

Of course it is but natural to expect results from THE TRIBUNE'S enormous circulation of over 500,000 Sunday and over 300,000 on week days, but there is a quality beyond mere numbers that makes TRIBUNE advertising space productive.

This other quality is Responsiveness.

from TRIBUNE readers. These letters were from those who sought advice, asked questions, offered comment or competed for prizes, and were only a small part of the total number of letters received by the news and editorial departments.

It is doubtful if any other newspaper in the world receives anything like this number of letters in a year from its readers to its feature editors.

The same responsiveness that inspires these letters makes advertising in THE TRIBUNE pay.

INDUSTRIAL QUIZ TAKES UP TREND IN PHILANTHROPY

Rockefeller Foundation Is Attacked and Defended Before U. S. Commission.

New York, Feb. 2.—Jerome E. Greene, secretary of the Rockefeller Foundation; E. P. Costigan, of counsel for the United Mine Workers of America, and Frederick H. Goff, president of the Cleveland Trust company and head of the Cleveland Foundation, were the witnesses who testified today at the hearing being conducted by the federal commission on industrial relations into the philanthropic foundations of the United States and the cause of industrial unrest

Mr. Greene outlined for the commission some of the work done by the various Rockefeller organizations, and presented a chart, which the commissioners had requested from John D. Rockefeller Jr. showing how the directors of the different boards and the foundation were interlocked.

Defends Joint Directorates.

"The word interlocking has been condemned," Mr. Greene said, "but the only objection I can see is the one Mr. Eliot interposed; namely, that the director who serves on two or more philanthropic boards might injure his health by so doing."

He denied that the foundation constituted a menace to the public, it being restricted in its actions by law. If it stepped out of bounds the attorney general of the state might intervene, the witness declared. He thought the idea expressed by some witnesses that the foundation might attempt to mold the ideas of the people was entirely wrong Such a state of affairs could never come to pass because of the activity of newspapers, he asserted.

Says Paternalism Is Avoided.

The methods of the foundation and the various boards in disposing of funds were also described by Mr. Greene, who asserted that Mr. Rockefeller Sr. had the highest purposes in mind when he furnished the money which made possible the philanthropic and scientific organizations bearing his name.

"I assure you," he said, "Mr. Rockefeller has tried to avoid paternalism. This country realizes that."

Miners' Official Assails Rockefeller

Mr. Costigan vigorously assailed the Rockefeller foundation and John D. Rockefeller Jr. He read a statement which closely followed the lines of the one read last week by John R. Lawson, member of the executive board of the United Mine Workers of America from Colorado.

"The most generous estimate a somewhat disillusioned public will place on Mr. Rockefeller's activities," Mr. Costigan said, "is that his foundation is dealing with effects, while through the Colorado Fuel and Iron company and other industrial agencies, he is actually and visibly feeding the flames and causes of industrial unrest.

"Mr. Rockefeller, who appears to the world, in the relief afforded Belgium, a liberal benefactor, stands convicted before the workers of Colorado as a narrowly biased and visionless money maker. In a great human crisis, precipitated within his very household, industrially speaking, of Mr. Rockefeller, his foundation has been heedless or impotent.

Calls Magnate Cold Hearted.

"The conclusion forced on an unprejudiced public has been and is that Mr. Rockefeller, the business man, has cold heartedly and without hesitation brushed aside and imposed silence on Mr. Rockefeller, the philanthropist."

Mr. Costigan said it was his understanding that the United Mine Workers of America were not officially committed to Socialism. Commissioner Weinstock, who was questioning Mr. Costigan, said he thought it was a question that should be settled. Mr. Costigan suggested that Mr. Lawson was present and might answer.

"Mr. Lawson," asked Mr. Weinstock, "are the United Mine Workers of America officially committed to Socialism? I have heard there was some sort of a by-law about Socialism."

"The organization is not," replied Lawson. "That is a thing which is left to the workers themselves."

Ohio Banker Defends Foundation.

Mr. Goff told of the aims of the Cleveland foundation, of which he said he was the originator. Speaking of the Rockefeller foundation, Mr. Goff said he could not help but feel that the handling of so important a trust by a self perpetuated board presented a possible element of danger.

"We found in Cleveland," he said, "that those who gave money for charitable purposes were too apt to limit the scope of their gifts. We therefore worked out a plan by which the gifts out of a surplus of wealth of a community could be used locally for the best good of the community.

"A committee appointed by city officials, judges, and trustees of the trust company has entire jurisdiction over the disbursements."

Baby Boy Whistles His Own Lullabies.

MRS. IDA FIELD WHEAT and BENJAMIN WHEAT

BENJAMIN PATTERSON WHEAT is just 9 months old; but he whistles "Tipperary" and other tin-pan alley classics as readily as a messenger boy. All his mother, Mrs. Ida Field Wheat of Agassiz hall, in Cambridge, Mass., needs to do is to say: "Benjie, whistle," and he whistles. The sound of the word is so much like a whistle that it gives him the idea, or perhaps after all he understands, his parents assert.

One night his mother found the baby sitting up in the dark, whistling as he played with a small stocking, a ribbon, and hood. Since then he whistles himself to sleep and never requires to be rocked as do other babies. He whistles his own lullabies. The father of the baby, in Chicago, is kept informed on all the new songs Benjamin is whistling by the mother and the grandmother, Mrs. Elizabeth Field.

LABOR ASSAILS BURLESON CUTS

Chicago Leaders Demand Congress Sift Order Reducing Postal Wages.

Resolutions demanding a congressional investigation of the postoffice department and its treatment of employés were adopted by the executive board of the Chicago Federation of Labor at a meeting yesterday.

The resolutions were prepared by Oscar F. Nelson, state factory inspector and former president of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks. He was acting for the postal clerks. The action grew out of the reduction of wages of clerks and carriers in the Chicago office from $100 to $200 each a year.

"I am a Democrat," Mr. Nelson said, "but there is no sense of justice in the plan of the postoffice department to reduce the salaries of the carriers and clerks.

"The postmaster general put the catalogues of mail order houses in the parcel post class, taking them out of the third class and thereby cut the revenue about $4,000,000 a year. A few days ago one of these mail order houses cut a $20,000,000 melon.

"The federal law requires that the clerks and carriers shall be appointed at $800 a year and receive an annual promotion until the amount reaches $1,200. The employés contend that it is not in the power of the postmaster general or any one else to reduce arbitrarily several hundred employés.

SLUSH FUND LAID TO ROCK ISLAND; $25,000 NAMED

New York Bondholder Accuses Ogden Mills of Paying Exorbitant Salaries.

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Charges that the directors of the Rock Island railroad authorized the late Robert Mather, who was general counsel of the road in 1904, to contribute $25,000 to a campaign fund, supposed to be that for Theodore Roosevelt, in order to protect the directors from prosecution by the federal authorities for violations of the law, are made in a complaint filed in the Supreme court today against Ogden Mills, a director of the road. The bill undertakes to try to hold Mr. Mills liable for excessive and improper payments made out of the railroad treasury.

The suit was brought by Sadie E. Hidden in behalf of herself and other bondholders and was filed in the county clerk's office about the same time that another suit brought by N. L. Amster and nine other plaintiffs against Daniel G. Reid, William H. Moore, and other directors for $7,500,000 damages for negligence as directors was put on record.

Large Sums Spent Are Cited.

The complaint in the Hidden case states that since 1892 Mr. Mills has been a director of the Rock Island corporation of Illinois and has neglected his duty in authorizing the payment out of the treasury of large sums in violation of the law.

Among the transactions referred to are the ratification of the sale by the company to R. R. Cable, then chairman of the executive committee, of stock of the New Jersey corporation and bonds of the Iowa company having an actual value of $350,000 for $200,000, and the sale to Robert Mather, general counsel, of stock of the New Jersey corporation worth $225,000 for $150,000.

High Salaries Questioned.

The complaint also alleges that Mr. Mills authorized the payment of excessive salaries to many officers and directors and the following are among those mentioned:

"R. R. Cable, who drew from $24,000 to $32,000 as chairman of the executive committee, was worth only $10,000.

"William B. Leeds, who drew the same salary for the same job at a different period was worth $15,000.

"B. L. Winchell, who got $40,000 a year as president, was worth only $15,000.

"B. F. Yoakum, who received $30,000 as chairman of the executive committee, should have had $10,000.

"L. F Loree, as chairman of the executive committee, got $37,500 when he was worth only $25,000.

"Robert Mather, general counsel, received $25,000 a year for services worth $11,000."

In regard to the payment of $32,000 a year to Daniel G. Reid as chairman of the board of directors, the complaint states that "the reasonable value of his services was nothing, since he was a detriment and not a benefit," and an experienced railroad man could have been found to fill his position for $10,000 a year.

Fraudulent Payments Alleged.

In the suit of Amster and others to collect $7,500,000 from the Rock Island directors it is alleged "that payments of $7,414,660 and $185,339 by the railway company and the pretended purchase of such bonds by the railroad company were fraudulently and unlawfully accomplished by the said defendants for the sole purpose of assisting the railroad company to procure the funds necessary to make possible the disposition of the said 'Frisco stock."

Robber's Slayer Exonerated.

Frank Powysenski, a cobbler of 1718 West Chicago avenue, who shot and killed Louise Los of 2200 Lorel avenue as he was attempting to break into the shoemaker's shop Jan. 21, was exonerated by a coroner's jury yesterday.

MAWSON TO TELL PERILS OF TRIP

English Explorer Will Lecture Here on His Antarctic Journey.

TWO DEATHS RECALLED

The story of two years of exploration in the antarctic regions will be told in Chicago a week from Saturday by Sir Douglas Mawson, who reached civilization only after a succession of hardships which killed two of his companions and left him wandering and starving for thirty days in the ice and snow. Sir Douglas, who was knighted by King George last year in recognition of the achievements of his expedition, will deliver an illustrated lecture before the Chicago Geographic society at a luncheon in the Hotel La Salle, his subject being "Racing with Death in Antarctic Blizzards."

Sir Douglas and his party started from Australia in the steamship Aurora Dec. 2, 1911. They established a base in that part of the antarctic continent known as Adelie land, described by Sir Douglas as "the birthplace of storms"

Sledging Trip Tragic.

The tragic sledging expedition of Sir Douglas and his two companions—Lieut. B. E. S. Ninnis of the Royal Fusiliers and Dr. Xavier Mertz of Switzerland—has been called the Odyssey of antarctic exploration. The party advanced 315 miles to the eastward from the base and reached a point 2,400 feet above sea level.

As they were returning, Ninnis with the best sledge, half the dogs, and nearly all the provisions vanished into a crevasse and was never seen again. Then followed a frightful journey to winter quarters. Dog stew was a luxury. Seven days after the death of Ninnis, Dr. Mertz succumbed to cold and starvation.

Falls Into a Chasm.

Sir Douglas pressed on. Going up a steep, snow covered slope, he fell into a chasm and found himself dangling on the end of the rope which was attached above to his sledge.

Twice he tried to pull himself out, fearing each time that the sledge would give way, precipitating him to the bottom of the crevasse and certain death, and each time he slipped back to the end of the rope.

"I hung with the firm conviction that all was over except the passing," he says. "It would be but the work of a moment to slip from the harness, then all the pain and toil would be over. Curiously, my only regret was that I still had about four pounds of dog meat left, and it seemed a shame never to get the good of that supply. Shows how the idea of food gets to obsess you."

Finally, however, Sir Douglas managed to scramble out, and shortly after came on food that had been cached by some of his companions from the base.

"AN OLD FASHIONED GIRL."
Majestic.

Abigail ..... Dorothy Gish
Bertha ..... Signe Auen
Her mother ..... Eleanor Washington
Robert ..... William Hinckley
Jared Guild ..... Donald Crisp

THERE just naturally isn't what anybody could call plot to this picture, and there are no hair raisers, or breath takers, or rib crackers, but it is one of the most seeable bits of celluloid in circulation, made so mainly by that charming young person, demure little, droll little Dorothy Gish.

Dorothy Gish without trying is a picture. But better than that, she is a picture with significance. She always means something, and her impersonations convey that meaning as plain as any writer's print. Her bent is comedywards. In straight comedies she excels, while in simple stories, where there is opportunity at all she, unconsciously it seems, injects a comedy touch that gives lightness and humanness to the whole.

This picture is of the latter sort. The calm course of the true love between the old fashioned girl and the country swain is shattered into smithers by the appearance of the fashionable city girl whose silks and ruffles and hoops upsets the youth's too susceptible heart. While he yields to their charms, Abigail—Dorothy—looks on, puzzled, grieved, but faithful. She watches the love dallying—among the roses where Miss Gish looks most picturesque—and pursues the policy of watchful waiting, which originated among lovers long before the w. k. president ever had occasion to think it out.

Abigail is rewarded by watching the city girl grow weary of the plain young man, and observing the plain but beloved young man squirm under the non-understood weariness. Among the roses she continues to wait.

Then along comes a fashionable youth who makes eyes at Bertha, who makes them back, and presto, Jared Guild finds himself alone in the garden of love. But Abigail is a young woman of sense and she does not leave him long so. Moreover, she proves the sterling worth of her character by refraining from irritating an open wound by any remarks of the "I told you so" order.

Throughout the picture, Miss Gish is thoroughly charming—and she does it in hoops!

The International Motion Picture Exhibitors' association will hold its annual election of officers on Thursday at 11 a. m., room 210 Masonic temple. Luncheon will be served at 12:30.

Griffith's version of "The Escape," though moved out of the Studebaker to give room to the Williamson submarine pictures, is still having loop showing for the remainder of the week at the Bijou Dream on State street.

Moving picture folk seem not to stop anywhere for the sake of securing realism. Preparatory to presenting his role in the anticipated Lubin production of Henry Arthur Jones' "The Evangelist," George Soule Spencer has been for a week occupying a front seat of the Philadelphia tabernacle, taking mental notes of "Billy" Sunday's soul swaying methods, so that he will be supplied with some up to date data in evangelising.

Habit enables one to become indifferent to almost anything, but some people might consider the "habit of dying" about the ultimate limit in habits. That is what Ernest Van Pelt, western Essanaytte, has, however. He is so used to dying, having passed away so many times in comedies and dramas, that now he positively feels lost if he plays in a picture that offers him no obituarie opportunities—so he says!

The Thanhouser people tactfully put it thus in regard to their insurance of Marguerite Snow's life for $150,000 while she is engaged in the perils of Zudoraing: "The Thanhouser managers decided to protect themselves against loss in the event of her (Miss Snow) meeting with an accident." Which might be called bokoo consideration for somebody.

Nice, pleasant place to be—the Selig jungle zoo in Los Angeles, where among the inhabitants, valued at half a million dollars, are thirteen Bengal tigers, more than forty lions, fourteen pumas, fifteen leopards, with jaguars, hyenas, black bears, Malay bears, panthers, and a few other beasts of similar temperaments to keep life from growing dull.

Preparing Spring Onions.

THE hearts of our winter onions, that is, our onions in store, have already begun to feel the impulse of spring. In other words, these have begun to turn green or have already sent up long sprouts. Such onions are not considered as wholesome as they would be if this had not happened. If used for boiling they should be cut in two and a little cone taken out of the center, or they can be left whole and a cone can be cut from the root end.

For flavoring purposes the dainty chives are nearly always procurable in winter. These are especially good for stuffings, also when onion is desired in a salad dressing. Springlike bunches of the shallot are in the markets.

The mildness or blandness of the onion diet is greatly desirable at this time of year, when colds seem ever likely ailments. Formerly one of the favorite remedies for colds was made by slicing unions, sprinkling them with sugar, and baking the whole gently in the oven, drawing out a good deal of juice.

Onions Fried in Fat.

The famous cooks almost without exception fry onions in what others sometimes call the French or Spanish style, that is, in deep fat. The onions are sliced in even slices, broken into rings, and dropped into very hot fat. In most families onions are fried in a small amount of fat, and if too little is used they are universally burned. About two tablespoons of butter will be needed for four medium sized onions cut up in even slices. Push out the centers and discard if they have turned green. Shake the pan frequently to prevent onions from catching on, and turn with cake turner.

Bright Sayings of Children

"The Tribune" will pay $1 for each childish saying printed. The stories may be sent in either by children or their parents. The only condition is the story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Dee, "Tribune," Chicago.

While at a hotel my little girl received many present from the guests. Finally I requested them not to give her presents, and also cautioned the child not to ask for them. Disappearing one day, she returned with a nice, large orange. When asked where she got it she said: "On the third floor." I said: "Ruth, you asked for that." With wide open, surprised eyes came the reply: "Did you hear me?" W. E. A.

Elizabeth and Frederika are a pair of charming twins, 5 years old. Elizabeth has an incessant flow of words; Frederika is quiet. One day while the little girls were at my house, Elizabeth was entertaining Frederika and myself by talking as usual in her voluble and spirited manner, when she stopped suddenly. "There," she exclaimed, "I forgot what I was going to say. Oh, well," she added, hastily, "I'll just have to think up something else to say." Mrs. O. W. M.

A mother was fixing the white of an egg and orange for Bobbie, who was ill. His little sister was interested in what mother was doing. Finally she said, "I was tick the ilother day." Mrs. E. Stock, Fourth and Ripley streets, Davenport, Ia.

Virginia was considering what she should give her favorite aunt for a Christmas gift. Her mother suggested handkerchiefs, but this suggestion did not appeal to Virginia at first. "Still," she said, thinking it over, "handkerchiefs are good things to have in the house, for you never can tell when you are going to get cold." Air Is "Heaven's Germicide."

Lillian Russell

[Copyright: 1915: By Lillian Russell.]

"SNIFFLES." Not a very pretty term, is it? And it does not describe anything in the least attractive. Nor is the face of a person overcome by a paroxysm of coughing beautified by the distortion. There is nothing beautiful in the voice of one whose nasal passages are clogged by the irritation of their delicate mucous linings. Nor does hoarseness add to the melody of the vocal tones. Indeed, these and all other disorders of the air passages, which are usually grouped under the general term of "cold," not only cause suffering but also detract from the appearance. They are ugly in every sense of the word. I noticed the other day a writer referred to fresh air as "heaven's germicide." The term is certainly applicable. An authority once remarked to me that we get our purest air from the currents which come from away above the earth's surface, and not from the east or west, north or south. It was his theory that the most vigorous people are to be found in the sections which are most directly reached by air currents from the heavens. People who suffer from disordered and broken down air passages are generally sent to the mountains, because in the higher altitudes they come into closer contact with the air of the heavens. It seems to me, therefore, that the term "heaven's germicide" is especially applicable to pure air.

Lillian Russell's Answers.

MARY: If you will practice this exercise every day you will not be bothered any more with round shoulders and flat chest: Stand erect, weight on the ball of the foot, with hands on the chest, fingers pointing horizontally toward each other, elbows on a level with the shoulders. With the eyes raised toward the ceiling, slowly bend the body forward at the hips, keeping the eyes fixed on the point that you have chosen. Do not let the elbows sag. Practice deep breathing constantly. If you will send me a stamped, addressed envelope I shall be glad to send you instructions for deep breathing.

JENNIE: Your backaches may be caused by flat foot or broken arches, resulting from ill fitting shoes or the strain on the feet by wearing heels that are too high. This condition needs the careful attention of a good orthopedic surgeon. The tiptoe exercise is helpful for this trouble. Stand straight with the head up and shoulders back, then take a deep breath and spring on your tiptoes, dropping to the heels again. This will relieve the strained condition. Practice with the feet bare.

ANNIE: Did you ever try the blowing method for reducing a double chin? Lift your head and blow at a bit of imaginary thistledown, keeping the chin in the air for about five minutes, supposing the thistledown to be first on one side of you and then on the other. This tightens the muscles and rounds out the neck.

FRANCES: Do not tamper with the moles on your face. There is nothing more dangerous. The only effective way is to have them removed by the electric needle.

Have you reduced your flesh? If so, write and tell me how you reduced and how many pounds you lost. "The Tribune" will pay $1 for every letter published. Address Lillian Russell, "Chicago Tribune," Chicago.

Marriage Mistake Letters

"The Tribune" will pay $5 for every letter published on "The Mistake That Nearly Cost Me a Divorce." Send your letter to Doris Blake, "Chicago Tribune." Write on only one side of the paper. No manuscripts will be returned.

DORIS BLAKE SAYS:

Is a Woman's First Duty to Her Husband or Her Baby?

During the first three years of my married life I was always ready to meet John downtown for dinner whenever he phoned, sit on a bleacher seat with him watching a "home run," or "hike" through the country for miles. We were pals in everything. When our baby arrived I became so absorbed in her that before I realized it everybody and everything else faded into insignificance. When John suggested getting a woman to care for her a few evenings a week so we could attend theater I demurred.

He began going out alone in the evenings, and making out of town trips. I was so absorbed by motherly duties I didn't notice how little time we were spending together. When baby was 18 months old a friend told me John and a young widow were growing very friendly and after she left I began to see every action of his in a suspicious light, and worked myself into a jealous frenzy. When he returned from a trip three days later I accused him of every impropriety I could think of. Bitter words followed on both sides, and ended in my assertion that I would get a divorce, to which he made no reply but picked up his suit case and left the house.

I wired for mother and she took me home for a "rest cure." Three weeks of outdoors did wonders; she made me realize what a serious thing a divorce is. I looked at the trouble from all viewpoints and had to admit I had neglected husband, home, personal appearance, everything, in fact, but baby.

Two days later when John walked into the living room I was so excited with his unexpected visit that I kissed him impulsively. The darkened room made it easier to ask each other's forgiveness, and as we traveled back to our own home together I resolved to be the happy pal I had been before baby's arrival. I soon found I could be a devoted mother and companionable wife at the same time.

He's a Retired Dentist.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a stenographer who wants advice on a very serious question. There is a very rich old gentleman who is a retired dentist and who is very much infatuated with me. Would you advise me to accept him?

"Little Marie."

If you love the man, and he isn't too many years older than you are, why don't you marry him? But if he is a very old man, and you're only mildly interested in him, don't think of accepting his proposal.

MARION HARLAND'S HELPING HAND
by Marion Harland

Balked by an Oversight.

"I AM a girl of 18 and out of work. I'm doing fancy work and cannot afford to buy silks and floss. Will you please send me the address of Anna L.? I think she would help me a great deal by sending me some assorted colors of silk embroidery floss.

"S. G."

Dear child, you put it out of my power to help you get the silks by referring you to Anna L. or to the Corner at large by keeping back your name and address. The Corner is neither omniscient nor clairvoyant, nor yet endowed with the detective sagacity of Sherlock Holmes. Having no idea of what the initials "S. Y." (or is it a "G"?) stand for, I must beg further information. I should like to get the silks if possible, if only because you are a girl and 18 years old!

Awaits Another Offer.

"I wrote you regarding the offer of the violin, but no word have I had from the donor or you, although I have faithfully watched the Corner to see if you had inserted it again. The illness of the boy's mother (fifteen weeks) and a nurse to pay each week make things a little tight now. I hope some one will read this request and do a good act, which will certainly be appreciated by my boy.

"J. H. E."

Please read what I said regretfully to another of the ten applicants for that precious instrument. I shall publish none of the other letters until we have the offer of another violin. If there be a disused one anywhere within the range of the Corner, will not the owner apprise us of the glad fact? The boy's mother has been ill fifteen weeks by actual count. To see her lad in possession of the prize he covets would do her more good than all the tonics in the pharmacopoeia.

Ten Asked for the Violin.

"I notice in the Corner an offer of a violin, provided the consignee would stand the express charges. I am more than glad to stand the charges, as I love music. Let the donor kindly send by express C. O. D. to my address. John C."

Unfortunately, that one valuable "find" of ours was given to an earlier applicant. The mention of it brought out ten letters, some more importunate than yours. To all we have one and the same reply: "None on hand and sincere regrets."

Asks for Ragtime Music.

"Is there a reader in your Corner who has rag time music which he or she no longer cares for and will pass it on to me?

"Alice M."

Our junior members will please take care of the foregoing note. They know the old by heart now and are willing to make way for the newer that came at Yuletide.

Composer Tells of $10,000 Prize.

BY RONALD WEBSTER.

HORATIO PARKER, who with Brian Hooker, both of Yale, has participated in the manufacture of two $10,000 prize grand operas, explained his most recent success to a scattered audience at Leon Mandel hall last evening. It is named "Fairyland" and is "an idyl, dealing with the relation of the realities and the dreams of human existence."

It was chosen as the most suitable for support by a committee of the National Federation of Musical Clubs, from about fifty operas submitted, and it will have its premiere at Los Angeles on July 1.

There are two points to complain of in Prof. Parker's lecture; one that he did not give it nearer the center of musical activity in the city, the other that he lectured as if his audience were to hear the opera immediately.

From habit, possibly, he made the event smell of the classroom. He told the story of the opera, demonstrated the passages which laid bare the musical ideas of it, and read parts from Mr. Hooker's excellent book, almost at the same time.

The story bears a family likeness to Arthurian legend, but it has a Walter Scott feeling to it. Rosamund, a novice in an abbey, falls in love with Auburn, the king, whom she sees riding by. Auburn, about to start on a pilgrimage, offers his crown to his brother, Corvain, but the abbess also wants to rule. Corvain strikes down his brother, leaving him for dead, and he, with Abbess Myriel, divides the rule, oppressing the populace with double taxes.

Auburn is not dead, but turned into a fairy, and Rosamund, who has fled the abbey, is crowned his queen in Fairyland. The remainder of the opera tells of the difficulty the two fairies have in winning back their mundane possession, which they do after experiencing a succession of grave perils.

There seem to be two kinds of opera possible nowadays—the frankly, bitterly realistic, and the symbolical. Mr. Hooker's book does not lend itself to logical allegorical analysis. How Rosamund gets to Fairyland, why she goes there, and what the two represent when they come back to the light are questions which might have been answered.

Prof. Parker's work is built on Wagnerian lines, but it has not Wagnerian vigor, if one is to judge from the excerpts he played. There was a faint suspicion, too, that there is a debt owed to Wagner in other particulars.

I wish he had talked more about American opera in general. His manner of lecturing was mildly humorous and ingratiating. "He and Rosamund look at each other," said Mr. Parker, "fall suitably in love, and act appropriately. After that has gone on long enough the action proceeds."

I wondered if he might not have described more of his opera after this fashion.

At the Fine Arts.

The recital at the Fine Arts theater last night which Jennie F. W. Johnson gave with the help of Marx Oberndorfer at the piano, Herbert Butler at the violin and Alfred Barthel at the oboe and the English horn was an event, musically, because it was the debut of two somewhat impressive works.

"Es kommt ein Tag," a Bach song with an oboe obbligato, was the less interesting of the two. The other was a sort of nature rhapsody from the musical pen of Scheinpflug. In it piano, violin, English horn, and voice combined in what might have been a coherent whole if the violinist had not been so tremulous. It was obvious that the composer had something to say, although his interpreters did not speak with the combined voice of conviction.

There was nothing hackneyed about the program anywhere. The three Brahms songs were perhaps the best known, but they were decidedly not trite offerings.

There were five songs of German composers—unfortunately sung in English—that were charming. A tiny song called "Children's Prayer" of Reger's had to be sung again to satisfy the audience.

The songs in the last group were written by Chicago composers and they made the audience proud of its friends.

Mrs. Johnson is a contralto of almost too much power for the Fine Arts, when she sings with all of her voice. She did that seldom enough, however, to make the evening entirely agreeable. F. B.

At right: MISS ETHEL LENNON and MISS EVELYN LA STARGE

MISS HELEN BARRETT, Miss Evelyn La Starge, and Miss Ethel Lennon are three of the young ladies who will take leading parts in the big minstrel show to be given at the Auditorium theater on the evenings of Feb. 9, 10, and 11, with a matinée on Feb. 10, by the Telephone, Gas, and Edison companies.

The entire proceeds of this entertainment will be turned over to the United Charities. The three companies are bearing all the expenses connected therewith.

Children of Poor Born Handicapped.

WASHINGTON, D. C. Feb. 2.—Babies whose fathers earn $25 per week or more have three times greater chance of living than the babies whose fathers earn $10 per week or less according to figures shown in the initial investigation by the children's bureau of the federal department of labor into infant mortality in the United States.

The investigation was made in Johnstown, Pa., and comprehended 1,551 births in one year. Miss Julia Lathrop of Chicago is chief of the bureau.

There were 271 deaths per thousand among families where the fathers earned $10 per week or less. Babies whose fathers earned $25 per week or more show a death rate of but eighty-four per thousand. The rate of infant mortality in the poorer section of the city was more than five times that in the more wealthy portion.

Masons Care for 83 Invalid Members.

At a meeting of representatives of 187 Masonic organizations in Chicago at the Hotel La Salle last night it was decided to change the name of the Gil W. Barnard Hospital association to that of the Illinois Masonic Hospital association.

The association has cared for eighty-three patients during the past year, according to a report read by President William E. Buehler.

It is not the present purpose of the organization, the president and other speakers said, to build a Masonic hospital in Chicago, but merely to provide funds whereby indigent members of Masonic orders can be cared for in various hospitals.

Dr. W. A. Evans said the present plan was the most practical one, but predicted the time would come when the Masons of Chicago would maintain a hospital especially for the sick and needy from among their orders.

Amos Pettibone, Illinois minister of the Scottish Rite Masons, announced the return to the donors of all donations for the Gil W. Barnard monument fund. He explained the trustees had considered the plan of turning this fund over to the hospital association. They decided, he said, it was without their authority to do so. It was found impractical to build the monument.

President—Dr. William E. Buehler.
First vice president—George J. Haberer.
Second vice president—Charles H. Roth.
Treasurer—Howard R. Applegate.
Secretary—Ray L. Smith.

Society and Entertainments

Mrs. Ellis Speaks at Woman's Athletic.

THERE were several hundred women gathered together in the beautiful parlors and gymnasium of the Woman's Athletic club yesterday morning to hear Mrs. Havelock Ellis address them on "Olive Schreiner and the Woman Movement." The rose colored drapes shed a warm glow over the eastern group but failed to give atmosphere to the platform, where Mrs. Ellis stood, asking for freedom from the wind that howled down the boulevard behind her from time to time, until the windows were finally fastened firmly and a screen was brought in and placed behind her to shut out the Chicago drafts.

"To better our morals we must first better our knowledge," Mrs. Ellis quoted from her famous husband, urging "ripe education," "freedom in restraint and restraint in freedom" to a group of women warmly appreciative of her point of view and eagerly attentive.

Among those present were Mrs. Thomas R. Lyon, president of the club; Mrs. Louis F. Swift, Miss Ida May Swift, Mrs. George A. Thorne, Mrs. George R. Thorne, Mrs. Tracy C. Drake, Mrs. William Nelson Pelouse, Mrs. Edward A. Leicht, Mrs. Edward F. Carry, Mrs. William B. ReQua, Mrs. Marvin Pool, Mrs. A. A. Adams, Miss Virginia Pardridge, Miss Clara Cudahy, Mrs. Charles Rollins Jr., and Mrs. John B. Lord.

Next Tuesday there is to be an entertainment given at the Blackstone theater under the auspices of the Chicago Woman's club, beginning at 2:15. The entertainment will be a repetition of "An Old Time Concert" that was arranged by Mrs. George B. Carpenter and given at the club a week or more ago.

Mrs. Benjamin Carpenter and Mrs. George W. Dixon are in charge of the affair and Mrs. Floyd Frazier will have charge of the tickets at the Woman's club. The proceeds are to go to the emergency employment bureau recently established by the club and to the Civic Music association.

The marriage of Miss Anita Wakefield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James G. Wakefield of 157 North Menard avenue, to Daniel J. Hammel took place last evening at the family residence. Col. Milton J. Foreman will entertain the officers of the First cavalry.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Cochrane have arranged to entertain a party of ten, and George Ade Davis has arranged a little dinner party for a number of the patronesses, including Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Revell, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissel, Mr. and Mrs. Fletcher Dobyns, and others.

Tells of Ireland's Poetry and Poets

BY AUDRIE ALSPAUGH.

LADY GREGORY opened yesterday afternoon sounded the tocsin of Irish idealism in her address for the University Lecture association at the Fine Arts theater on "Poetry and Poets in Ireland," given before nearly a capacity audience, in which the men thereof could be counted almost on the fingers of a normally supplied person's hands.

But it was an interested audience, and it hung breathlessly on the slow, lowly pitched voice of the speaker, so that none of her words was lost in futile rustlings. She talked chiefly on the poetry of tradition, which had been revealed in the recent Gaelic revival, to the furtherance of which she has contributed so much. She contrasted with us, "who brought our poetry with us," Ireland's poetic tradition, that has never been broken since Chaucer, fired by the spirit of "the man with a dream," whose dream, realized into poetry, was such as to make and change the table of values in the Emerald isle. Great Elizabeth's days she recalled, when Spenser warned the queen against the poets of Ireland as trouble makers in their devotion to "lewd liberty."

Irish poets were always the poor and the wandering, never the well to do, and they sang of their kind who were not inspired, and kept alive in their melodies the names of those who had sacrificed and suffered for their country. Lady Gregory introduced two quotations illustrative of this: "What does a man want with a monument who has had his name set in a song?" and "A felon's cap is the noblest crown an Irish head can wear." Many an Irish felon's name has been given the enduring monument of a song, to the confoundment of the intention of his punishment.

The poems Lady Gregory read were chiefly those of lamentation. "In Ireland," she said, "love poems are not so frequent as laments. The passion of the nation has gone so much into politics and tragedy that there has been little left for love."

To the Gaelic revival, which is resulting in such translation of Irish poetry, Lady Gregory attributed an influence for simplicity that is reaching Irish writers of English poetry and pruning away from them their tendency toward such artificiality as long words and complicated similes.

Of today's Irish poets she expressed reluctance in speaking. "The present bards are too near to put into proper perspective. They are nearly all my friends," she explained. She summarized their work, however, as having become more personal and more spiritual, more of things unseen than of those seen.

Yeats she called "our chief poet," and spoke of the fight he had to make for the independence of the imagination when the attitude of many was that the business of a poet was patriotism. And thereupon the placid, gently spoken old lady flung a sputtering little bomb at "Tipperary," declaring that Shakespeare did a far more profitable job when he wrote concerning the stuff that dreams are made of" than did the author of that much shouted song.

Lady Gregory placed Yeats in the first rank among the poets of the world and definitized his work as insisting for poetry on intensity, the same skill and hard work as is counted necessary in any other craft. She epitomized him as the representative of aspiration. "He isn't satisfied with himself, nor will he ever be, though his work is growing finer and finer. He is like his own poem, 'The Wandering Angus,' seeking 'the silver apples of the moon, the golden apples of the sun.'"

At the end of the week Lady Gregory will continue her lecture tour, going immediately to some of the north cities. She assured an anxious inquirer at the lecture's end of the welfare of the Irish Players, who have not gone to war. "Why, they couldn't, you know, because always we train them when they fight not to hit any one hard, to have the spears glance and to ease the blow of the hand, so you see they wouldn't do in war at all." Next year, she hoped, they would be among us again.

DANCE AND CAR WRECK A HOME

Mrs. Rawlings Says Spouse Loved Motor; He Blames Her Fox Trotting.

SO DECREE IS SOUGHT.

She wore a swagger red bonnet, had a pair of thousand candle power eyes, and didn't fade a bit under the strain of hard work and late hours.

In the early days of their acquaintance Mrs. Catherine Rawlings took a fancy to her; in fact, liked to be seen in public with her. It was not long, however, before Mrs. Rawlings began to look upon her as a rival. And when the break came it was she of the red bonnet who was named as co-respnodent.

He Accuses T. Dausant.

Harry P. Rawlings, wealthy head of the H. P. Rawlings Wall Paper company, prominent resident of River Forest, and alleged victim of the co-respondent's many wiles, filed his answer to Mrs. Rawlings' divorce suit yesterday. He, in turn, had a co-respondent to name—one T. Dansant.

Mr. Rawlings denied he became fonder of his motor—to end any possible suspense as to the identity of the co-respondent—than he was of his wife. He put the blame for his domestic unhappiness on his wife's love of the modern trots, dips, and slides, asserting that when he refused to take her to dances more than once a week she would no longer talk to him.

That Tall Drab Blonde.

When Mrs. Frances May Lowe saw "a very slender drab blonde woman" sitting in the window of the apartment leased by her husband, Harvey Edward Lowe of 3767 Grand boulevard, from whom she was divorced a year ago, she began to investigate. This was the testimony she gave in a hearing before Master in Chancery C. Arch Williams in her petition for alimony. As a result, she said, she ascertained her husband was living in a well furnished apartment with a woman who was going under the name of Mrs. E. H. Lowe.

"But your husband's name is 'H. E. Lowe,' isn't it?" asked William B. McCracken, attorney for Mrs. Lowe.

"Yes," was the reply, "but you see that makes his initials 'H. E. L.,' which he doesn't like. So he changed it to 'E. H. L.'"

Faithful Copies of a Charming New Cheruit Model.

Women will agree that the reproduction of so smart a Frock is one of the most interesting achievements from a style viewpoint our Inexpensive Dress Section has ever done.

The Frock is sketched, NEW in ever so many ways that only personal examination reveals its entire charm. The sleeves are cut in one with the epaulette-like shoulder yoke, the graceful skirt measures full four and a half yards at the hem, and quaint taffeta rose motifs are effectively placed.

MAKING OF REAL SOLDIERS AIM OF FIRST CAVALRY

RANKS HIGH WITH ARMY.

BY HENRY M. HYDE.

WE WILL

Out on the made ground where Chicago avenue runs into the lake a little group of shelter tents—disrespectfully called "dog houses"—showed dimly through the almost complete darkness. Inside of each tent a couple of troopers, wrapped in their service blankets, slept on the bare ground.

All through the night the sentries, armed with rifles, paced their beats, guarding the camp. At 2 o'clock in the morning a wandering stranger—a night owl of uncertain color and object—came slipping along through the shadows towards the camp. One of the horses, tied on the picket line, stirred uneasily, got up on its feet, and gave a low whinny.

The mysterious stranger came straight in towards the tents. At sixty feet the sentinel challenged him.

"Who goes there? Halt and give the countersign."

"I'll give you a punch in the snoot!" was the answer. The man kept coming. A second and a third time he was ordered to halt. He refused to stop and came straight on.

"Halt or I'll shoot!" ordered the sentry.

Yell Arouses Camp.

An instant later the whole camp was roused by a terrific yell. To his sleepy mind officer the sentinel explained:

"He wouldn't stop and threatened to punch my face. So when he got close up I hit him over the head with my rifle stock. There he goes!"

Looking west in Chicago avenue, it was just possible to make out a flying figure and to hear the thud of running feet. When darkness swallowed him entirely he was still running. And that was the last ever heard or seen of him.

Every night from March 1 to the closing in of winter the men of the First cavalry, Illinois national guard, drill on this little field at the foot of Chicago avenue, the use of which is donated by its owners. Two or three times a month one of the nine Chicago troops goes into camp for the night in the same spot, setting up its tents, digging its sinks, picketing and caring for its horses, preparing its breakfast, and as nearly as possible living the life of a cavalry command in active service.

Practice March Yearly.

Once a year the twelve troops of the regiment—three are from down state—go on a practice march for ten days, often covering 225 miles or more on horseback, pitching camp every night and reproducing, so far as possible, the conditions of cavalry life in the field. And six nights a week, in the desolate old armory on North Clark street rented by the regiment, one or more of the troops is hard at work drilling on horseback and dismounted.

Real Work Done Here.

There is much more actual military discipline and less social side to the First cavalry than to most national guard commands. Several of its officers are West Point graduates, while among the others are men who have seen active service in both the army and navy of the United States.

The First is unique among the national guard cavalry regiments of the country in that it has always on hand about seventy-five horses for the use of its troopers. The horses actually are owned by a civilian organization of its officers and friends, who realise that to be a real cavalryman the trooper must be used to and fond of his horse.

And if the troopers come near approximating real soldiers in discipline and training, there are among the cavalry horses several hard bitten beasts. Take "Pedro," for example, which started in life as a high jumper and has, since he belonged to the regiment, furnished more than one sensation.

Pedro Gets Unruly.

At one of the evening shows at the International Live Stock exposition "Pedro" was entered by the regiment in the hunter class. The big horse was ridden by one of the master horsemen of the command when he went out with the rest of the entries to clear the jumps. "Pedro" was feeling in such fine fettle that he refused at first to do anything but buck his way around the ring. When he finally was cleared away he soared over the fences like a bird, topping each of them by three feet.

Having got well started in the jumping line, "Pedro" refused to stop. The road to the exit from the ring was closed by three or four men were leaning against it. Putting on a little extra steam as he approached, "Pedro" jumped over the men, gate, and all and landed on out of the ring.

Presently, much against his will, "Pedro" was forced back into the ring. Whereupon he took the bit in his teeth and, dashing down the center, leaped straight over the stand occupied by the judges, who, properly outraged, promptly disqualified him.

To support and maintain the First cavalry costs about $25,000 a year more than the allowance from the state. Part of this extra cost is made up out of the profits of the riding academy which is conducted at the armory on North Clark street and in which the horses belonging to the regimental stud are used. The balance, one hears it whispered, comes out of the private pockets of Col. Milton J. Foreman and other officers and friends of the regiment who are enthusiasts in the belief that the young men of the country should not only love their country but should know how to defend it from unjust aggression.

They get their reward, perhaps, in hearing—this is strictly confidential—that, in the opinion of one of the ranking officers of the United States army, the First is so proficient in drill and so strict in discipline that once incorporated with a regular cavalry brigade no expert would be able to pick out the volunteers at the end of thirty days' service.

Rents Nine Separate Stables.

Only men who are enthusiasts would have persisted for so many years in the face of public indifference. At present, besides the tumbledown old armory at 1427 North Clark street, the regiment rents nine separate stables, and occupies, in addition, for drill and lecture purposes, an ex-weinstube and an ex-hardware store on the same thoroughfare.

Two years ago, after much hard work on the part of Col. Foreman and the other officers, the state legislature appropriated $225,000 to build a suitable armory and drill hall for the First. A site has been bought at the corner of Cornelia street and Broadway, but there have been such strenuous objections to the location of the armory at that point that the project has been practically abandoned. Negotiations are now under way which may result in the building of the new armory in Lincoln park, near the present stables of the park board.

Rent Their Chargers.

In addition to the drill on horseback and in the manual of arms, the 575 troopers in Chicago have the ten days' practice drill each year. They are also permitted to rent their chargers at a nominal charge for long rides in the country during the summer. The officers, both commissioned and "noncom," go out on regimental rides three or four times a year, on which they attempt to solve military problems which are set for them by an accompanying officer of the United States army.

Strict military training, with few fancy frills, is the rule of the regiment. But just by way of making a brilliant exception, Troop F has issued invitations for its sixteenth annual military ball, which will be held at the Hotel La Salle on Friday evening of this week.

ONLY ONE ARM, BUT IT'S O. K.

Holds Frank Hagen in Midair Until He Is Rescued from Fire.

Frank Hagen's right arm has been doing double duty since he lost its mate in an accident years ago. Yesterday the "trusty right" did something better than double duty. It held Hagen safe in midair, dangling from an upper window ledge of a burning building at 47 West Kinzie street. By the time firemen had raised ladders a two armed man at Hagen's side was ready to let go.

"Take him off first," said Hagen to the foremost fireman. "I'm good for the rest of the afternoon up here."

Enter Mme. la Capitaine! Straight from Paris she comes, and to judge from exhibits at a cooperative fashion show staged in the Hotel La Salle yesterday and then whirled on to St. Louis there won't be a technically well dressed woman in Chicago next season who doesn't bear some of Mme. la Capitaine's earmarks. Hundreds of women, seeking advance tips on what they will look like in the spring, crowded the exhibition rooms. They reveled in the dignified yet snappy Lord Kitchener coat with its severe checked gaberdine outward aspect and its sprightly pussy willow lining within. The "Capitano" was another drawing card, but the "Tommy Atkins" was, if anything, more popular. A touch of the marine is given to the "Tommy Atkins" model by the use of navy gaberdine. Further illustrative of the military fever of the designers were the "Lancer" and "West Point" models, both creations of "forty-two centimeter efficiency."

WORST STORM OF WINTER HITS NORTH AND EAST

Rain, Snow, and Wind Tie Up Trains and Choke Wires.

One of the worst storms of the winter is general from the middle west to the middle Atlantic states, New England, and throughout Canada. Rain, sleet, snow, and wind all have contributed their quota to the disrupting of railway traffic, the hampering of wire communication, and, in some sections, to the raising of rivers to the flood point, with considerable damage resulting.

The weather man, however, holds out hope of speedy relief in the prediction that the storm probably will pass off the New England coast today into the Atlantic, leaving generally fair weather in its wake.

There have been heavy snow storms in the north tier of states from east to west, in some sections several feet of snow having fallen. As a result railway traffic either has been almost suspended or greatly retarded.

The de luxe north coast limited train of the Northwestern line, which was reported in Milwaukee dispatches as "lost," reached Chicago just after midnight yesterday morning, three hours late, after a run of 1,907 miles through one of the worst blizzards in years. No train reached Green Bay, Wis., over the Northwestern line for a period of fourteen hours.

Storm Sets In in West.

Western Missouri, Kansas, and southern Nebraska report that a heavy snow storm has set in.

In the middle west many telephone and telegraph wires have been carried down by the sleet and ice and a fall in temperature is causing additional trouble. The increasing cold has contracted the lines heavily coated with ice and large numbers of wires are breaking as a result. Wire communication from Chicago to many points was difficult for a time and in some instances entirely cut off.

This traffic now has been restored to all points in the west, however, although in many cases it has been necessary to resort to indirect routing.

Reach Twin Cities via New York.

To communicate with St. Paul and Minneapolis, Chicago was forced to telegraph to New York, thence to Winnipeg, and then to the twin cities.

Northern and western New York and New England have been hit hard by a snow storm, which almost reached the proportions of a blizzard. Traffic of all kinds has suffered severely. In New York City seven deaths are reported due to the storm.

The Monongahela and Allegheny rivers have reached the flood stage. The low lying sections of Pittsburgh are inundated and trolley and railroad traffic there were at a standstill Tuesday night. Hundreds of families have left their homes in this section and at the points up the Allegheny.

Scalds Fatal to Child.

Two year old Ida Catalini of 121 South Kenneth street, Maywood, fell into a tub of hot water yesterday and was fatally scalded. She died a few hours later. The child stepped against the tub and fell backward into it.

PARISH PUPILS CAUSE DEBATE

There was bitter discussion in the meeting of the finance committee of the board of education yesterday over the proposition to allow children of the private and parochial schools to attend household arts and manual training classes in the public schools. The matter previously had passed the school management committee, gone to the board, and was returned to the finance committee at the request of John J. Sonsteby.

"I am against mixing the church and the school," said Dr. Peter C. Clemensen. "I believe it would give rise to much trouble. If the public schools are not good for all the day they are not for a part of the day. I would be in favor, though of a plan to let the children of private and parochial schools use the equipment of the public schools at a time when the regular schools are not in session."

Not Wanted by Catholics.

"I know that the Catholic schools do not want this privilege," said Mrs. Florence Vosbrink. "I do not want this to go through with the idea that the Catholic schools will get the advantage. I assure you they will not use it. I am in favor of changing the recommendation to leave out the words 'pupils of parochial schools' and make it read 'all children not in the public schools.'"

"That would mean that we would have no graded schools," said Mrs. Ella Flagg Young.

"This is a matter that is going to involve a great deal of expense," said Mr. Sonsteby. "It ought to be deferred until we prepare the budget."

Sonsteby Wants Survey.

"There will be no expense," said Mrs. William Gallagher.

"It may involve 50,000 children," said Mr. Sonsteby. "There ought to be a survey made to learn how much expense there will be."

"The question of the cost of the teachers' salaries and of supplies might come up," said Mrs. Young. "But if the children are sent into the public schools it is just as much our duty to furnish the teachers and supplies for them as for the children who spend the entire school day in the public schools."

Among those who spoke in favor of the plan were Michael J. Collins, president of the board; Mrs. John MacMahon, Mrs. Gertrude Howe Britton, and Ralph C. Otis.

STEAMER CAUGHT IN ICE.

The steamer Alabama of the Goodrich Transit company was imprisoned in the ice a mile and a half off the mouth of the river at 2:55 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Capt. Reddinger sent a wireless message stating the situation but making no request for need. It was said at the company's offices that no passengers were aboard. The crew numbers fifty.

NEWHALL LOSES HIS CARD INDEX WONDER MEMORY

Aged Capitalist Makes One Slip and Then Grip Is Gone.

When Franklin Newhall, the 91 year old land magnate of Glencoe, first took the stand to oppose his son Simeon's suit for a conservator for the estate, the old man radiated alertness and snapped sparkling and ready answers back at the lawyers.

He was just as young as he ever was and twice as spry.

"Yes, sir." He knew. He could remember. And he could tell it, too, quick as a flash.

Goes Under Fire Again.

Yesterday the old man took the stand again in Probate court before Judge Gregg. Francis W. Walker, attorney for the son, who contends the father is not mentally able to care for his $750,000 worth of property, resumed the questioning.

"How much land did you sell your son Sylvan?"

"Forty-three acres."

"For $124,000."

The Charm Is Broken.

"You gave different testimony at the hearing, didn't you?"

And there the charm was broken. The old man wavered, hesitated, then after a delay said: "I don't remember."

That became a frequent reply through the remainder of the examination. The nonagenarian wonder was no longer a wonder—just an uncertain old man.

MULLIN'S MIND ERRATIC, SAY MURDER WITNESSES.

Parishioners Say Hillside Priest Acted Strangely Following an Operation for Acute Appendicitis.

From his barber to his alderman, persons who knew Father John J. Mullin intimately were called into Judge Dever's court yesterday to testify regarding the priest's sanity. Father Mullin is on trial for killing Thomas W. Patterson, the station agent at Hillside, last October.

The defense sought to prove that following an operation for acute appendicitis Father Mullin's mind was unbalanced. The defense also produced the expert testimony of a number of physicians who had attended the priest. Among them was Dr. Stephen Pietrowicz, formerly superintendent of the asylum at Dunning.

"I went out to Hillside at 3 in the morning after the stabbing occurred," said Dr. Pietrowicz. "I was accompanied by Anthony Czarnecki and a number of other persons, including a Tribune reporter. From the condition of Father Mullin's eyes and mouth, and from his reflex motions, I am convinced he was suffering from transitory insanity and concussion of the brain."

Ald. Joseph Smith of the Fourteenth ward testified Father Mullin's actions were strange after his operation.

CREATE PLACES FOR IDLE MEN

Big Merchants Lead Move to 'Make Work' for 'Blue Ticket' Holders.

Made-for-the-purpose jobs for "blue card" men will be offered as a partial solution of Chicago's unemployment situation, according to the terms of the movement announced by the Chicago industrial commission at a meeting at the City club last night.

Julius Rosenwald, president of Sears, Roebuck & Co. will give work to 100. R. T. Crane & Co. will make places for fifty, according to R. T. Crane Jr.

Will Create Jobs.

"We will create places for the men," said Mr. Rosenwald. "For instance, we will have a number pull nails from old packing boxes, a work formerly done by cutting up the boxes.

"Another gang will be put to painting stairways and other places and still others will be put to cleaning up around the plant.

"Those bearing the blue card of identification from the department of public welfare, showing them to be bona fide citizens of Chicago, unemployed and worthy of employment, will be given the places."

Canvass Industrial District.

It is the plan of the commission to circulate the outline of the scheme in a statement setting forth information about the unemployed of Chicago and their condition. A corps of young men will be employed to canvass the industrial districts.

The movement is somewhat similar in character to that tried in various western regions under the slogan "Buy it now," meaning that improvements and purchases you are contemplating should be undertaken at once, if possible, rather than later. An example that has been mentioned is interior decoration of houses—February instead of April or May.

HUNTING PERFECT MEN; OUTLOOK NOT PROMISING.

Has Chicago an Adonis?

If so, he can get work with the National Merchant Tailors' association at $5 a day. The association has been advertising for handsome males to wear $100 suits at its February convention, but so far with horrifying results.

Manly beauty in Chicago, it seems, has to contend with the following blemishes: Bow legs, limber spines, flat chests, long arms and knobby hands, red hair, funny round, high, sloping, narrow, or uneven shoulders, side whiskers, and rotund stomachs. If the would-be he beauty is not athletic he looks like an interrogation point, and if he is athletic he bulges like cabbages in a sack.

The officials of the tailors' association say beautiful Chicago women are innumerable, but they add: "What is so rare as a perfect masculine figure?"

NAB CRIME GANG OF FOUR YOUTHS; PEERS OF WEBB?

Many Thefts and Two Murders Laid to Pool Hall Suspects.

Two unpunished murders and about twenty holdups are to be explained in confessions extracted from four men held at the detective bureau, according to members of the staff which questioned the prisoners last night.

If the assumptions of the detectives are correct, and half the confessions reported are true, another auto bandit syndicate of the "Perry, Webb & Co." type has been taken.

The four suspects were arrested on Saturday night in a pool hall at Thirty-first street and Cottage Grove avenue by Detectives Kane, Hayde, Birch, and Blaise—the same pool hall, by the way, where Teddy Webb had his "hangout."

George Waddell of 4662 South State street.

James Sullivan of 3945 Lyman street.

Tipped by Stool Pigeon.

They were turned up by a stool pigeon. Kremheller, alias "Storkey," according to the detectives, has admitted the operations of the gang with a stolen automobile which figured in twenty holdups.

Detectives also declared that Waddell had been identified as the robber who shot and fatally wounded Joseph Goldberg in front of Morrie Abrahams' saloon, 907 West Twelfth street, a short time ago.

The gang is also held accountable for the killing of Henry Pfoertner, a robbery victim, at 2919 Princeton avenue on Jan. 3.

The youths are said to have confessed to a robbery for which three men are now held in the county jail awaiting grand jury action.

Mute Admits Fifty Crimes.

In a confession made to Detective Bergts. Stege and Wragg in the Hyde Park station last night, Alfred Keider, 17 years old, of 7600 Cottage Grove avenue, who is deaf and dumb, admitted that he had been responsible for over fifty robberies in the district the last month.

A loop holdup man encountered William Benard, a clerk, early this morning in an alley off Monroe street, between La Salle street and Fifth avenue. Benard gave up his watch, a gold pocket knife, and $5.

CLERK DEAD IN HIS ROOM.

Wife Went to Quincy to Attend the Wedding of Her Sister.

Paul McNamara, a clerk, was found dead of gas yesterday in the room which he and his wife had occupied at 328 Center street, a rooming house operated by Mrs. Louise Hillmer. On Monday McNamara's wife appeared in Quincy, Ill., her home, to attend the wedding of a sister, she said.

HUSBAND NAMES EX-GOV. YATES IN DIVORCE SUIT

DENIAL MADE TO CHARGES.

San Francisco, Cal., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Richard D. Yates, former governor of Illinois, was named today in a sensational divorce complaint filed in the Superior court by Edward R. Freeman, art dealer and photographer of Eureka, against Emma B. Freeman.

Yates, named in the complaint as the third party in the triangle that shattered the domestic happiness of the Freemans, is alleged by Freeman to have traveled with Mrs. Freeman to this city from Eureka, to have kissed her in every tunnel and at every crossing.

Former Gov. Yates is said to have first met Mrs. Freeman in Eureka in 1913 while he was in that city to address a chautauqua meeting. He spoke at New Era park.

Wife Took Trip with Yates?

Freeman is said to have invited the former governor to make his headquarters in the former's art store, and in this way an acquaintance between Yates and Mrs. Freeman is reported to have begun.

In July, 1913, Mrs. Freeman, according to her own admissions, came to San Francisco from Eureka with Yates. She denied at the time, however, having come as his guest, claiming that she made the trip to visit her friends here and at her own expense.

Freeman became indignant over the reported trip and engaged counsel in Eureka to advise him how he should proceed.

Accusations Made by Husband.

She traveled with Richard Yates of Illinois from Eureka to San Francisco.

She celebrated her arrival here with a jubilee at the Cliff house.

She allowed Richard Seeley, the name under which Yates traveled, to visit her in her room in a hotel in Willits.

Tells of Meeting Yates.

In his complaint Freeman gives in detail a trip which he says his wife took with Yates. He says they met Yates at the depot in Eureka and when they were introduced Yates invited Mrs. Freeman to accompany him on a little trip. She did, declares the husband, against his wish and desire.

It was his wife's conduct at a ball in Willetz, however, to which Freeman makes the most serious objection and which he describes as "unseemly" for a woman, and which gave him great mental anguish. Yates left her at San Francisco, says the husband, after they had celebrated at the Cliff house.

Yates Denies Accusations.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 2.—"The charges are all untrue! Further than that I don't care to talk about the subject at this time," said former Gov. Richard D. Yates, when informed at his home here tonight that he had been named as corespondent in a divorce complaint filed in San Francisco by Edward R. Freeman of Eureka, Cal., against Emma B. Freeman.

When the marital troubles of the Freemans first cropped out last summer Mr. Yates said Mrs. Freeman had ridden on the same train with him and had been his guest at luncheon in San Francisco, but he denied there had been anything improper in the trip or their subsequent meeting. At that time he said:

"It will never happen again, so far as I am concerned, for Mrs. Yates will accompany me everywhere hereafter. We have two daughters who must be protected from these irresponsible attacks."

BREAK INTO U. S. ARMORY; MEXICANS STEAL RIFLES.

Brig. Gen. Pershing Hears Supplies Stolen at Silver City, N. M., Are En Route to Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—Brig. Gen. John J. Pershing was notified today that the armory of the New Mexico National guard at Silver City, N. M., was broken into some time between Saturday night and last night and the arms and ammunition stolen.

The message states that Mexicans are known to have robbed the place and that it is believed the arms and ammunition are being taken to Mexico.

BY SAM WELLER.

Spurred to almost superhuman effort by offers of various cash prizes for a new world's record, the cycle riders in the six days' race at the International amphitheater climaxed a day of continuous sprinting by going one lap ahead of the former world's mark just at midnight last night. In 121 hours they had traveled 2,367 miles and eight laps, one lap better than the record at Madison Square garden in New York last year.

Anderson won the sprint which put the leaders ahead of the record. In addition to the usual cash, a restaurant keeper offered 100 yards of spaghetti for the winner in the sprint, and Colombatto and Verri from sunny Italy started out to win the food. Anderson surprised them in the final lap and copped the entire yardage.

Berlin System in Use.

The Berlin system of scoring will be used to decide the winner tonight. The teams that are behind will drop out an hour before the finish. Then the teams that are tied will battle in a one hour race, which will be practicaly an hour of sprinting. The rules call for a sprint every fifteen laps, and points will be awarded for each sprint, six for first place, five for second, four for third, and so on.

Ten successive sprints of five laps each shortly before 10 o'clock put the riders only five miles and one lap behind the world's record.

McNamara grabbed four of the $5 prizes and Moran, his partner, landed one. Oscar Egg of the Verri-Egg combination, took down two of the "V's."

One of the best crowds since the race started was lined around the track. An estimate of 5,000 would not have been too enthusiastic. The promoters had lost hope of breaking even on their venture, but as the crowd kept increasing they plucked up courage and asserted a capacity house at the finish tonight might let them out even.

Five Teams in Front.

The field was still in three divisions. Five teams were out in front by one lap, the McNamara-Moran, Egg-Verri, Drobach-Piercey, Carman-Corry, and Walthour-Bedell pairs leading the field. Mitten and Wiley were one lap behind and the other three teams were two laps back of the pacemakers.

At 10:30 o'clock the six day grinders withdrew from the track for a few minutes to allow an exhibition by Frank Kramer, world's sprinter. Kramer tore off two laps in :16 4-5. Jimmy Hunter, the motorcycle daredevil, then entertained with a mile run on his anti-labor bike. He made the distance in 1:04 4-5, a new indoor record.

Two Spills Mark Grind.

Two spills in which Moran and Piercey figured lent some excitement to the evening without doing any serious damage. Moran crashed into the rail at the last turn, but was back on the track within ten minutes. Piercey dropped a tire at the press stand, but was not hurt when he rolled down the track.

A prize of $100 was added to the list yesterday by the owners of the amphitheater for a new world's record and sprint followed sprint as the pedal pushers went out after the coin. By averaging more than twenty miles an hour for nearly five hours the leaders crept within ten miles of the world mark and the chances for a new record grew brighter as the night wore on.

Most of the excitement was due to the eagerness of the three trailing teams to get back some of the distance they had lost to the leaders. Rudi-Russe and Linart alternated frequently in a desperate effort to get within hailing distance of the prize list and their efforts forced the five leaders to travel considerably faster than they cared to.

Rudi-Russe Back in Race.

Rudi-Russe was allowed to get back into the race when Marcel Dupuy quit and left George Linart without a partner. Russe was called to team with Linart, the pair being penalized one lap.

Russe jumped the field in a sprint at 8 o'clock last night and gained a lap, which put his team on even terms with the Anderson-Hansen and Kopsky-Colombato pairs. Then the five leaders started another sprint which netted them a lap on the trailers, putting them two laps ahead once more. The sprint lasted for six miles.

Walker and Root were eliminated early in the day as a result of the second serious spill of the race. Drobach fell at the east turn and Walthour and Walker piled up on top of him. Walker was knocked unconscious and he was forced to give up the race.

Food, Food, More Food.

Folks who wonder how the six day riders managed to exist without any continued sleep during 144 hours would find something else to ponder over if they could see the cyclists at the table.

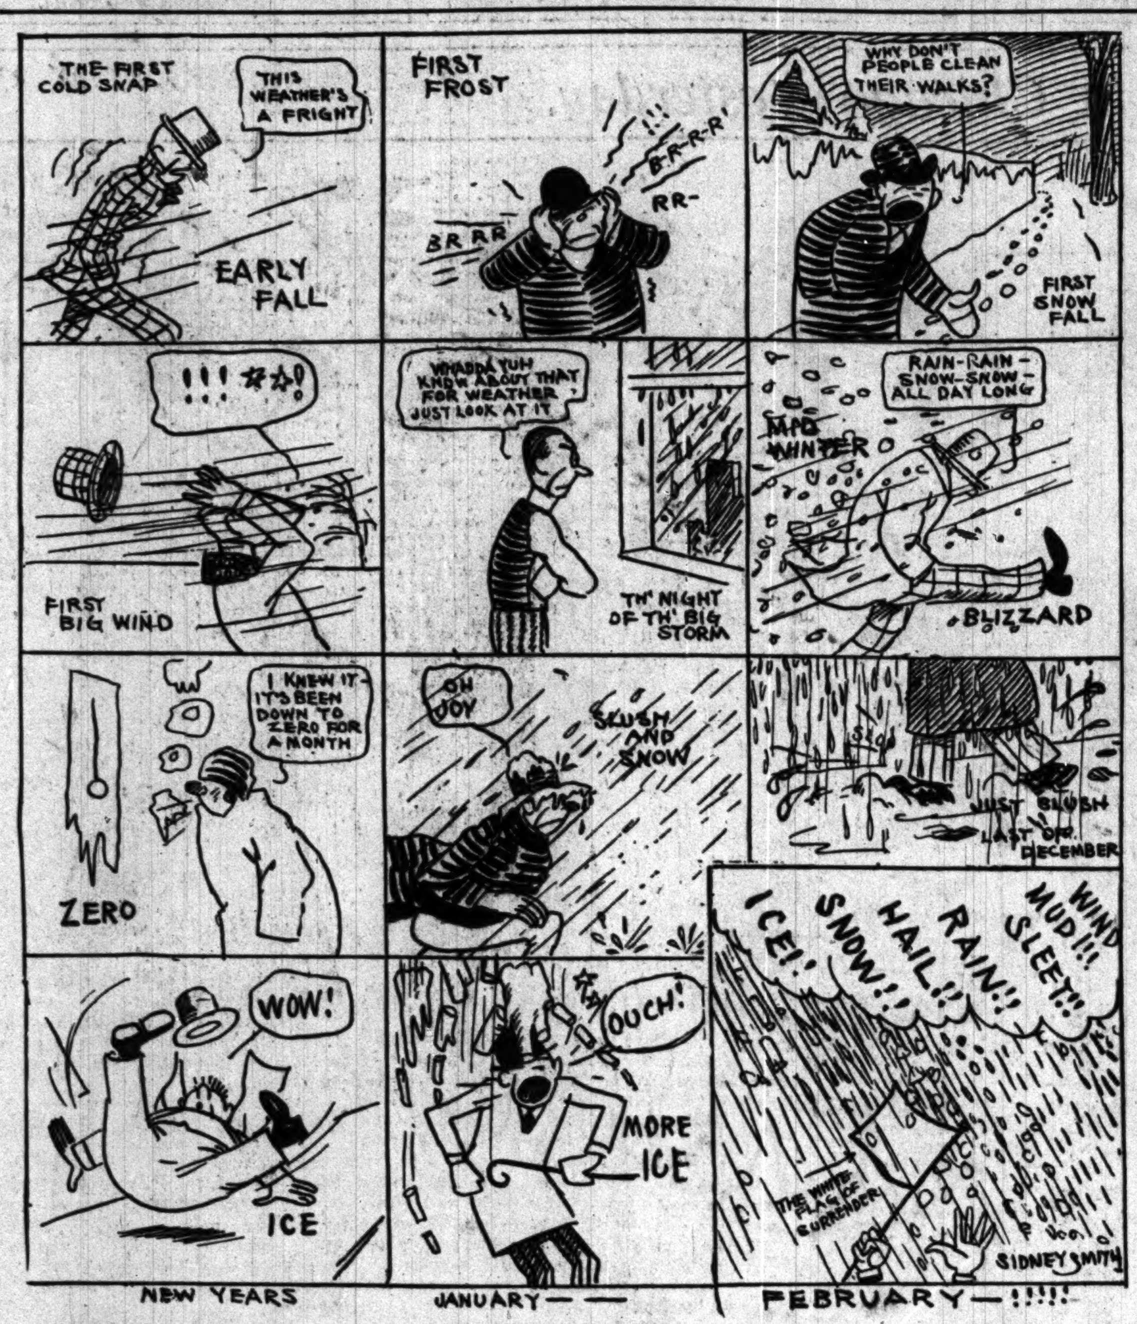

In twenty-four hours ended at midnight last night "Piggy" Moran sat down to twenty-seven meals or lunches. Eight times he merely took tea or coffee. Nearly every other time he punished what would be a fair meal for an ordinary mortal. We saw the checks charged against the management for the food, so there is hardly a doubt that the menu is authentic. Below is the list of fodder he stowed away:

Coffee, two chops, coffee, ham and eggs, fruit (30 cents), eggs, toast, and tea, eggs, toast, and tea, eggs, toast, tea, and beans, eggs, toast, tea, and beans.

And also this: Steak (extra large) and coffee, steak (again extra large) and coffee, coffee, tea and toast, two eggs, three eggs, toast, and milk, steak and coffee, steak, bacon, and spinach, lamb chops and tea, tea.

Here's some more: Three eggs, toast, and coffee, coffee, toast and tea, pot of coffee, three eggs and coffee, three eggs, peaches, and pears, roast beef and roast ham sandwiches.

MORIN TRIUMPHS BY GOOD ATTACK

Advances to Tie for Cue Lead by Beating Maley, 50-41.

BY J. G. DAVIS.

Showing a fine attack despite a lot of defensive play by Martin Maley, the Detroit veteran, Charley Morin defeated the visitor, 50 to 41, in the Interstate Three Cushion league at Flenner's last night. The victory put him in a tie for first place with Jerome Keogh of Rochester, the former pocket billiard champion.

Morin went out in 83 innings, getting high run of 6. Maley, who had one inning less, getting a high run of 3. Maley played the most persistent safety of any contestant seen here this year, at one stage playing deliberate safety in seven out of nine innings. Despite all this strategy Morin picked off shots three times, scoring seven points as a result. Score:

In the rapid fire three cushion tournament at Bensinger's Monroe street room, Peterson finished first; Shea, second; Van De Mark, third; Carpenter, fourth. Davis and Grits [44] vs. Hine and Burton [50] tonight.

Bob Lord, who is priming for the national amateur championship, defeated Kent, 400 to 248, in the first block of their 18-2 match played at Bensinger's Madison street room. He had high run of 42 and averaged 9 13-43. The last block will be played tonight at Mussey's.

John Walsh, city champion, defeated W. Johnson, challenger, in the first block of their pocket billiard match played at the Regent room, 125 to 49. The second block of 150 balls will be played tonight at Petersen's Thirty-fifth street room.

It was practically decided yesterday that Chicago will get the big three cushion tournament for the next championship emblem. Chicago roomkeepers are backing the project and the promoters are looking for a suitable room in the loop district. Ten or twelve of the leading professionals will take part. The prize list will amount to several thousand dollars.

L. H. WAIDNER TO GO EAST TO VOTE ON NET CLASSIC.

L. Harry Waidner, president of the Western Lawn Tennis association and member of the executive committee of the national organization, will leave today to attend the schedule meeting of the national body in New York Friday. Waidner, acting as a delegate for the western association, will vote uninstructed.

Whether Newport, the scene of the all comers' tourney for many years, will be awarded the American titular contests next summer will not be known definitely until the final vote is taken. The Forest Hills club of New York is confident that it will replace the Rhode Island club as the stage for the classic, claiming sufficient votes to carry the tourney.

Sentiment in the west favors a change in scenery, while minor differences also have tended to move tennis followers of this section against Newport. As the western association, one of the twelve units in the national organization, controls eleven votes, Waidner's ballot will be keenly sought.

CHIFED HURLERS ASK INCREASE IN PAY CHECKS

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Reports of ball players jumping to the Federal league are numerous, but reports of Federal league players holding out for more pay are unique in baseball circles. Such reports, however, broke out yesterday. It was about the first indication that a player's life with the Feds is not, after all, a life of contentment and prosperity.

The report, too, concerns the local Federal league club, supposedly the most prosperous of the lot. Two young pitchers who came from the lower grades a year ago are demanding big salaries from President Weeghman for the coming season. They are Max Fisk, the sturdy hurler who came from the Roseland Eclipse team, and Mike Prendergast, the young curve ball artist who came from the Three Eyes league.

Sign for Year Only.

The contracts signed by the two boys last season were for one year only. Both showed flashes of splendid form, but both were unsteady. Observing the rules of the league, both were offered new contracts calling for a 5 per cent increase in salary over that the preceding year. So far neither has consented to sign, and indications are that Manager Tinker will let them quit and become free agents before he will yield to their demands.

It was said that Prendergast received $2,400 last year—double the salary he got the year before in the Three Eyes league. Fisk had previously pitched almost entirely for the local semi-pro team and was paid a small sum for working once a week.

Expects Deal of Deal.

President Gilmore of the Federal league yesterday replied to Ban Johnson's charges of piracy in signing Player Deal of the Braves while the decision of Judge Landis on the big row between the baseball factions was awaited.

"Johnson seems to be crying for public sympathy," said Gilmore. "We had nothing to do with Deal until he first came to us. Here is the first move made toward getting Deal," and Gilmore produced a telegram from the player. It came from Boston and was sent to Gilmore, reading as follows: "Wire best terms."

"On the day following the receipt of this telegram," continued Gilmore, "I sent the following to Deal," and Gilmore produced a copy of his answer:

"Your telegram received. If you are free, submit best terms for two year contract. Answer quick."

"After getting a reply from Deal that he was free," resumed Gilmore, "I arranged to meet him in New York and it was there that we came to terms and he signed a contract. Surely that is not piracy."

Comiskey Leaves for East.

President Comiskey of the White Sox, accompanied by Secretary Grabiner, left for New York yesterday, where they will attend the meeting of the American league club owners today. There was much talk that Comiskey expects to purchase a star outfielder for the south siders while on this trip.

The Sox owner admitted he was going prepared to lay down plenty of money for a real star, but that he would not consider a trade which would take any of his strong men in exchange. At the December meeting in the east, he startled the world by announcing the purchase of Eddie Collins, but the south side fans do not expect such a pleasant surprise this time.

A letter from the Tampa Baseball association to President Thomas of the Cubs arrived yesterday with an agreeable bit of news. It said that the training conditions there were to be improved before the Cubs arrive, March 1, for their thirty days of work. The grounds are being prepared by an expert, a new heating plant is being put in the dressing and bathrooms, and the latter are being enlarged. A banquet is being planned by the Tampa business men in honor of the Chicago party.

RAIN STOPS GOLF TOURNEY.

Palm Beach, Fla., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—One hour of rain this morning upset the schedule of the Lake Worth golf tourney to such an extent that half of the matches in three of the four flights competing were not completed. Walter J. Travis did the only notable scoring before the shower with a 33 for the final nine holes, winning his match from A. R. Pierson of New York, 7—6.

In the Wake of the News

By RING W. LARDNER

IT'S GETTING TO BE A HABIT.

HOME TOWN, O., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Joe Smith of this city made a monkey of Freddie Welsh, lightweight champion, in a twelve round bout here tonight. The Home Town critics were unanimous in awarding the decision to Smith after one of the most one sided fights ever seen here. The local miller had the better of the ninth, first, fourth, third, sixth, eleventh, twelfth, second, eighth, and fifth rounds. The seventh and tenth were even, and Welsh won the rest.

Smith came within an ace of dethroning the champ in the third with a clean knockout. He started a hard left swing for Freddie's jaw, but Welsh blocked it. If that blow had ever landed, etc.

So dazzling was Joe's display of boxing skill that Welsh never got started till the first round. Then he tried desperately to make a showing that would offset Smith's earlier advantage, but it was too late.

In the second Freddie was unable to do anything but beat a tattoo on Joe's kidneys. On the other hand, Smith paid no attention to Welsh's body and tried only for the face. It is estimated that he would have landed four blows to the champion's one but for the latter's continued ducking, which was evidence that Freddie did not care to take the chance of having his block knocked off. If Joe had been able to land even once in this session it would have been all over with Freddie.

The third was Smith's best round. Aside from just missing with a knockout punch he clearly outsprinted Freddie from gong to gong. The fourth was also Smith's best round. So was the sixth. The fifth was even with Smith having a slight shade.

Joe got really busy in the seventh and punished Welsh severely with a series of jabs on the ulna and radius bones. The eighth was even, Welsh closing both of Smith's eyes, and, in return, receiving three straight lefts that started a flow of crimson from his gloves. As the boys came together at the start of the ninth the crowd was yelling wildly for Joe to finish the Britisher, but Smith had forgotten to bring his shotgun.

The tenth was even, Welsh being outpointed by only the narrowest of margins. The eleventh and twelfth were about even, as were the ten preceding rounds.

It must be admitted that Welsh did all the leading and most of the landing, but Smith's punches had more steam and would have done twice as much damage if they hadn't missed. Smith would have won by a wider margin if he hadn't been tired from the first round on. The killing pace began to tell on him in round one, and he wasn't as effective thereafter.

When the bout was over Smith showed no marks except that two of his eyes were discolored and closed, one of his noses was broken, his left and right ears were puffed, and thirty-two of his teeth were missing. Welsh was unmarked, but probably was injured internally.

PACKEY-GIBBONS TO TALK TERMS

Star Ring Men to Meet Here Next Week to Arrange for Pending Bout.

BY RAY C. PEARSON.

There's going to be a "get together" meeting of Mike Gibbons and Packey McFarland in Chicago next week, and if a match between this pair of classy boxers isn't made then it never will be. McFarland, who is appearing at a local theater, yesterday stated after a strenuous workout with Phil Harrison that he was fast getting into condition and that if it were possible to arrange terms with Gibbons the bout would be staged shortly.

It is known that Gibbons is willing to take a whirl at Packey. While he was here training for his bout with Jimmy Clabby at Milwaukee he announced that nobody was barred as long as the promoters could offer the money. Jimmy Johnston of the Madison Square Garden Athletic club of New York has spent a lot of money in railroad fares and in telegraph tolls trying to clinch this match for it is one that he believes would draw the biggest crowd that ever saw a ring encounter in New York.

Arrange for All Star Show.

After many days of dickering Promoter George Tully of Kenosha has finally completed the card for his all star show to be staged on Feb. 12. Tully matched Johny Ertle of St. Paul and Ruby Hirsch yesterday. The St. Paul whirlwind will be in Chicago tomorrow to start training for the bout.

Present indications are that a large delegation of local fans will make the trip to Kenosha, as it is to be the first popular priced show staged in this section of the country. Tully has been trying to figure which pair to put on last, the honor spot of the show, but yesterday settled the matter by agreeing to let the managers of the fighters draw lots. Tommy Gary, who fights Joe Sherman, and Bob Scanlon, who battles Joe Welling, are already in training for their bouts.

Gilmore Booked at C. A. A.

Fred Gilmore, who is such a good looking welterweight that the boys in his class are dodging him, is going to show the Chicago Athletic association fans a few things about the boxing game Saturday night. Gilmore has arranged to don the mitts with his sparring partner and demonstrate some of the blows which go to make him one of the cleverest boxers in the game.

Joe Lyons, who manages Walter Little, yesterday took a slam at the deal handed Little in his bout with Cleve Elwell at Nashville, Tenn., Monday night. Lyons said he had received a telegram from Little in which the latter stated that the decision was the worst ever given, and he would have been cheated had the referee called it a draw.

Jimmy Clabby, the Hammond middleweight, intends to take a rest at French Lick Springs. Clabby will go to the resort tomorrow and after a short stay there will be open to offers from the promoters. Larney Lichtenstein, Clabby's manager, yesterday said that the Hoosier scrapper's next bout undoubtedly would be against Mike Gibbons over the twenty round route at New Orleans.

Medals for Amateurs.

The Sportsmen's club is going to reward the amateur boxers who went to Cleveland and carried off honors in the recent Central A. A. U. championships. It was announced yesterday that President Pugh had arranged with William Schridde of the trophy committee for three watch fob emblems, which will be presented to Wideman, Frank Gibbons, and Joe Berger. Wideman won the 158 pound championship, while Gibbons took the title in the 115 pound class. Berger distinguished himself by winning all his preliminary bouts, only to lose in the final by a narrow margin after an extra round had been fought.

Cincinnati promoters yesterday matched "Knockout" Brown, the local Greek middleweight, to fight "Sailor" Czarnanski on Feb. 15. They will go ten rounds.

'Watch for Golden Smile; Take It Dead or Alive.'

EL PASO, Tex., Feb. 2.—Jack Johnson will try to enter Mexico through the United States disguised as a sleeping car porter. This was the information received by immigration officials here today, who were warned to keep an eye open for a husky porter possessing a remarkable collection of gold teeth. A special officer went on duty at the Union station today to watch for Johnson and to nab him in case he endeavors to reach Juarez for his fight with Jess Willard by the porter route.

GOT YOUR SEAT FOR BOUT? SOME $5 AND OTHERS $25.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 2.—The syndicate which on March 6 is to stage the world's championship battle between Jack Johnson and Jess Willard isn't going to play a piker game. This was indicated today when an announcement of the price of seats was made. The cheapest seat within the racetrack at Juarez, in which the fight will be held, will cost $5, while the highest priced pasteboards which enable their holders to sit at the ringside will cost $25. The seats in the regular racetrack grand stand are the ones which will sell for $5, as they are farthest from the ring. There are plenty of other seats costing $20, $15, and $10. With all the seats occupied the house would be worth $100,000.

WILLIAMS BEATS WALLACE.

New York, Feb. 2.—Kid Williams, the bantamweight title holder, battered Eddie Wallace in a ten round session tonight, but was unable to score a clean knockout.

At the finish Wallace had a gash over his left eye, which was puffed, his nose was swollen out of proportion, and his lips were cut and bleeding. Williams scarcely showed a mark of the battle. Williams weighed 110½ pounds and Wallace 120¾.

Williams scored a clean knock down in the fifth round and had Wallace distressed and very weak in the seventh and ninth rounds.

SHIP BILL TOPIC AT MEETING OF COMMERCE MEN

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—With the meeting of the national council this afternoon, the third annual convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was formally opened.

Most of the 619 delegates from every state in the union have arrived and in the hotel lobbies tonight the chief topic was the ship purchase bill. The question of how to build up the merchant marine of the United States is to be the principal matter under consideration by the convention and will be the subject of a joint debate between Secretary McAdoo and Senator Burton of Ohio, who is opposed to the administration government ownership scheme.

Wilson to Speak Tonight.

President Wilson will address the convention at a special business meeting tomorrow night and it is presumed that he will make the ship purchase bill one of the chief topics in his speech.

To cap the climax, there will be a report on merchant marine by a special committee of the chamber. This report has been approved by the board of directors and a vote of the delegates on it will be taken.

The adoption of a national budget system was urged today by Harvey S. Chase of Boston, a member of the commission on economy and efficiency appointed by President Taft. His address was received with much enthusiasm.

Big Chicago Delegation.

There is a large delegation from Chicago to attend the convention. Among those who have already registered are:

Association of Commerce—Charles L. Dering, John J. Arnold, Thomas Creigh, William E. Lamb, J. F. Nickerson, A. W. Shaw, John T. Stockton. Board of trade—Hiram N. Sager. Chicago typothetae—T. E. Donnelly. Industrial club—Harry A. Wheeler. Lumbermen's association of Chicago—Herman H. Hettler. National Association of Box Manufacturers—E. H. Defebaugh. Millinery Jobbers' association—Frederick Bode and Samuel Ach. National Association of Tanners—T. E. Edward Wilder. National Association of Master Bakers—George N. Haffner.

In his address on the budget system Mr. Chase asserted there should be more attention to order and balance in appropriations. He declared that the national revenue under the indirect tax system is uncertain in amount and usually in excess of actual needs. This annual surplus, he said, has afforded standing inducements for congressional extravagances.

Provides Budget Message.

The remedy, in Mr. Chase's opinion, lies in an annual budget message from the president to congress. In such a message there would be a careful estimate of revenues for the coming year, with an indication of the total amount which might be expected to be available. Against this would be shown the fixed charges, such as interest on bonds and expenditures for pensions. There would be deduction, too, of annual requirements for upkeep and maintenance of public property and of unavoidable expenditures for the army and navy, for the continuance of engineering projects of great importance, and the like.

Moving Picture Stocks.

A. G.—Moving picture stocks are not listed and there is little reliable information to be had about most of them. There are three great distributors of films—viz., the General, the Universal, and the Mutual. The General preferred stock pays 7 per cent a year and is quoted at 52 bid, 55 asked. The common is not obtainable, as it is closely held and bids as high as 2,500 are said to have been made. The Mutual pays 1 per cent a month and is quoted at 76 bid, 77½ asked. The Universal common is quoted at 155 bid. It has paid dividends at various rates. There are other smaller distributors and many companies that produce films and sell them to the distributors. The most profitable of these producing companies are owned each by a few individuals and have no stock on the market. The New York Motion Picture company formerly paid 2 per cent a month, but owing to the fact that a part of its output was sold in Europe and the war closed this market, and also to the fact that it has been building a new factory it suspended dividends. There are many new promotions offering their stock for sale. Several are announcing to prospective buyers that they expect to be the fourth great distributor of films. There are numerous companies also organizing for the production of films. Some of them may get on a paying basis at some time, but with the field well filled and competition severe, they have a hard struggle before them. The shares of all the untried ones are purely speculative.

Masonic Protective Association.

E. A. L.—The Masonic Protective association of Worcester, Mass., began business in 1895 as an assessment order. In 1909 it became a stock company with $100,000 capital. It writes accident and health policies on Masons exclusively. Its underwriting operations have shown a profit. Losses have been high, but expenses are moderate. The annual report of Dec. 31, 1913, showed $427,334 assets. Surplus over all liabilities was $174,562. Premium receipts for the year were $393,965; losses and claim expense, $201,100; commissions, $29,386; all other underwriting expense, $81,310; underwriting profit, $37,687.

Brief Answers.

H. F. L., East Chicago, Ind.—Any reputable broker will buy you three or four shares of Steel common. Brokers on the Chicago exchange get a minimum commission of $2. The stock is speculative. An early resumption of dividends on it is not generally expected.

R. E. C.—The Central Live Stock Insurance company began writing insurance only three months ago. It is incorporated for $100,000, part of which is invested in mortgages and part is in banks. The directors are residents of various small towns near Kankakee.

X. Y. Z.—The trust deed or mortgage which secures a bond issue runs to some corporation, not to the bondholders. This corporation is the trustee. The trustee does not guarantee the loan, but it is the duty of the trustee to see that all the conditions of the trust deed are fulfilled and in case of default it is the trustee who brings suit to foreclose.

G. C. N.—The stock of the Boulder-Tungsten Production company is speculative. There is only a nominal market for it. Shares are offered in Denver at 15 cents.

N. W.—Illinois Central stock is all of one class.

OLD SHOE HOUSE PURCHASED

The Harrison-Barton Shoe company announced yesterday that it has succeeded the Harry H. Lobdell company of 210 West Monroe street, one of the oldest wholesale shoe houses in Chicago. The new company is capitalized for $220,000, all paid in.

George E. Harrison, for many years associated with the Lobdell firm, is president. Samuel O. Barton, formerly associated with the W. H. McElwain company of Boston, is secretary and treasurer.

Lawler's Death Held Accidental.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of accidental death at the inquest over the body of Michael O. Lawler, 3619 Indiana avenue, who was suffocated in his burning house Monday night.

RECORD MONTH IN EXPORT TRADE

LAST WEEK A GOOD ONE

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—Foreign trade from Jan. 2 to Jan. 30 through the thirteen principal customs ports which handle approximately 86 per cent of the nation's export and import business netted a balance in favor of the United States of $131,133,888, exceeding all records for any one month.

The total of exports for the four weeks, Jan. 2 to 30, was $238,574,096, or an average of $59,643,524 per week. The imports were $107,440,208, or an average of $26,860,052 per week.

Gain Will Be Larger.

Officials of the department of commerce said tonight these figures represented only telegraphic returns from the principal customs ports and that when complete reports were received from throughout the service the volume of business transacted last month would show a material increase—about 14 per cent—over the present figures.

Of the four weeks mentioned the last, ended Jan. 30, produced a favorable balance of $35,901,535. According to the department's records this shows the largest excess of exports over imports for any similar period for more than ten years. Exports for this week totaled $63,668,139 and imports $27,766,604.

See Big Excess for Year.

It was said by officials that the year 1908 produced the largest yearly excess of exports over imports, the figures being approximately $666,000,000. If the January rate of exports and imports continues during the calendar year 1915, it was pointed out, an excess of more than $1,500,000,000 would result.

Cotton exported during the week ended Jan. 30 amounted to 387,775 bales, making a total of 2,250,699 bales for the last eight weeks.

$750 FOR RIDING ON PASS.

Judge Carpenter in the United States District court yesterday fined Abraham D. Rothschild of 5308 Calumet avenue, a traveling salesman, $750 for violating the interstate commerce laws by riding on the Lake Shore railroad on a pass issued to an employé. Rothschild paid the fine.

Fined for Giving Short Weights.

Frank Colotta, 454 North Racine avenue, a peddler, was fined $25 and costs by Judge Uhlir yesterday on a charge of having given short weights. His scales were found to be one pound short.

How much more than this—— —have you paid for DEPENDABLE Tires?

Do you know that—
—The largest Rubber Factory in the world is that of the B. F. Goodrich Co.?
—That it buys more Crude Rubber yearly than any other Rubber Factory in the World?
—That it Manufactures more than 90,000,000 pounds of Rubber Goods yearly?
—That it pays one-sixth of all the Taxes in the 100,000-populated City of Akron, although 15 other Rubber Concerns are located there.
—That it has had 45 years of Experience in learning how to get the most Service out of Rubber, at the lowest Cost?

Well,—all this has to do with its ABILITY and DISPOSITION to give Consumers the greatest Mileage in Tires, for their Cost to Tire-Users.

It also has to do with a sincere desire, on its part, to put "down" the Padded Price-Lists that have so long made the Tire Industry a subject for Suspicion on the part of Tire-Users.

Here we bring OUR Price-List down to the basis on which we can still afford to sell the best Tires ever made with Fabric—and the best we ever made, in our 45 years of Rubber-Working development.

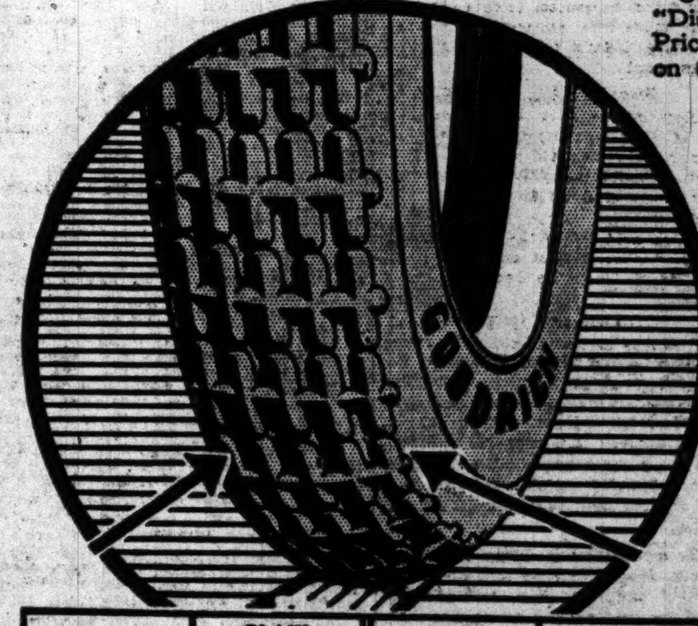

In order that you may promptly appreciate the wide differences in Tire-Prices, by different Manufacturers (of same Plain-Tread Type), same size and approximately same claims for Mileage and quality, we here print the Price-List prices on 34x4—by nine representative Makers.

President Wheeler's Remarks.

At the annual meeting in New York yesterday Henry R. Hoyt, F. S. Wheeler, and J. H. Moore were elected directors. In his report to the shareholders President F. S. Wheeler said among other things:

"The earnings for the year are shown after reductions in the inventory made necessary by declines in value of the company's principal raw materials. There has also been charged against operation $400,946 to cover expenditures for improvements and betterments to various plants which did not actually increase productive capacity. New constructions and new equipment clearly chargeable to capital account amounted to $1,651,428, chiefly at the following places: Chicago, Joliet, Baltimore, Detroit, Fairport, and Vancouver."

New York State Bonds.

Announcement comes from New York that the state is making arrangements to issue $27,000,000 4½ per cent bonds. Of the total amount it is reported that $8,000,000 are to be canal bonds and the remainder highway bonds. On the New York curb the new issue was 102 bid and 105 asked.

Sears-Roebuck Sells Off.

Sears-Roebuck common sold off on the local stock exchange to a close at 205⅜. Part of the trading was credited to realizing sales. The market is taking into consideration the fact that with the distribution of $20,000,000 the surplus account will stand at $3,440,969. It becomes a question of how high the shares will sell ex-dividend. It will require a number of years to build up another surplus to be capitalized for any considerable amount. In some quarters the action of the directors in making the stock distribution a large one is favorably commented on since it for several years will eliminate the annual period of guessing and market operations based on rumors of a prospective "melon." If there is no melon to be cut there will be no talk of one.

Union Carbide was strong. The price advanced on the usual talk of an increase in dividend rate or a stock distribution.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool.

Chicago Pneumatic Tool worked lower on the showing made in the annual report. It was not a favorable exhibit, and it is no fault of the company's that the market has assumed that earnings were equal to about 8 per cent while dividends paid were only 4 per cent. It may be said that after the war is over there may be a large foreign demand for the company's tools during the process of reconstruction.

STOCKS STRONG IN WALL STREET

British Stand on Food Exports Brings About Recessions.

SEARS-ROEBUCK FALLS.

New York, Feb. 2.—Stocks were consistently strong for the better part of today's session on the exchange, but dealings were relatively light. This condition prevailed despite another spectacular rise in wheat and adverse weather conditions.

Best prices were registered in the later operations, but recessions were general toward the end, when it became known that the British government had declared its intention to regard all foodstuffs shipped to its enemies as contraband.

Early Foreign Selling.

There was some early selling of Canadian Pacific and other international shares, which seemed to proceed from London, where our securities again manifested an uncertain tone. Latest developments in the war were reflected in the uncertain attitude of the British and French markets. Selling of gilt edged securities was a feature at both centers with little effect, however, on our markets for foreign exchange.

Less than the usual number of specialties participated in today's movement, but among these Sears-Roebuck was prominent for a sharp decline from its recent rise. American Can sold off on publication of the annual report showing a decrease in net earnings. The company's balance for 1914 was slightly more than in the previous year, but that was because no appropriation had been made for improvement of the property.

Moderate Buying of Loans.

Local and interior financial institutions bought moderately of commercial paper, but the low rates for these contracts are now on a par with ruling quotations for time loans on collateral. An indication of the widespread ease of money is found in the fact that Chicago is quoting the same rates for commercial paper as prevail in this market.

Northern Pacific was the only important railway system to submit its statement of December earnings. It showed a net loss of $461,000. Numerous minor lines also showed decreases in net for the month, with reduced operating expenses.

Bonds were firm, the feature being American Telephone 4½s, which touched a record figure. Total sales (par value) were $2,040,000. U. S. bonds were unchanged on call.

Mercantile paper, 3½@4. Sterling exchange weak; 60 day bills, 4.8265; for cables, 4.8475; for demand, 4.8435. Bar silver, 48⅝c. Mexican dollars, 37¼c. Time loans easy; 60 days, 2½@2¾; 90 days, 2¾@3; six months, 3@3¼. Call money easy; high, 2; low, 1; ruling rate, 1¾; last loan, 2; closing bid, 1¾; offered at 2.

IN FOREIGN STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Money and discount rates were quiet today. Business did not expand on the stock exchange owing to the belief that minimum prices will shortly be lowered in some directions. Home rails were irregular after their recent advance, but the war loan and other allied bonds and oil shares showed a good number of markings. American securities opened steady and a fraction higher. Later a part of the improvement was lost, but in the last hour renewed support helped the list and made the closing steady. Bar silver, 22⅝d per ounce. Money, 1 per cent. Discount rates—Short bills and three months, 1½@1 9-16 per cent.

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—The reichbank statement, issued today, shows that the stock of gold increased $4,675,750, making the total on hand $540,988,250. Cash on hand decreased $19,011,750, loans increased $895,500, discounts increased $15,965,500, treasury bills increased $123,500, note circulation increased $43,725,000, and deposits decreased $42,994,000.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Trading was inactive on the bourse today. Rentes, 73 francs 25 centimes. Exchange on London, 25 francs 19 centimes.

COFFEE AND SUGAR.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—After a very quiet morning the market for coffee futures weakened under liquidation and a little trade selling which may have been inspired by the continued free Brazilian movement and talk of a slightly easier tone in the cost and freight market. First prices were unchanged to 2 points lower and the market closed at a net decline of 6 to 13 points in the absence of any important support. Sales, 8,250 bags. Closing bids: February, 5.97c; March, 6.01c; April, 6.10c; May, 6.19c; June, 6.17c; July, 7.19c; August, 7.30c; September, 7.39c; October, 7.45c; November, 7.51c; December, 7.58c. Spot irregular; Rio 7s, 7¼@8¼c; Santos 4s, 9⅝@10c. Milreis prices in the Rio market were 75 reis lower, but Rio exchange on London was 1-16d higher, and Santos was unchanged. Brazilian port receipts, 75,000 bags; Jundiahy receipts, 44,000 bags. Rio cleared 14,000 bags for New York. SUGAR—Futures: February, 3.38c; May, 3.58c; June, 3.67c; September, 3.83c. A Very Important Provision in Your Will is the naming of its executor and of a trustee to handle your estate. Upon their trustworthiness and ability depends the carrying out of all other provisions. There are exceptional individuals who are competent to do this important work; the average individual is not. He may be a good business man and acquainted with finance, but he does not have the investing experience nor the facilities of a large Trust Company.

Why burden a friend or a member of your family with cares of this sort when by naming this Company you can secure for your heirs the most competent service obtainable and at very moderate cost.

THE POLICY OF THE CHICAGO TITLE AND TRUST COMPANY

in adhering to first mortgages on improved Chicago real estate as the safest investment for trust funds has been justified by the fall in price of other classes of securities.

It is worth the trouble of inspecting and valuating real estate to be assured that no impairment of the principal of trust funds can occur in troublous times.

It is worth while to have investments that fall due in three or five years so that frequent reviews of the security and general business situation may be made to determine whether it is best to collect and reinvest or extend time of payment.

WHEAT FUTURES SOAR SKYWARD

ITALY TAKES BIG LINE.

Previous advances in May wheat were small, compared to the upturn yesterday, when the near future sold up to $1.65, a gain for the day of 8⅝c, with the closing price at the top. The May sold at $1.60½ at the opening and later advanced rapidly in the late trade, stop loss buying and a continued commission house demand being the main influences in the trade. The July closed at $1.43, an advance for the day of 5½c.

Spot prices at Liverpool were 5@6d higher and this gave the market its first stimulus. Later there was heavy buying on the announcement the Italian government had bought 1,000,000 bu No. 2 hard winter wheat. This cash purchase on top of reports of big sales late Monday to foreign governments squelched the bears and there was little opposition to the late advance. The big advance has neither checked the foreign buying nor stimulated any country selling.

Cash Prices Relatively Firm.

Cash prices were higher in all markets and No. 2 red sold on track at $1.63, or 3c higher than it sold in the Patten year, when it was at a tremendous premium over May wheat. Kansas City reported mills and exporters buying all the cash wheat, St. Louis sold 165,000 bu No. 2 red for export, and Minneapolis sold wheat all rail to the seaboard. Country sales continue astonishingly light, in view of the high prices obtainable.

The advance at Liverpool was due to the upturn on this side and to the possibility of the shipments of foodstuffs being interfered with. Private cables said the demand for cash wheat abroad was unabated. Argentine wheat is now being offered about 10c lower than American wheat. The advance in wheat has wiped out the advantage due to the higher Argentine freight rates.

World's stocks are now about 23,000,000 bu less than a year ago, showing a decrease of 1,748,000 bu, compared to a decrease of 1,247,000 bu a year ago.

Stop Loss Buying Factor.

Buying of wheat was led by commission houses early, and at no time was there enough pressure on the market to cause more than small reactions. Logan-Bryan, Knight-McDougal, and Wagner led the buying. Local sellers of indemnities were forced to buy on the advance, and this had much to do with the late strength.

Receipts here were 150 cars, with 81 cars inspected yesterday. Primary receipts were 641,000 bu, against 952,000 bu a year ago. Clearances for the day were liberal at 844,000 bu. Northwest points had 310 cars, or 100 cars more than a year ago, and Winnipeg had 136 cars, compared to 179 cars a year ago.

The flour trade was fairly active, and the top price was quoted $7.80. Northwest reports indicated light offerings from the country.

Free Selling in Corn Pit.

Corn selling was on a free scale, and, but for the strength in wheat, traders would have been more inclined to be bearish. Final prices were ⅝c to ¾@⅞c higher. Commission houses were free sellers. The cash market was slow, with prices steady to ¼c higher, and sales were only 50,000 bu. The seaboard reported a slow demand, and local dealers said there was but little demand either for export or domestic account.

Shipping sales here were only 50,000 bu. Country sales were moderate. Receipts here were 563 cars, with 263 cars inspected yesterday. Primary receipts were 1,297,000 bu, compared to 797,000 bu a year ago. Clearances were 189,000 bu. Offerings were free in the pit on all the swells, and buying was not particularly aggressive. World's stocks showed an increase for the week of 4,374,000 bu. Cables were 1@2d up.

Heavy Late Buying of Oats.

Chapin was a big buyer of oats late in the day, and this with the strong wheat market closed the market firm. Prices at the finish were ⅝@⅞@1c up, the May again gaining a little on the July. The cash demand was slow and the seaboard reported but little inquiry from the other side.

Receipts here were 302 cars, with 194 cars inspected yesterday, and primary receipts were 736,000 bu, against 595,000 bu a year ago. Cash sales for shipment were 60,000 bu. Purchases to arrive were fair and there was quite a little hedging pressure. Armour, Bartlett-Frazier, and commission houses in general had oats for sale on the rally early.

Hog Products Show Strength.

Hog products developed a good deal of strength. Hog prices were 10@15c higher and there were smaller receipts than expected here, 11,000, with 18,000 expected today. Western points had 86,000, against 119,600 a year ago. Outsiders are credited with buying pork, grain, and stock houses being a factor, and offerings were light. Lard and ribs showed more strength.

The week's hog packing was estimated at 298,000 more than a year ago. Cash sales were light and prices were about steady. Liverpool prices were unchanged for meats and 3d up for cash lard. Receipts of products here were 44 cars and shipments were 84 cars.

Rye Prices Up Sharply.

Rye prices made further sharp gains and No. 2 closed at $1.32 bid after selling at $1.30. Receipts, 4 cars.

Barley was firm, with malting 84@90c; feed, 82½@84c, and screenings, 77@78½c. Receipts, 36 cars.

Timothy seed was easy at $8.00 sellers for March and $5.50@7.00 for cash lots. Clover seed was quiet at $10.00@15.00 for cash.

Duluth flax closed 1⅜c higher, with May $1.91½. Winnipeg was 1⅜c higher, with May $1.70 and July $1.71½. Receipts, 25 cars.

NEWS AND GOSSIP OF BOARD OF TRADE.

May wheat is up 16⅝c from the close Friday night, and traders who sold out at different times in the last few days expecting a reaction have been disappointed. Yesterday there was an advance of 8⅝c; Monday prices were up 4⅝c, and Saturday there was an advance of 3½c. The trade in May is narrowing down considerably, and any heavy buying or selling makes quick changes in prices. Commission houses are calling for big margins. Last night the top price for offers on May was $1.85, while the bids sold at $1.53, making a spread of 32c, and showing the nervousness prevailing. Traders will not be surprised now at any figure at which wheat may sell. There is but little wheat in Chicago on which to trade, as most of the small stock here has been sold already. At no time in the history of the trade has the wheat market been in such a strong position as at present, according to cash men. Spot wheat prices are following the futures in all markets, stocks are decreasing, and the farmers are selling less wheat now than when prices were much lower.

A big factor in putting up wheat prices yesterday was the purchase of 1,000,000 bu No. 2 hard wheat by the Italian government. This went to show that the high prices now prevailing were no bar to extensive buying. Late Monday there were big sales of wheat reported at the seaboard to different governments abroad. Local sales were 150,000 bu No. 2 red for export. The milling demand here was slow, but this did not make much difference, as there was not much wheat for sale. Cash prices at Chicago were firm relative to the future. Some dealers reported a little more wheat offered from th country, but on the whole the sales to arrive were extremely light. St. Louis quoted cash wheat 4@5c up; Omaha, 5c up, and at Minneapolis the cash market was up with the May, maintaining about same difference as recently.

Broomhall cabled: "United Kingdom—The weather has turned rainy after a week of fine clear weather which allowed resumption of sowing. France—Weather rather better. Scarcity of labor hinders thrashing. Germany—Claimed that the crop is not good; climatic conditions only moderate. Russia—Snow is said to be sufficient and later has been reported that conditions are favorable. Roumania—Weather seasonable; moderate snowfall. Austria-Hungary—Question of bread supply difficult; weather moderate. Argentina—Weather fine; predicted that wheat movement will be rather slow until next April. India—Good prospects maintained. Wheat holders are very firm; steady business."

S. B. Arnot calls attention to the fact the visible supply of corn is now 34,156,000 bu, with Chicago stocks of 17,127,000 bu. The present stocks of corn at Chicago are larger than the total visible on Feb. 1 any time in the last thirteen years. Local stocks are more than twice as large as at any time in the same period on Feb. 1. The total visible is also more than twice as large as at any time in the same period on Feb. 1.

The shipping demand for corn was slow, most of the shippers saying there was little demand either for domestic or export account. New York reported resellers offering corn at ½c under Chicago May price. This was less than it could be bought for here, freight added. Prices for corn were unchanged to ¼c up and oats were unchanged to ½c up. Country offerings were small of corn and fair of oats.

Local wheat traders were interested in the fact the federal government officials have summoned the local elevator people to bring their books into the United States court to show their part in the distribution and accumulation of wheat. This is supposed to be for the purpose of discovering whether the operations of the elevator men have had any bearing on the lifting of prices.

The high price for No. 2 red winter wheat made during the Patten deal in 1909 was distanced yesterday when a car of No. 2 red sold at $1.63 and nominal prices were 1@1½c over the May, which sold up to $1.65. In the Patten deal the high price for No. 2 red winter was $1.60.

The Daily Farmers and Drovers' Journal's year book of figures, giving statistical information on live stock and board of trade markets, was issued yesterday. Jay R. Brown is the compiler.

There is considerable dickering on spring wheat cargoes to come to Chicago. Wheat is being offered on attractive basis for spring shipment to Chicago.

Western packing of hogs for the week was estimated by the Drovers Journal at 779,000, against 676,000 the previous week and 501,000 a year ago.

World's stocks of wheat as reported by Bradstreet show a total of 183,726,000 bu, against 206,855,000 bu a year ago.

St. Louis sold 165,000 bu No. 2 red wheat at $1.60 for export. May wheat was $1.57 at the time.

Hog prices at Chicago yesterday advanced 10@20c to the highest level touched since the middle of January and topped at $7.10. Receipts were posted at only 10,000 head, which was the principal reason for the upturn in values. The trade was active, within a range of $6.90@7.05 for the bulk, and the market closed firm at the full upturn, with nothing left in the pens unsold. Small packers led the buying, but big killers showed little hesitancy in following.

Firmness also pervaded the market for cattle, receipts of which were 1,000 head. Local packers had orders for all the offerings and paid strong prices for steers and 10c higher for cows and heifers. Veal calf receipts of 500 head fell short of requirements and prices advanced 25@50c. Prime vealers topped at $11.00.

Sheep were scarce, while moderate offerings of yearlings and lambs sold at an advance of 25c over Monday's prices. Total receipts were posted at 5,000 head. Lambs topped at $9.10. There were no prime yearlings on sale, but they were quoted up to $8.00, with best on hand going over the scales at $7.85. Wethers were quotable up to $7.00.

DEPUTY'S POSTAL TRICK TRAPS GIRL IN OLEO CASE.

By means of a registered package addressed to Helen Faber federal authorities accomplished the arrest yesterday of an alleged accomplice in the oleomargarine frauds by which the New City Produce company of 3026 Lincoln avenue is said to have swindled the government out of large sums of money. Attempts to arrest Helen Faber have been made for two weeks, but she had succeeded in eluding the deputy marshals.

An empty wooden box was carefully wrapped and stamped with a special delivery stamp. It was put through the postoffice in the regular manner and when the special delivery boy was sent to the store with the package Deputy Marshal Maurice Klein stood outside the door of the store while the special delivery boy asked for Miss Faber. Attempts were made to receive the package for her, but the boy insisted on delivering it in person. When she appeared the deputy marshal placed her under arrest.

When brought before Commissioner Lewis F. Mason she was released on $1,000 bonds and her case set for Feb. 4.

WILLS ESTATE TO WIDOW.

The will of Frank T. Crawford, 866 Buena avenue, who committed suicide recently by jumping from a window of his home while suffering from illness, filed for probate yesterday, disposes of an estate estimated at more than $100,000. His widow, Mrs. Mari Mills Crawford, daughter of the late Luther Laflin Mills, is sole beneficiary.

Specials in the February Sale of Silk Petticoats:

New Jersey and Taffeta Silk Petticoats at $3.95

Soft Messaline Silk Petticoats at $2.95

A sale prepared with care and thought throughout. This is evident everywhere, in the charming new styles, the attractive colorings, the splendid quality of the silks and above all in the extraordinary values prevailing.

So it is only by way of suggestion we sketch these three petticoats—for all the others are as splendidly worthy of emphasis.

The Messaline Petticoats at $2.95

The Taffeta Souple Petticoats at $3.95

The Jersey Silk Petticoats at $3.95

And the colorings are legion. Deep rich dark shades, the new neutral grays and tans, delicate lighter tints and dashingly bright colors to contrast with the gown or suit.

Third Floor—North Room.

The February Sales of Infants' Wear Present

Four Lovely New Little Smocked Dresses

At $1.55, $2.50, $2.95 and $3.50

Fresh and crisp and daintily fine—and so adorably "different" from everything else, these newest little smocked dresses are being introduced to Chicago mothers in their own little corner of the Infants' Wear Sections. And above are their pictures:

It's of the softest, sheerest material and the quaint smocking delicately circles neck and sleeves. In sizes from 6 months to 3 years.

A simple little frock made very beautiful by the combining of smocking and hand-worked dots at front, back, and sleeves. In sizes from 1 to 4 years.

It's hard to stop with these four. There are so many beautiful baby things here—other frocks, white, and colored ones with knickers to match, rompers and creepers, coats and hats, all the accessories which go to make Baby's Outfitting complete and comfortable.

Third Floor—North Room.

AMBITIOUS CHICAGO WOMEN never let a morning pass without a careful reading of THE TRIBUNE. They know they can't afford to.
